STEEL ROW UP TO ROOSEVELT

Today

About Crime.
John Bull's Slice.
Cock-Fights for Pleasure.
NRA Costs Money.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GOV. LEHMAN, of New York, says:

"Professional gang elements preying upon lawful industry have grown to such proportions that drastic measures are immediately needed."

Mr. Mulrooney, formerly police commissioner of New York, wants "an American devil's island" to discourage racketeers, and advocates the use of the lash.

GEN. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER has a plan that would discourage racketeering and gangsters, but nobody pays attention to it.

No terrified witnesses under his plan, no need to prove anything. It would be the gangster's duty to answer questions and prove that he had been earning a living otherwise than in crime, with jail as the alternative.

A GRAND jury official tells Senator Copeland that witnesses against gangsters "stand before us terrified, perspiration standing out upon them, afraid to speak out."

Racketeers, it seems, keep spies around the grand jury room and whoever talks is quickly punished.

AGENTS OF the United States government are showing "regular policemen" how to catch criminals and make kidnaping and murder unsafe. The most important capture is that of Harvey Bailey, accused of the wholesale massacre of four police officers and one prisoner in Kansas City.

Mr. Bailey had said:

"I shall never be taken alive."

But when waking from a sound sleep, he looked into the barrel of a machine gun, he said:

"Well, it looks like it's just too bad, doesn't it?"

And offered his wrists to the handcuffs.

For him it may be much too bad, as he is wanted for murder, connected with kidnaping in Missouri. There the penalty for either crime is death, and they inflict it.

MR. LAWES, warden of Sing Sing Prison, says of crime conditions:

"If we don't declare martial law, conditions will lead to lynch law, then we must declare martial law."

He says racketeers can be suppressed in sixty days, and "if I were a Mussolini, I could do it in thirty days."

He might have said "fifteen days." But where is the Mussolini?

TO BUILD up a big fortune in England is to work for old John Bull. He takes his share when you die, the bigger the fortune the bigger his percentage! Sir John Reeves Ellerman has just died, leaving more than 17 million pounds in cash and government securities, and the government gets eight million, six hundred thousand pounds of inheritance tax. The total estate will be about 30 million pounds, meaning another seven or eight million pounds for the government.

OUR GOV. GORE, using a pen made of a quill pulled from the tail of a famous fighting cock, has signed a bill making cock-fighting legal in Porto Rico. Thus the Stars and Stripes "carry civilization" wherever they go.

Gov. Gore advised Porto Rico to organize "a cock-fight carnival each year to attract tourists."

The Governor can have no high opinion of tourists if he thinks they would travel so far to see one rooster drive an artificial steel spur into the brain of another. You can see more "amusing" things than that in any meat market.

GERARD SWOPE, president of the General Electric Company, announces, cheerfully enough, that NRA will cost his company real money. His men are working on a 36-hour basis. 40 hours for office workers.

The change, affecting 42,000 persons, will mean $8,000,000 more in wages and salaries and 2,000 more men put to work.

THAT THE fee for retailing "rum," which means whisky, gin, etc., will be $200 a month, is good news. It would be better news if the fee were $2,000 a month, if that could be done without too great encouragement of the bootleg industry.

FREDERICK STARR, formerly anthropologist at Chicago University, dead at the age of 74, had travelled all over the world, visited all kinds of savages, and said:

"I say definitely that I will live to 120."

But "man proposes."

Prof. Starr sympathized with Japan in her occupation of Manchuria, recalling that Manchuria was never an integral part of China, and that the great Chinese wall was built 2,000 years ago, especially to keep Manchurians out of China.

MORE SORROW for China. Yesterday dikes breaking on the Yellow River drowned 1,000 peasants in a few minutes. A city of 175,000 is menaced, and before these recent breaks, more than 10,000 square miles of territory were under water, with 150,000 homeless, in one region.

And the 400,000,000 Chinese fight each other and fight

KILLING OF 4 CONFESSED BY LAWYER

Auto Wreck Reveals Poisoning of Akron Family; Baby Lives

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A confession that he poisoned four members of a family was signed today by Mark H. Shank, an attorney of Akron, O., and police advanced as a motive the imminent arrest of one of the victims for getting papers for Shank from the Prosecuting Attorney's office in Akron in a forgery case against a client of Shank.

Colly and his wife and two sons, 7 and 11 years of age, were found dead and dying of poison on a highway near Malvern late yesterday after their car had crashed into a fence and Shank had fled into the woods.

SHANK'S CONFESSION

Shank confessed, authorities announced, in the following brief statement which he said he would amplify after he had some sleep:

"I am guilty of the murder of the four persons at Malvern by Poison and I only ask that you officers recommend to the courts that they grant me all the leniency possible."

The police said they found a letter from Shank in the clothing of one of the victims, Mrs Ethel Colley, advising her and her husband, Alvin, to "keep eyes open, mouth shut" and he would soon join them and "you will all be rich."

Colley was sought by Wayne County (Ohio) authorities on a warrant charging him with stealing receipts and other evidence from the office of Prosecuting Attorney Lyman R. Critchfield, Jr.,

Kidnap Net Again Set For Gang

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—A threat of death to John ("Jake the Barber") Factor and a wild dash into Southern Wisconsin by a posse of 50 heavily armed officers today followed the manhunt of yesterday when 250 policemen failed to catch two kidnapers of Factor.

The expedition was reported to have been undertaken at the request of the federal government under the belief that members of the Roger Touhy gang, reputed abductors of the wealthy stock manipulator, are in hiding in Wisconsin.

Meanwhile a heavy guard was maintained about Factor's suite in a Loop hotel, following an early morning telephone death threat to Factor, who yesterday attempted to pay his abductors a second installment of the ransom money.

Federal and city officials today concentrated on a hunt for Eugene Crotty, to whom the license plates on the kidnapers' abandoned car were issued.

ELUDE BIG NET

The massive police trap carefully set for a gang of wily kidnapers snapped futiley yesterday, but authorities today claimed new evidence of interlocking connections between organized abductors for ransom in far flung sections of the country.

Three days of preparation, the blue-printed scheming of city, county and federal authorities, efforts of 300 selected possemen from city, suburban and state's attorney's forces, with wireless squad car directing and airplanes soaring over the scene, went for naught yesterday as two members of a gang which sought a further $50,000 ransom installment from Factor carenned away in a burst of gun fire.

But out of the unhappy de-

Riordan Says Machine Pads Vote Assessment Rolls With Frauds

The Republican organization is engaged in a "racket" to fill up the books with illegal assessments, Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, charged today.

Riordan explained that 50 out of a bundle of 250 affidavits from the Second Ward were "phantoms." They were made out, he said, by non-citizens, out-of-town floaters and "small town politicians and their followers who go from one part of the city to another and become assessed several times."

His charge came after 11,000 persons had been assessed in the two weeks the special assessors sat in various parts of Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Clairton and Duquesne, according to a report of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

The County Commissioners yesterday were informed by representatives of "Regular Republican" organizations that there were still 10,000 persons in the city who had been missed by the assessors.

The Commissioners also promised Christ McCormick, independent leader of the Twenty-second Ward, North Side, that assessors would sit once again in the ward for the purpose of assessing those missed.

IN LINE FOR 'SECONDS'

Riordan reported to the Commissioners that in the Strip and lower North Side districts there have been many names placed on the books illegally. He declared that there are many signatures in the same handwriting, indicating that persons appeared in line more than once.

Riordan pointed out that in the Fourteenth and Nineteenth wards, the biggest wards in the city, there were only 420 additional names placed on the books. This he compared with the Fifth Ward, which had 1,458 additional names, and with the Twenty-second Ward, where there were 905 names placed on the books for investigation.

DIDN'T KNOW NAME

Riordan said he and his staff made personal investigations of the special sittings and found that men from the North Side were taken into the Fifth Ward to give their names to the assessors. He stated he talked to one person who had just made an affidavit to the assessor and that the man was unable to tell him under what name he had been assessed. He said the man went to a ward leader to get the information.

Of the 11,336 persons put on the books during the special assessment, 10,410 were in Pittsburgh.

WHITE HOUSE SETTING FOR SHOWDOWN

Schwab and Taylor See President in Code Fight

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. — (AP.) — President Roosevelt took over the helm today in an effort to smooth the dispute over a working code for the steel industry, while in other quarters of his administration the pressure was tightened to draw the oil, coal and automobile industries in line with the Blue Eagle.

Myron Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, joined a White House conference between the Chief Executive and his aides as they strove to bring the steel group under the shorter-hour, higher-wage agreement.

Although there was no immediate official statement, there were indications that Mr. Roosevelt was prepared to speak strongly to settle the difficulties that have delayed the steel code of fair competition.

GREEN SNUBBED

Officials at NRA headquarters busily conferred, meanwhile, with spokesmen for the other three groups.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who angrily protested yesterday that steel magnates had walked out on a meeting because he was present, was willingly received today at the conference of leaders in the automobile industry.

As in the case of steel, Green was designated by the Labor Advisory Board to represent it at discussions of the automobile code on which hearings begin on Friday.

Some of the steel men meanwhile were conferring in committees and did not return immediately to the Labor Department where yesterday's rift with Green occurred.

Secretary Perkins whose invitation brought the labor president to the steel gathering, remained silent on Green's assertion that steel's attitude was a challenge to the government.

3 FOUND SLAIN IN AUTO

RAVEN, Va., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A triple tragedy faced Buchanan County officers today with only meager evidence to aid them in attempting its solution.

The bodies of three men, all victims of bullet wounds, were held at Grundy awaiting identification. In the shirt of one of the victims $400 in currency was found sewed.

Papers found on one of the bodies bore the name of J. H. Akers, deputy sheriff, of Princeton, W. Va., and other papers were found bearing the names of O. L. Hickman and Leo C. Webb, the former of Widenmouth, and the latter of Tioga, W. Va.

Indications were that the driver was shot and as he slumped over the wheel the car went over a bank and the others were killed. In the car were a woman's dress, hat and other articles of feminine attire. Mrs. Australian Jester, who found the bodies, reported that sometime during the night she heard a woman scream and heard five shots in quick succession. Officers are of the opinion there was a woman and perhaps a fourth man in the car.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—J. H. Akers, whose name was found on papers on the body of a man shot to death in an automobile in Buchanan County, Va., last night, is a deputy sheriff in Mercer County.

Speedy War Plane Developed by Navy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—The Navy has developed a new fighting seaplane which is second to none in the world, Secretary of the Navy Swanson announced today. He added:

"We are highly satisfied with its speed, endurance and fighting qualities. We think it is as good as any in the world, but details of it are a secret."

Vote for Repeal, Garner Tells Texas

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Vice President John N. Garner appealed to Texans to vote for repeal of national prohibition at a special election August 26.

In a letter to Roy Miller, Texas director of the Democratic national campaign, the Vice President, who is at his Uvalde home, stated his views.

ZECK 'KIDNAPED' IN COURT

Before his counsel had time to take an appeal, Bennie Zeck, 25, was whisked out of a courtroom today and started for Cleveland where he is under indictment on a robbery charge.

Attorney A. M. Oliver, representing Zeck, who police say, figured in an attack last year on Tom Walsh in the First Ward constable feud, charged politics and a frameup to take Zeck as Hymie Martin was kidnaped and rushed to Cleveland."

Oliver had sought to have Zeck released from jail on habeas corpus proceedings. Judge Elder W. Marshall refused the petition and, on extradition papers, turned Zeck over to Police Inspector Cornelius Cody, of Cleveland.

Peter Treadway, Cleveland gasoline station attendant, limped into the courtroom, and identified Zeck as the man who shot and robbed him July 24.

Two Fleeing Blast On Tanker Drowned

CLIFTON, N. J., Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Police and marine workers today grappled in the Passaic River for the bodies of Frank Haldane and Charles Miller, members of a tugboat crew believed to have drowned in attempting to escape from an explosion and fire which destroyed an oil barge and a 10,000-gallon oil tank.

The missing men were members of a crew of six on the tug which had towed the oil barge to a pier here. The tug captain and other seamen swam to safety.

U. S. Tourists Flee Quake in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16—(INS.)—A severe earthquake shook nearly every building in Mexico City early today, causing panic among the population.

Three hundred American tourists fled from hotels in their night clothes.

Insull's Wife Takes Secret Venice Trip

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Samuel Insull, wife of the former Chicago utilities operator, left for Venice today. To avoid publicity she kept her plans secret, and departed very unobtrusively.

Political Sign Painters Evade Police Via Radio

Enthusiastic supporters of Leonard A. Civill, a candidate for Alderman in the First Ward, led police a merry chase for several hours today.

Defying the recent edict of Mayor John S. Herron banning political signs and others from streets and city property, three men cruised the downtown section in an automobile equipped with a short wave radio receiver and painted sidewalks urging support for Civill.

Yellow paint, similar to that used by the city in marking streets, was used.

At Wood and Diamond streets, a bystander who witnessed the sign painting stunt told police that while two men were engaged at the task a third sat in the automobile.

Simultaneous with a police operators' announcement, which the bystander heard, the youth in the auto called to his companions:

"Hurry up, they are coming here next."

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Aug. 16.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and Brooklyn Dodgers were tied this afternoon in the first game of a doubleheader.

Larry French, crack lefthander, carried the Pittsburgh slab responsibility as the Buccos opened their eastern invasion. French was opposed by Van Mungo, fastball righthand recruit.

Gus Suhr's big bat put the Pirates out in front with two out in the fourth inning. Suhr tripled after Traynor had walked to score Pie.

About 5,000 fans were out for the first game.

Danny Taylor hit a homer to tie the game in the sixth.

The game in detail:

Ickes Turns Down P. O. for Home Town

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Another precedent was smashed under the "new deal" today when Secretary of Interior Ickes, as Administrator of Pulic Works, turned down a project for a postoffice in his home town of Winnetka, Il.

He remarked dryly he felt sure that among the things Winnetka did not need most was a new postoffice calling for $130,000.

Teachers Seek Code For Public Schools

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Application was made to the NRA today by the American Federation of Teachers for approval of a code for public schools and public school teachers.

The organization, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, said no agency of public service has suffered greater loss and demoralization in the economic depression than have the public schools. It asked a living wage, security of terms, decent working conditions and right to establish unions.

100 Believed Dead In Jamaica Storm

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—A death list approaching 100 was feared today as the result of a violent storm which swept Jamaica last night and early today.

Torrential rains caused widespread floods and destruction. Eight persons were known to have been killed in Kingston alone, while reports from the interior indicated heavy casualties.

Private Talks Back, Non-Com Kills Him

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Army officials announced today that Private Donald J. Zinn, of York, Pa., was shot and killed at Fort Slocum this morning by a corporal who resented "back talk." The corporal, Truman E. Smith, of Lima, O., also shot himself and physicians said he could not live.

MINE LOCKOUT BY BETHLEHEM

While arrival of a federal mediator was awaited to settle controversies that threaten renewal of coal mine strikes, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation apparently had taken a new tack to avoid uncertaintly through labor disputes.

The Bethlehem Mines Corporation closed its mines at Marianna, Cokeburg and Ellsworth, Washington County, throwing 2,000 miners out of work.

The Bethlehem corporation, according to notices posted at the pits, made a four-month contract with mines out of the state for a supply of coal to insure steady operation of its steel plants. The contract was rumored to have gone to southern nonunion operators.

Elmer F. Andrews, New York Labor Commissioner, has been designated to visit this district and study charges that coal companies are violating terms of the truce which led to settlement of the general strike two weeks ago.

Andrews left Washington for Uniontown by auto after a conference with the recovery administration's bituminous coal mediation board and a committee representing Gov. Pinchot.

One of his first problems will be the strike of 1,100 miners at Montour No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Library.

Father Cox Named NRA Board Member

Father James R. Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church, has been appointed a member of the Pennsylvania State Recovery Board. He received a telegram last night proferring the appointment from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, and at once wired his acceptance.

St. Rocco societies were celebrating with fireworks today the feast of St. Rocco, patron of the plague-stricken. Confessor and healer of the sick in the fourteenth century, the cult of St. Rocco enjoys great popularity in Italy.

Prices Guide Roosevelt On Inflation Policy

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Inquiries today at the White House on President Roosevelt's policy for inflation and a managed currency brought the response that there has been no change and that future action depends on conditions.

This was interpreted to mean that Mr. Roosevelt will only employ the inflationary powers in his hands as is necessary to maintain the steady and regular upward swing in prices, which he wants.

So far, Mr. Roosevelt apparently is satisfied with the pace upward. His charts have shown a general leveling off between prices and wages with the average of 1910 to 1914 now prevailing.

The level of about 1924 to 1926 is the goal. Mr. Roosevelt gave indications he would pull the levers as he sees fit to reach that standard in prices, wages and living.

STEEL ROW UP TO ROOSEVELT AT MEETING WITH LEADERS

SCHWAB, TAYLOR CALLED TO WHITE HOUSE FOR SHOWDOWN ON CODE

his attention for the moment to oil conversations. In another section of NRA headquarters coal men were gathering for talks with officials.

The leaders of the steel industry went to the White House to discuss the situation with Mr. Roosevelt after yesterday's conferences with Secretary Perkins and recovery officials over the facts governing wages. Data on such subjects as normal employment and wage differentials were reviewed.

Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson said:

"The problem was to reconcile the figures of Dr. Alexander Sachs, the Steel Corporation and Miss Perkins."

Sachs is Johnson's statistical expert.

Johnson, in discussing the steel code, said:

"I am not yet ready to make a recommendation and therefore I don't want to talk about it."

Asked whether a steel code could be expected soon, the general replied:

"I don't know. I never know until I have gone through the whole distance."

OIL VIEWS PREPARED

Johnson, during the morning, sent word to representatives of the oil industry that he would deliver to them tomorrow his views on the proposed code for the petroleum business, which has been delayed by differences and numerous rewritings.

The new oil proposal calls for provisions under which minimum prices could be established for crude petroleum and its products and maximum prices for gasoline, lubricating oil and other products when sold at retail, with their ratio to each other to be recommended.

NRA officials declined to comment, but they disclosed the code would not in itself set down the exact figures to be followed but would grant to a federal agency the power to recommend minimum and maximum prices with authority to act if the industry fails to co-operate.

PRICE CONTROL

The NRA and administration were represented today as wanting the industry to keep its house in order, but that should it fail to do so, the government would have power to prevent disastrous price-slashing wars or other unfair price tactics in the production end and to prevent exorbitant prices being charged the consuming public.

After a two-hour conference with automobile spokesmen Green said a "very fair attitude" had been exhibited by them while representatives of the industry said Green had shown a fine spirit of co-operation.

Green said progress was made on the automobile code and expressed the opinion that a satisfactory agreement would be reached after the hearings.

Today's session dealt chiefly with the hours of work proposed by the automobile industry namely, a 35-hour week with a 48-hour maximum during seasonal periods. Green said the principal issue involved the seasonal periods and whether they would operate to permit re-employment or whether on the other hand they might nullify any added employment.

HITS STEEL MEN

Returning to steel, from which conference he was excluded yesterday, Green said:

"If Johnson calls me in on a steel conference I'll go, of course. I couldn't be a slacker. In what I regard as an emergency, I'll continue to render my services.

"I regard their refusal to confer with me as representative of the steel maknates' fundamental opposition to organization of their employes. It was a symbol of that organization. But in this case I was present as a government representative just as much as Miss Perkins (Secretary of Labor). I was appointed by the administration as labor advisor and went there by Secretary Perkins' invitation.

"I'm of the opinion the administration will insist on substantial reductions in the hours proposed by steel."

The steel code recommends a 40-hour week but Green said the numerous exceptions virtually nullified this work week. The labor chieftain said he did not regard his exclusion from the steel conference as "personal."

Green said Henry Ford had not yet been heard from in connection with the proposed automobile code but that progress was being made. He said labor would insist that language in the code, adding to the collective bargaining provision of NRA some company union and open shop language, must go out.

TAYLOR, SCHWAB SILENT

Taylor and Schwab were with the President for about 45 minutes. Each declined to answer questions upon leaving the White House. They departed immediately for New York.

Organized labor has notified Johnson that labor is dissatisfied with modifications of presidential temporary codes now being approved with great rapidity, it was disclosed today.

The chief objection is that the great majority of the modifications approved by Johnson provide for a 40-hour week. This compares with the 35-hour week for industrial workers and 40 hours for office workers proposed by the President.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, said:

"We have been assured by the administration that approval of the 40-hour week in the blanket codes is no criterion for approval of permanent codes.

"The question is bound to come to a head soon. Labor cannot accept the 40-hour week. If we do, there will still be 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 unemployed with the Recovery Act fully functioning."

RECOVERY ACT UPHELD

The Recovery Act, keystone of the Roosevelt rehabilitation plan, weathered its first court test when Justice Joseph Cox, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, yesterday indirectly upheld the principle of the act because he believes that "all laws, including the Constitution, should be read in emergencies in the light of the law of necessity."

A group of oil refiners had sought an injunction to keep Secretary Ickes from enforcing orders prohibiting the interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of state regulations. The orders, they said, were unconstitutional.

Without directly discussing the constitutionality of these orders, issued under the Recovery Act, Justice Cox ruled:

"In the law it is recognized that necessity confers many rights and privileges that without the necessity might not be conferred. It is said that self-preservation is the first law, and this principle, in some degree at least, seems to extend to governments."

Cox said the Ickes orders "look as if they are the means of the Secretary carrying out the executive order of the President" and denied the plea for the injunction.

NEWSPAPER CODE

The latest industrial entry in the recovery campaign was newspapers. For them, Johnson approved a modification of the national re-employment agreement submitted by the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

Effective pending consideration of a permanent code, the plan prescribes, with exceptions, a 40-hour week and minimum salaries of from $12 to $15, among other things.

A code of fair competition for the electric railways and subsidiary bus lines was before the Recovery Administration. It provided a 40-hour week for off employes 44 for shop workers, 48 for carhouse and similar employes, and 48 hours for trainmen, bus operators and related transportation groups.

Johnson approved a modified agreement for the retail drug business. The modified code provides a 48-hour week, and an eight-hour day for seven-day week stores. Waiters may be employed 54 hours.

Store hours may not be reduced below 90 hours a week unless the hours were less before July 1. Minimum wages ranging from $12 a week in towns of less than 2,500 and $15 a week in towns over 500,000 population, with a $1 lower wage in the South, are provided.

HASSEL HOOKUP BARS BREWERY

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Opening a drive to keep Pennsylvania breweries free from racketeers' influence, the Alcohol Permit Board today revoked the permit of the Health Beverage Company, Reading.

In its order, the state licensing agency said testimony taken at hearings yesterday had furnished "sufficient proof" that the nominal owner, Samuel M. Lunine, has been connected with the late Max Hassel, beer runner who was shot to death recently at Elizabeth, N. J.

The permit revocation, the first since 3.2 beer became legal, cancels the beverage company's right to operate, and is effective at once.

Coincidentally, Schnader announced the board had refused the permit application of the Philipsburg Brewing Company, Philipsburg. This is the second refusal since 3.2 beer became legalized, and follows the board's recent refusal of a permit for the Columbia Brewing Company, Columbia.

Norman at Bar Harbor; Woodin, McAdoo, Too

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Simultaneous visits of three leading figures in world fiscal affairs gave rise to speculation today of whether a conference on international monetary problems may have taken place here.

The three were Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England; Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, and Senator William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson administration.

Norman arrived here several days ago with Mrs. Norman to be the guest of Mrs. John Markoe, with whom he had visited frequently in the past. Often mysterious and reticent about his affairs, the British financial mogul declined until today to permit his presence here to be generally known.

McAdoo dropped in while he was in Maine on a yachting trip with Robert G. Elbert, of Washington, member of the Industrial Recovery Board. He left yesterday.

Woodin was recognized on the streets here Sunday. Whether he was still in Bar Harbor today could not be determined. And whether the three were together at any time likewise was a matter of doubt.

FEW PROTESTS ON PROFITEERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Emily Newell Blair, designated by the National Recovery Administration to handle complaints of profiteering, said that "amazingly few" protests against increased prices had been received by her protective bureau in the Consumers' Advisory Board. She added:

"Practically none of the complaints have come from the ultimate consumer—the housewife, the laborer and the farmer. The majority have come from retailers and processers, and not more than three have been received against any one industry."

So far, she added, not a single case had come to her office which "on the surface and from my own knowledge could be classed as profiteering."

RELIEF ROLLS DROP IN U. S.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The number of families receiving relief declined 5 per cent since June, Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, reported today, and this drop will continue until September.

Part of this reduction was due to a pick-up in employment and some was achieved through weeding out the undeserving from the relief lists.

Figures from 46 states exclusive of Nebraska and Vermont, show a total of 3,745,367 families received unemployment relief from public funds in June.

Roosevelt Family Flying Blue Eagle

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The NRA blue eagle can fly from President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate—the nation's summer capital.

The President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, yesterday notified NRA headquarters that her 16 employes on the estate had been placed under the blue eagle regulations. In the same mail, a letter from Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, widow of the President's half brother, notified headquarters her nine employes on the estate adjoining the President's had been placed under the NRA.

Japan. They might better fight nature, plague and famine.

GROVER WHALEN, Herbert Bayard Swope who assists him, and others of the New York NRA committee, discover that dealing with human nature is difficult.

While they are trying to adjust hours and wages ideally 2,500 makers of infants' wear quit work, with 60,000 other garment workers threatening to strike this morning. The question is:

"What can the NRA do with masses of discontent?"

Clerks' Head Charges Code Hearing Muzzle

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—In letters to President Roosevelt and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson Ernest Bohm, president of the Bookkeepers, Stenographers and Accountants Union, charged a deputy administrator had refused to allow him to speak for office workers at a hearing on the hosiery industry's code. Bohm said the code submitted by employers in the hosiery industry contained a provision governing maximum hours and minimum wages of office workers.

Roosevelt Names Aide to Miss Perkins

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt today appointed Richardson Saunders, of Miami, Fla., to be assistant to Secretary of Labor Perkins.

HOARDERS FACE ARREST SOON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Gold hoarders of the United States have about reached the end of the rainbow, for the government is going after their hidden pots of gold.

In the Justice Department, legal experts are quietly drawing up the case against gold hoarders. It would not surprise official Washington if warrants for the arrest of the hoarders were announced by Attorney General Cummings when he returns from his vacation Thursday or Friday.

The Treasury and Department of Justice have completed their investigations into a long list of persons who withdrew gold from banks during the March crisis. At last reports, there still were 280 persons holding $845,025 in the metal which they refused to give up, while $27,481,498, not turned in when President Roosevelt ordered it done, had voluntarily been given to the banks after justice agents visited hoarders.

In all, Justice Department agents called on more than 5,000 persons whose names were on the list of those who withdrew gold.

The ground work has been prepared; every hoarder has been informed of the law and of the penalties of up to 10 years in prison or a fine of not more than $10,000 or both.

Failed to Sign Code, Cafe Man Beaten

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Max Komen, whose restaurant serves breakfast for a nickel and lunch or dinner for 15 or 20 cents, and who has not signed an NRA agreement, has been beaten and forced to press his lips against the "Blue Eagle" emblem.

60,000 STRIKE FOR RIGHTS UNDER NRA

N. Y. Walkout Hailed As Death Knell Of Sweatshops

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A strike of 60,000 workers today paralyzed the city's dress industry at the height of the seasonal rush and sounded the deathknell of the sweatshop.

More than 3,000 shops in the metropolitan area were affected, 2,400 of them in the city proper.

Nearly 200 patrolmen and plainclothes detectives were on duty to guard against outbreaks.

At the same time 2,500 pickets took up their duties, determined that no worker should enter or leave the closed plants.

NRA DEMANDS PEACE

The strike quickly brought a demand for settlement from Grover A. Whalen, representing the NRA. The first disorder occurred at Bryant Hall when mounted patrolmen accidently bowled over three women strikers who were waiting with several thousand others to register on the union rolls.

Whalen's demand for action was addressed to six leaders of strikers and employers. He asked them to meet with him at his office in the Hotel Pennsylvania tomorrow noon.

"The strike that has just been called in your industry affecting employment of 60,000 workers in the city requires immediate action on your part.

"The strike calls for at least temporary settlement on the questions at issue until you can agree on a permanent code. The President has set up machinery to give both sides in an industrial dispute an opportunity to be heard before an impartial board.

"I am inviting you to confer with me as chairman of the President's Emergency Re-Employment Committee of New York City."

CAREFULLY PLANNED

The strike, described by labor leaders as the most carefully organized movement in years, was called at 10 a. m. by David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, and Julius Hochman, general manager of the joint board of the Dress and Waist Makers Union.

A second strike, separated from the right wing movement, was put into effect at 10 a. m. by the Needle Trade Workers' Industrial Union, Communist group.

It was plainly evident at NRA headquarters here that the strike, led by Dubinsky, had the sympathy of Whalen and high government officials.

JOBBERS FOUGHT

Hochman maintains that the strike is directed at the jobbers, who foster the system of farming out labor at low wages and long hours to contractors.

The strike will attempt to put an end to sweatshop conditions, Hochman added, first by forcing jobbers to comply with the President's blanket code and second by making them sign separate agreements with the union.

Connecticut Workers Join Strike for NRA

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Several thousand workers in the dress and cloak trades went on strike today in Connecticut as picketing began at scores of small shops here and in Bridgeport.

The workers are demanding the minimum wages and maximum hours proposed in the NRA blanket code. The walkout was called after a similar strike of garment makers was announced in New York.

nouement which saw the suspects escape with a package representing a fake final payment for Factor's release, authorities had for their work a sedan, abandoned by their quarries, two men in detention who claimed they were hikers, and six others seized in a saloon as a result of clues uncovered in the exciting, bullet-punctured pursuit.

Police reports indicated Richard (Yuma) Philips, known here as an underworld go-between; Vernon Miller, one of the notorious Harvey Bailey gang, of Texas; Tommy Touhy, brother of Roger Touhy, held for the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., St. Paul brewer, and George Kelly, said by authorities to be wanted in the Urschel kidnaping case of Oklahoma, were the parties for whom the trap was laid.

Attempt to Free Jailed Urschel Suspect Feared

DENVER, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Extra guards armed with machine guns, were on duty at City Jail today as Chief of Police Albert T. Clark and William Armstrong, captain of detectives, disclosed they had received a "tip" that an attempt would be made to free Albert L. Bates, jailed here as one of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Armstrong said a watch was being kept for a sedan reported seen at North Platte, Neb., today and to have been occupied by George (Machine Gun) Kelly, sought as Bates' partner in the Urschel kidnaping. A blonde woman was driving the car, reports said.

Armstrong said he had learned Kelly boasted in Chicago Monday that he would "go to Denver, cut that tin can of a jail open and free Bates."

U. S. Labor Board Acts in N. Y. Strike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Representatives of employers and labor involved in the strike of 60,000 garment workers in New York will be summoned before the National Labor Board here tomorrow, acting Chairman Leo Wolman said today.

Wolman also intimated that important developments looking to the settlement of the Hollywood film strike were expected soon.

HOOVER EFFORT TO AID DETROIT BANKS TOLD

Witness Says R. F. C. Aid Was Blocked By Couzens

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Testimony that "no one could have displayed a greater spirit of co-operation and a desire to be of help" than Herbert Hoover, then President, during difficulties that led to Michigan's banking holiday was made before the Detroit bank jury today by Wilson W. Mills, former chairman of the board of the closed First National Bank-Detroit.

The attitude of the former President in the banking crisis, as revealed by Mills, was a desire to do "all that was possible" despite opposition that developed from Senator James Couzens, Michigan's senior Senator, who, in yesterday's testimony, was said by Mills to have blocked an adequate Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan which brought on the state-wide holiday, February 14.

'PHONED HOOVER

Detailing a telephone conversation with Mr. Hoover on the first day of the holiday, Mills said:

"The President wanted to do all he could—all that was possible. His task was much harder because of the opposition that had developed from Senator Couzens."

Mills, under questioning, said the President told him in the telephone conversation:

"I want to get the banks open as soon as I can. It would be a great injustice if these banks did not open again."

The witness said Mr. Hoover, who was well-informed as to the Michigan situation, asked him by telephone what the feeling was in Michigan and said he was sorry the holiday was so long. Mills added:

"He said he hoped an agreement could be made to have funds brought here so the banks could open before the eight days. He said he would do all he could with the R. F. C. to get a definite commitment."

STORE TAKES HOME BONDS

Sears, Roebuck & Co., has agreed to accept bonds of the Federal Home Owners' Loan Corporation for nine mortgages in the Pittsburgh district, according to an announcement by J. S. Baughman, Pittsburgh manager of the corporation.

These were a part of 34 applications for bonds made by the company in Pennsylvania. Approximately $125,000 worth of mortgages are represented.

Jacob H. Mays, state manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, recently announced that 50 per cent of the mortgage holders of the Pittsburgh district have expressed willingness to accept the bonds.

The bonds are guaranteed by the government to pay 4 per cent interest for 18 years, but are not guaranteed as to principal. The bonds will be backed by the pooled mortgages which the government takes over on the various properties.

Nash Ill, Quits Post As Advisor on Code

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Charles W. Nash, former president of the Nash Motor Company, is too ill to serve as industrial advisor in the automobile code hearing scheduled for Friday.

He will be succeeded today in that capacity by A. E. McKinstry, of the International Harvester Company, it was announced by Col. R. W. Lea, deputy recovery administrator in charge of the automobile code negotiations. Nash is suffering from a severe attack of laryngitis.

Movies Dramatize Blue Eagle Drive

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Eight major motion picture companies during the coming week will make a series of "featurettes" which will be shown in 13,000 theaters throughout the United States, to popularize President Roosevelt's blue eagle campaign.

The "featurettes" designed to show the human drama behind the scenes of the NRA, will be produced under direction of Joseph L. Breen, production committee chairman of the NRA motion picture group.

Jobless Men 'Rebels,' N. Y. Survey Shows

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The morale of men in their thirties has been hardest hit among the unemployed, a survey made public today indicated.

The study was conducted by the Engineering Foundation and the Personnel Research Foundation. Among the unemployed the 31 to 40 age limits included the men most powerfully affected in their outlook on life. The report states:

"The greatest effect of unemployment was on morale. Seventy-five per cent of the unemployed men had poorer morale than the average employed man. Sixty-eight per cent were more bitter and antagonistic toward employers than is the average employed man. The net effect on religious beliefs and attitudes was found to be negligible.

"Thirty-four per cent of the unemployed in this canvass felt that the United States needed a strong dictator, and 19 per cent of a comparable group of the employed felt the same way. Twenty-three per cent of the unemployed thought that a revolution might be a very good thing for this country. Six per cent of the employed agreed. There was relatively little support for Communism."

MRS. COSTELLO, ACQUITTED, SEEKS TO FORGET PAST

TIRED OF BEING 'GOOD SPORT' AT TRIAL

Widow to Quit Salem, Says She Hopes to 'Live Own Life'

International News Service.

PEABODY, Mass., Aug. 16.—Dawn of new and happier hours came today to Mrs. Jessie Burnett Costello, acquitted by a jury at Salem of the charge of poisoning her husband.

Jessie was home with her three children and her father. She was free for the first time since her arrest on March 17.

But she was not free from the public spotlight. Her little bungalow home, where she was trying to step back to everyday life, was besieged by neighbors and friends, by the curious, and by those seeking her name on contracts to appear on the stage and to write.

Jessie was happy, yet one cloud darkened the horizon. Her "Bill"—Fire Captain William J. Costello—was gone. She had found his body in the upper hallway and she turned away from the spot when she arrived home from the courthouse.

TO VISIT GRAVES

Before going to a new home in Danvers, Jessie will visit the graves of her husband and her mother. She will go to Salem jail to get her belongings and to thank those who showed kindness to her during her ordeal. She said:

"I want to forget the past. For five months I have been trying to be a good soldier and bear my cross for the edification of the curious.

"Now I am free once more and back to normalcy. Oh! How I hated the false position I was placed in. I loathed the publicity and notoriety, but I tried to be a good sport and show I wasn't a poor, weak woman overcome by the charge against me. But all I wanted was my children and the few friends I have left.

PLANS UNSETTLED

"At this time I don't know what I shall do. Everything is too vague, too hazy in my mind. The relief is such I can't think. But all I ask is that I be permitted to lead my own life with my children and forget the misery the state caused me with the accusation that I killed my husband."

Mrs. Costello today evinced still the same surprised joy she displayed late yesterday when a jury returned its verdict of acquittal on the murder charge, and she expressed her gratitude and relief that the jury had apparently placed no credence in the story of a love affair as related on the witness stand by Edward J. McMahon, ex-reserve policeman.

McMahon today was in seclusion, but said he bore no ill will toward the comely widow and that he "wished her luck."

RUM RUNNERS APPEAR AGAIN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Foreign rum ships again are reappearing off the eastern coast of the United States in considerable numbers, according to information reaching the Treasury Department today.

With the relaxation of prohibition enforcement, resulting from the drastic reduction of enforcement agents and the sharp cut in the Coast Guard, the liquor smugglers have become increasingly bold in the last few weeks.

More than 1,000 men and hundreds of ships—principally of the rum chaser type—have been dropped from the active forces of the Coast Guard. The present fleet is sufficient to meet the ordinary life-saving and navigation protection service, but hardly can cope with the rum runners.

Officials at the Treasury said that every effort was being made to defeat the smugglers with the available forces.

Knights of Pythias Pick New Officers

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 16.—At this morning's session of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, Knights of Pythias, O. G. Brenneman, Harrisburg, was elected grand chancellor; Stanley Davis, Scranton, grand vice chancellor; C. E. Jackson, Bellwood, grand prelate; Harvey F. Trumbore, Bethlehem, grand keeper of records and seal; Henry W. Fox, Johnstown, grand master of exchequer, and I. K. Levy, Philadelphia, grand master-at-arms.

Widow Held in Torch Death Mystery

PRINTS ON PAN 'TORCH' CLUE

Universal Service.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 16.—Two fingerprints—one a man's, the other a woman's—were found upon the flame-scarred "chicken pan" which police declared was the implement of murder in the mysterious torch death of Earl Hanson, 42-year-old executive of the Ingersoll Milling Machine Company.

It was the most valuable of a half dozen clues which today prompted State's Attorney Robert E. Nash to hold indefinitely Mrs. May Hanson, 38, ex-wife of the executive, whose burning body was found beside his auto in the driveway of their country home Sunday.

Mrs. Hanson clung steadfastly to her plea of innocence as the prosecutor and Sheriff's deputies took her back to the death scene to question her about her signed eyebrows, a box of matches, her recent purchase of gasoline and the porcelain pan. She said:

"Some one with a grudge against me must have done this. What a terrible way to die."

She said she had bought the gasoline from Nelson McColl, service station attendant whose station is nearby, to attempt to start an old car in her garage.

Both McColl and the widow admitted an extended friendship, but denied their relations had gone beyond that. However, Mrs. Hanson declared that her husband had planned to name the gas station man as co-respondent in his divorce suit.

GIRL WHO SENT 2 TO 'PEN' FINED

A girl, who caused the imprisonment a year ago of a man and his wife for urging her to enter a life of immorality, was fined $25 in Morals Court today for accosting a man who proved to be Patrolman James McKnight.

McKnight said the girl, Marie O'Connor, 21, of 810 Western avenue, accosted him while he was cruising in a police radio car. She admitted that, but denied that she had asked for money.

North Side police recalled that a year ago the O'Connor girl came to them and indignantly demanded the arrest of a couple who had approached her in West Park. The couple, she said, proposed that she go with them to a resort in Buffalo. The man is now serving five years, his wife one year, in Atlanta Penitentiary, because of her charges.

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 16.—(INS.)—H. M. Bixby and two companions landed in a Sikorsky amphibian on Manila bay at 3:30 p. m today, completing the first Shanghai to Manila airplane flight.

The successful flight was sponsored by Pan-Pacific Airways which is investigating the possibilities of a regular oriental service.

Longest Whiskers Dock In U. S. On Way to Fair

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The man with the longest whiskers in the world arrived today.

Desur Arjan Dangar, 58-year-old village policeman of India, landed from the liner Rex with a breeze from the bay whipping 78 inches of silky, golden hirsute appendage hither and thither.

Desur, attired behind the screen of whiskers in a tight-fitting coat, white trousers and a blue turban, is en route to the World's Fair in Chicago to join Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" Odditorium there.

Desur let his whiskers grow since he was 20 years of age.

He had some trouble with them at first, tripping on them while chasing Indian criminals. Then he learned to roll them into neat little bundles. But on his American visit they will flow as free as the Mississippi.

Desur is accompanied by a manager to keep him from entanglements.

BLONDE KILLING LAID TO FLORIST

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A criminal complaint may be issued by the district attorney today in connection with the mysterious death of Miss Helen Bendowski on a roof near a penthouse early Sunday.

Exhaustive tests, a ballistics expert of the Los Angeles police department announced, showed the 29-year-old blonde beauty shop operator could not have died by her own hand.

Harold Wolcott, the florist near whose apartment the woman was found dead, was still held in jail, although he reiterated previous statements it was a case of suicide.

Maynard G. Miedema, former Pasadena policeman and friend of Wolcott, will testify at the inquest. He was released from jail where he had been held as a material witness.

SHOCKED PHILA. BARS NUDISTS

Universal Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 16.—Mayor Moore was shocked. He gasped:

"A permit for nudists? Absolutely not!"

And to make sure he was understood, he issued a 500-word statement flatly tabooing "nudists who go without a covering for their ugly nakedness," and declaring "they cannot practice their beliefs in this great city of American homes."

City Solicitor Smyth ruled that:

"The exposure of the human body in such a manner as is proposed is a misdemeanor at common law."

And also:

"Could be considered as within the provisions of the state criminal act."

The secretary of a company operating two indoor swimming pools had applied for the permit. The plan was to have mixed nude bathing in the pools. The nudist club for which the application was made has 250 members and is headed by I. D. Rocap, a downtown businessman.

POLICE TRAP THAT FAILED

DETECTIVE SERGT. FRANK M'KENNA WITH MEMBERS OF POSSE

The Chicago officer, disguised as a messenger, just after he had delivered a dummy package to kidnapers of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, yesterday in a frustrated attempt to capture them. More than 300 police took part in the elaborate trap but the kidnapers fled into a nearby forest preserve. The suspects were believed to have been involved in the Kansas City massacre of officers and a prisoner. These are International News Photograph Service pictures.

FUGITIVE WINS PARDON FROM GOVERNOR

Youth Starting Here As Dishwasher to Resume Old Name

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Gone today was the skeleton in the closet of the life of 25-year-old Paul Maxim and he was free once more again to pick up the threads of his life that became tangled last week when he was sent back to Ohio to complete a reformatory sentence.

Known here as J. Paul Faraday, a name he said he had assumed upon his escape from an honor camp of the Ohio Reformatory at the age of 19 while serving a sentence for stealing high school class rings valued at $100, Maxim had risen to the position of advertising manager of a paint company, then his true identity was discovered and he was returned to complete his sentence.

RESUMES NAME

Yesterday Gov. George White, of Ohio, handed him a pardon and Maxim said that Faraday was dead forever, but that Maxim would carry on. He said:

"I decided several days ago that I wanted to go back to my old name."

In Chicago it was disclosed that Robert E. Reardon, head of the paint concern for which Maxim was employed, and one of his staunchest supporters, was ill in a hospital.

Mrs. Reardon revealed that she had received a telegram from Maxim asking for funds, but said that due to her husband's confinement she had been unable to comply. She said he would be confined in the hospital several days yet.

TO VISIT PARENTS

For his part, Maxim said he planned to go first to Youngstown, O., to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Maxim, and after that hoped to get his job back.

The young man's rise in the world of business following his escape six years ago reads like a story book. It began with a dish washing job in Pittsburgh and carried on in Detroit and Los Angeles, where he got his first job with the paint company, later working in the St. Louis branch before being appointed advertising manager in Chicago in 1931.

WOMAN POISONS 3 CHILDREN

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Beatrice Stanley, who said her husband had been unemployed for two years, was held by police today following the poisoning at breakfast of her three children.

Detectives said the woman told them she found only a dish of jelly in the home for breakfast, and decided:

"There was no use going on with it."

They said she admitted placing the poison in the jelly, but relented when the children became ill, and called neighbors.

The children, Gordon, 8; Annetta, 7, and Jean, 5, were taken to a hospital where physicians said they believed all would recover.

The detectives said Mrs. Stanley told them she intended to end her own life by taking the poison:

"After I made sure the children were dead."

Texas Town Fears Tong War Flareup

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The slaying of N. G. Fong, 38, was described by police as apparently the beginning of a tong war which they said had been imminent for several weeks.

Fong, half owner of a cafe, was killed late last night as he prepared to enter his home.

CONVENT HIDES LUPE'S NIECE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Threatened with kidnaping, Joan Del Valle Velez, 4-year-old niece of Lupe Velez, film actress, has been taken secretly to an unnamed convent in Mexico for safe keeping.

Miss Velez revealed today that her niece, adopted by her a year ago, had been taken by the actress' mother to a Mexican convent. The girl is the daughter of Miss Velez' sister, who lives in Mexico City. Miss Velez said:

"I have received four threatening letters. I was absolutely frantic. I decided the safest and surest thing to do was to send Joan away where nobody could find her."

The actress declined to elaborate on the threatening letters and refused to disclose when her niece left Los Angeles or the location of the convent where she sought safety.

Miss Velez said the writer demanded $25,000, but did not give any directions as to how it was to be paid.

POLICE CARS ARRIVING TOO LATE . . . THEIR ELUSIVE QUARRY ESCAPED HERE

MRS. MACHADO SEEKS REFUGE IN PHILA.

Ex-President's Family Suddenly Abandons Journey to N. Y.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Changing their plans suddenly, the family of deposed President Gerardo Machado, of Cuba, detrained in Philadelphia today, announcing they planned to stay here a few days and then go to a nearby seashore resort for the remainder of the summer.

Although no explanation for the unexpected stop here, instead of going on to New York, was given, it was reported Senora Machado, wife of the former President, had received messages from friends of her husband warning against revoluntionist sympathizers in New York.

Accompanying Mrs. Machado were her three daughters; their husbands—Jose Emilio Obregon, banker and publisher; Rafael Sanchez, and Baldomen Grau—five grandchildren of the ex-President; three nurses and four servants.

Senor Obregon, spokesman for the group, said the stop was made in this city because he knew Philadelphia better than New York and believed it would be quieter for the children.

He said the party had been in almost continuous communication with the deposed President, now in exile in Nassau, the Bahamas.

No provisions had been made here for the arrival of the party, who retained a suite in the Pennsylvania Hotel after leaving their special railroad car. They had boarded the train after arriving at Key West, Fla., on a Cuban gunboat from the island.

Cubans Plan Seizure Of Machado Estates

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Bank accounts and properties of the deposed President Gerardo Machado and his followers were investigated today with a view to requisition by their successors.

Secretary of the Treasury Joaquin Martinez Saenz, a leader in the A B C secret society, began the probe as Provisional President Carlos Manuel De Cespedes' administration weeded out persons suspected of profiting by the Machado regime.

It was reliably reported that embargoes are planned on fortunes and property of the Machadistas.

The newspaper Diario de la Marina said Machado sent Mrs. Isobel Caliger, private secretary to the chief of the palace household, to Germany two weeks ago to buy a home for him there.

The De Cespedes government has let the Machadistas know they can expect to pay for any sins committed while in office.

HERRON DELAYS CLARK OUSTER

Mayor John S. Herron today said he would take no action at this time on a demand by the Veteran Police Association to oust former Public Safety Director James M. Clark as solicitor of the police pension fund.

Thomas D. Malone, president of the association, in a letter to the Mayor, charged that Clark did nothing to entitle him to $100 a month as solicitor, and that recently instead of looking after the pension fund interests, turned the case over to his law partner and went away on a vacation trip.

Mayor Herron said:

"I don't intend to take any action on the letter at this time. I don't think this is the right time to make any change."

Army in Ecuador Guards President

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Soldiers guarded the presidential and legislative palaces today following demands for the resignation of President Martinez Mera, who was inaugurated last December.

The head of the chamber of deputies, Dr. Belasco Ibarra, moved that the chamber demand that Mera quit, but an amendment to the motion provided that the chamber will hear charges against the executive and then ask his resignation. By a vote of 42 to 22 Congress approved the sending of a commission to the president to ask him, "in the name of democracy," to let the popular will rule.

Mob Kills Another Member of Porra

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Surviving members of the Porra, strong-armed secret police of Former President Gerardo Machado, walked in fear today after another unidentified member of their group was slain last night by a mob of soldiers, police and members of the ABC.

The killing occurred in the middle of Havana, after a protracted hunt for the victim.

Rabies Victim Dies As 22 Take 'Cure'

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Richard Turner, 26, died today of rabies contracted when froth from a mad dog fell on an open wound on his hand as he rescued his pet dog from another one affected with rabies.

Twenty-two persons, including nurses, physicians and relatives who had contact with Turner, are taking the pasteur treatment.

SPEAKEASY ROW DIES DOWN

Sewickley Council accepted the resignation of Harold Rhoades, borough police chief, last night without considering the report that "laxity in prohibiting speakeasies," was instrumental in his quitting.

Nor would James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, who is president of council and chairman of the council's police committee, discuss the police "troubles." He said:

> "This council is not going to determine the factors of the police situation tonight."

Rhoades resigned Saturday after serving as chief for the past three and a half years. In a letter to Chaplin, he said:

> "My reason for resigning is that I have accepted another position."

That his resignation resulted over the existance of alleged speakeasies, was learned in a statement yesterday from John Hiteshew, borough manager.

$480,000 Allotted For Dam Operation

The War Department has allotted $480,000 for the fiscal year for care and operation of locks and dams in this district, which is to be added to an unexpected balance of $120,579. Locks and dams included are Emsworth and Dashfield and Numbers 4 to 13 in the Ohio River.

LAWYER CONFESSES POISONING 4 IN FAMILY

which was intended for prosecution of Clarence Braucher of Barberton, Ohio, on a forgery charge Shank was attorney for Braucher.

CHILD GIVES CLUE

The evidence, the Ohio prosecutor said, was stolen while Braucher was out on bond.

A 3-year-old son of the Colleys, who escaped the poison, was quoted by Prosecuting Attorney Miller Halbert, of Malvern, as saying he saw Shank put something in some grape juice which his parents and brothers drank while they were eating a picnic lunch near Malvern yesterday.

After Shank had been captured, following a chase with bloodhounds, he took the officers to the spot where he said they had all eaten lunch during a short motor trip.

There, the officers found a jug of juice, some lunch meats and nearby some crystals which are to be analyzed.

There was evidence the Colleys and Shank had left the place hurriedly. As authorities reconstructed the case, they believed the poison struck the victims there and they hurried away for medical aid.

The spot was far back in the woods. The car finally crashed on a main highway, with Colley slumped dead under the steering wheel. One of the boys also was dead, Mrs. Colley died on the way to a hospital and the other boy soon after arriving there.

SIGNS CONFESSION

Taken to Hot Springs, Shank confessed at 2:55 a. m., signing a brief statement. Police said he told them he would make a detailed confession after he had slept awhile. His statement read:

> "I am guilty of the murder of four persons at Malvern by poison and I only ask that you officers recommend to the courts that they grant me all the leniency possible."

Prosecutor Halbert, of Malvern planned to return to Hot Springs today to resume the questioning.

The Colleys had been in Hot Spring several days and Chief of Detectives Herbert Akers said he had learned Shank had been sending them money.

Shank came here last Sunday, Akers said, telling police his purpose was to help Colley get a job.

Police quoted Shank as admitting he had "Colley take some papers" from the Ohio prosecutor's office. They also revealed they received a telephone inquiry from Akron authorities yesterday as to whether Shank was here.

Poison Killings Linked With Forgery Trial

AKRON, O., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Mark H. Shank, held in Hot Springs, Ark., in connection with the poison deaths of four Ohio people, was a defense attorney in an Ohio forgery trial out of which robbery charges developed against Alvin Colley, an investigator for Shank and one of the four dead.

At Wooster, Sheriff Charles A. Nauman said he held he held a warrant for the arrest of Colley on a charge of stealing receipts and other evidence which was to be used by Prosecutor Lyman R. Critchfield, Jr., in trying Clarence Braucer, of Barberton, on a forgery charge. Shank was attorney for Braucher.

Sheriff Nauman said evidence in the Braucher case was stolen from the prosecutor's office while Braucher was free under bond. Braucher was convicted and started serving a penitentiary sentence last month. Nauman said suspicion fastened on Braucher, although fingerprints identified as Colley's were found at the scene of the theft, and a warrant was issued for him.

Shank has been a resident of this section since his graduation from college and for a time gained wide notice as a justice of the peace in handling liquor cases. He also was city solicitor of Kenmore, an Akron suburb.

The Alvin Colley family had been living with Colley's parents in Wellington, O., before returning here last June.

Neighbors of the Colleys said the family left suddenly on the night of July 27. When they did not return after a week, their landlord placed their furniture in storage.

Shank left Friday, supposedly to go to St. Louis in connection with a court case. His wife said she had expected his home this morning.

BLAST SUSPECT BLAMES CUPID

To give detectives an opportunity to investigate his possible connection with recent dynamitings here, Frank Hujack, 28, of "city," was held for court today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg on a charge of violating the state explosives act.

Hujack was arrested on suspicion yesterday when he left the County Jail after serving a 30-day term for disorderly conduct.

Detective Lieut. Edward Harkins testified he had found dynamite caps in baggage left by Hujack in a rooming house in Second avenue.

Hujack said the caps had been placed there by his landlady in spite, because he had commented upon her love affairs.

3 Women, 4 Men File Divorce Suits

Divorce suits have been filed in Common Pleas Court by Eleanor C. against William T. Walton, Esther D. against Robert P. Pringle, Albert E. against Hilda I. Phillips, Mitchel against Clara Kazas, Eugene against Elizabeth Judge, James W. against Josephine E. Albert, Lois K. against Arnold K. Williams, and Marilyn W. against Gordon O. Herd.

Freckles to Win Prizes at Outing

A contest to determine the "most freckled-faced" boy and girl will feature the Duquesne Business Men's outing today at Kennywood Park. A civic holiday for the picnic was proclaimed by Mayor James S. Crawford. John T. Waite is general chairman of the picnic committee.

MAN KILLS WIFE DESPITE GUARD

DAYTON, O., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Despite the promised protection of a deputy sheriff, who stood nearby, Mrs. Julia Ford, 40, was shot to death late yesterday by her husband, Otto E. Ford, 42, an hour after the woman filed suit for divorce.

The deputy, Norby Sacksteder, was standing between the couple asking them to stop quarreling, when, he said, Ford grabbed a shotgun and shot his wife in the chest.

In jail, Ford was quoted by officers as saying:

> "I did what I wanted to do."

Officers said the man had threatened to kill his wife if she ever attempted to leave him.

MYSTERY GIRL HELD IN KILLING

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—From an attractive young woman, Prosecutor C. W. Greenough said he would attempt today to obtain information that may lead to a solution of the mysterious death of Dr. J. L. Gaines, wealthy Spokane drugless physician and sportsman.

The young woman was held incommunicado by detectives, who declined to reveal her name.

Officers said she accompanied the physician Monday on a boating trip and was with him "not more than a quarter of an hour before his death."

Gaines was shot three times early yesterday as he stepped from his automobile in the driveway of his home. His money and jewelry were untouched.

MEAT, POTATOES and GRAVY

MANY a meal is built around these three standbys—meat, potatoes and gravy. Invariably they are the first dishes that come to your mind as you plan your dinner.

But in spite of their hunger-satisfying and nourishing qualities, this time-honored triumvirate can become monotonous unless it is supplemented by other dishes.

However, it is often a problem to find these "side dishes" in your own head. Of course, you can quiz your neighbor, or ask the members of your family what they would like. But even this source of information is often lacking in ideas.

The thing to do is read the advertisements in your newspaper. Every day your local markets display their foodstuffs on those printed pages. You'll read of new vegetables and fruits that have "just arrived." Your appetite will be aroused by the tasty creations of national food manufacturers. With pencil and paper you can make your market list and menus before you step out of the house.

Speaking of monotony, consider this: There are 11 different cuts of beef, 9 cuts of veal, 7 of lamb, 10 of pork; there are at least 20 different breakfast cereals sold in every store, 16 different canned vegetables, 6 canned fruits, a dozen or more canned meats and fish, numberless varieties of cakes and crackers. Why should there be monotony in meals with such a variety of foods available at your store . . . and so many of them advertised in your paper?

QUEBEC EASES SALE OF BEER, CURBS LIQUOR

Americans, how are you going to do your drinking after repeal?

"Under the Canadian system," many answer.

The inter-provincial differences in the "Canadian system," which is far from uniform, have been investigated for Universal Service by Arthur Kent, who has devoted much time to a study of the subject and who was formerly associated with the Canadian Social Hygiene Council.

His findings will appear in a series of three articles, in the first of which, today, he contrasts conditions in Ontario, where no alcoholic beverage may be bought except in bottled form in a government dispensary, or drunk except at home, with conditions in Quebec, where liquor may be purchased only in dispensaries but where beer, ale and wines are easily obtainable in taverns at low prices which encourage their consumption, instead of the drinking of hard liquor.

By ARTHUR KENT

(Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.)

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 16.—The liquor laws of the Canadian provinces differ, just as much as the divorce laws of the United States.

Some are strict and some are decidedly not strict.

All of them, however, are interesting today when more than 120,000,000 Americans are beginning to wonder what it will be like to live under government control of alcohol instead of bootlegger control.

Let's buy some liquor here in Ontario. Then let up run down to the Province of Quebec, then compare the two main Canadian systems—strict Ontario's, liberal Quebec's.

ONTARIO CURBS BEER

From the home of our friend John Doe, typical Toronto family man, it takes us about half an hour to reach the nearest government liquor store. There are very few of them in the city and liquor can be bought nowhere else, legally. In fact, you can't even buy a glass of beer with a meal in Ontario, except an unpalatable brew about half as strong as American 3.2

The neat liquor store looks like a bank, inside and out. And it's conducted like one. John Doe stands at a long, breast-high writing counter, fills out a printed form. With this, and his "permit" (which costs him $2 a year and looks just like a bank book), he stands in line until he reaches the "censor's" wicket.

This accountant-like person compares John's signatures on printed form and "permit." This permit contains John's name, address, occupation and the kind and price of every liquor-purchase he has made during the fiscal year. You can't buy any drink of any kind in Ontario without some form of this permit.

MUCH RED TAPE

When the censor is satisfied that Doe hasn't been buying too much, isn't drunk, and hasn't made a previous purchase that day, he initials the order form. Doe passes on in the line up to the cashier's wicket, pays, lines up again at another counter and waits until a clerk brings his bottle. Then he must take it directly home and not open it on the way.

You have to go through a variation of this complicated formula to drink liquor of any kind in Ontario, and your home (hotel room or tent) is the only place in which you can drink legally.

It's much simpler in Quebec. Our friend Raymond Cartier meets us at the train and drags us joyfully to a "tavern." Here, seated at a table, we buy good strong beer at 5 or 10 cents a glass or stein. But nowhere in Quebec can we buy a glass of whisky. Spirits must be bought by the bottle, from government stores. Even here, though, no "permits" are required and there are no censors, no bankish atmosphere. Cartier buys his bottle, one allowed at a time—and departs without red tape. We go to his home. He says:

"And now, more beer."

Again no permits nor censors. Cartier simply phones his corner grocer and swiftly good, strong, cheap beer is delivered and charged to his grocery bill.

QUEBEC CURBS RUM

Here then, in a nutshell, is the difference between the two systems. Hard liquor is equally difficult to secure in both provinces. You can buy a dozen bottles of whisky at once on your Ontario permit, but in Quebec you're allowed only one at a time.

Ontario treats beer, wine and liquor to about the same degree of restriction, but in Quebec beer and wine are purposely made much easier to get than liquor.

In Ontario, where the theory behind the system is that drinking can be curbed by restriction, there are but 311 outlets for beer. In Quebec, where the attempt is to keep people from hard liquor by making light drinks available, beer is sold in 3,309 places.

Cruise Contest Rules

Here are the easy rules for the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises":

Answer all 20 questions. There will be two questions every day in the daily Sun-Telegraph for 10 days beginning August 10 and closing August 21.

Write a letter of not more than 50 words telling why you need a vacation this summer.

Send answers and letter to the Cruise Contest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Four winners will be selected, two for each cruise. Correctness of answers and cleverness of letters will be considered in selecting winners. Judges' decision will be final. No entries will be returned. All entries must be in not later than August 25. Winners will be announced as quickly as possible after that date. In the event of tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The two entrants submitting the most nearly correct sets of answers, accompanied by the most convincing letters, will be awarded 10-day cruises to Florida, all expenses paid. The next two most nearly correct sets of answers accompanied by the most convincing letters will be awarded 7-day cruises to Boston, expenses paid.

Entrants must be over 16 years of age. Employes of the Sun-Telegraph or their families, or employes of radio station WCAE, are not eligible to participate in the "Contest Cruises."

Twenty-one hundred miles on the ocean is the delightful cruise that awaits two of the winners in the fascinating contest now under way for readers of the Sun-Telegraph through the co-operation of the Merchants and Miners Line, sailing out of Baltimore. Twelve glorious days are promised for the cruise, with a motor trip from Miami to Jacksonville, through the ocean breeze-swept State of Florida. And, by the way, its cooler in Florida than it is in Pittsburgh—or it has been the greater part of the summer.

Then, as added prizes, there will be two cruises to Boston out of Baltimore. These will require a week, with two days on the ocean each way and three days of sightseeing in and around historic Boston.

Yes, these are going to be happy days for four readers of the Sun-Telegraph. All expenses will be paid, including railway and Pullman fares from Pittsburgh to Baltimore and return. Back numbers of the Sun-Telegraph with the early questions are still available to readers who failed to start in this contest earlier.

IRISH CONSIDER SEIZING ARMS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The establishment of a military tribunal to consider political charges and confiscation of firearms illegally possessed began today under the direction of the Free State government.

Simultaneously a membership drive was in progress for Gen. Owen O'Duffy's blue shirt National Guard organization, which was forbidden to conduct a memorial service last Sunday for three Free State heroes.

Gen. O'Duffy cancelled the church parades he decreed for next Sunday and announced his blue shirts will assemble to honor the memories of the heroes, Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins, and Kevin O'Higgins. The commanding officers will read a message from O'Duffy, the nature of which was not disclosed.

Among the first to be summoned before the tribunal may be former Vice President Ernest Blythe and Deputy G. O'Sullivan, who refused to give up their weapons after revocation of their licenses.

'ALFALFA' LOSES IN TAX FIGHT

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Oklahoma again has voted its rejection of Gov. William H. Murray's ideas of taxation.

Balloting repeal of three-cent cigaret tax and so-called "snooper" tax assessment laws passed by administration forces in the last Legislature, the electorate also overwhelmingly indorsed yesterday a reduction of the ad valorem tax limit from 43.5 to 27 mills.

Gov. Murray, taking the stump, fought it out with his political foes on the first two issues. They agreed in urging support of the tax reduction measure, success of which some authorities contend, will send a special session of the Legislature on a hunt for new revenue sources this fall.

As for the repeal issues, it was the fourth time in two years that "Alfalfa Bill's" tax measures have met defeat at the polls.

13 MILLIONS SPENT AT FAIR

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A total of $13,211,214.52 was rung up in the cash registers of a Century of Progress in the first half of its scheduled operation.

This was disclosed today by Martin M. Tveter, exposition comptroller. The fair's first half ended at midnight, August 13, the seventy-ninth day.

Receipts for admissions amounted to $3,111,782.04—not counting an advance sale of 2,193,253 tickets before the official opening day.

An additional $10,099,432.48 was spent by visitors, now numbered at over 9,000,000, in the various concessions within the grounds. The exposition's share of this sum was $375,000.

"The Streets of Paris" continues to lead the concessions, its income for the first half of the exposition being $813,716.16.

$750,000 Fire Ruins Grain Elevator

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A lake front elevator containing approximately 1,000,000 bushels of grain, was destroyed last night by fire of undetermined origin.

Harry Stratton, president of the company which leased the elevator from the Northwestern Railroad, said the total loss would be about $750,000.

Plates Made In a Day

"Excuse accepted—I'm full of Terraplane parent-trouble, myself. My wise elders now go Terraplaning and leave the heavy old bus sulking in the garage."

"Sorry to be late, Bill, but the only way I can ever get a chance to drive this car is when Dad isn't looking."

TERRAPLANING day by day keeps the service bills away!

Let's dispose of the question of economy right away, so you can buy an Essex Terraplane just for the fun and thrills it will bring you.

Hundreds of Terraplane owners all over America have compared Terraplane expense with that of every other car on the road. Their sworn affidavits (18 to 26 miles per gallon for the Six, 15 to 18 miles per gallon for the Eight, no oil-additions between changes, 20 to 30 thousand miles per set of tires, 1/16 to 1/14 cent per mile for service) would convince any Supreme Court that the Terraplane was the best automobile-friend any pocketbook ever found.

If you need a jury, too, the next twelve Terraplane owners you meet will give a unanimous verdict.

So, now—you can forget expense and think only of the swell time you'll have making molehills out of mountains without gear-shifting, giving the slip to any kind of traffic, sweeping quietly along smooth highways like a mail-plane on the wing.

That's Terraplaning! Just try it!

POPEYE'S FANS CLIP COUPONS FOR PARTY

Popeye's popularity was emphasized yesterday by the enhusiasm of the boys and girls of Pittsburgh displayed in clipping coupons for the big birthday party of this famous character of the Sun-Telegraph comic pages. The big frolic is to take place at Kennywood Park, August 25, and a special program for the entertainment of the children is in preparation.

Popeye—in person—will hold an all-day reception and is it possible that Olive Oyl will be with him. And if there is a bakery in Pittsburgh equipped to bake a birthday cake big enough, the children will get a slice of it from Popeye.

The first Popeye Coupon appeared in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday. Bear in mind you must clip six coupons to get a free strip of eight tickets for the rides and attractions at Kennywood on Popeye's birthday and that the big black letters in the six coupons must spell P-O-P-E-Y-E. If you fail to get the coupon with the "P" in it yesterday, you can clip two coupons tomorrow—Thursday. This coupon will also have a "P," and by clipping two you can use one for the coupon you missed yesterday.

There isn't going to be any crowding at Popeye's birthday party. Only a certain number of strips of tickets have been printed and when these are gone—there will not be any more issued. There are just enough for a comfortable crowd, so that everyone will have a good time.

Exchange stations will be announced later where boys and girls can take their coupons and exchange them for free strips of tickets. The special 15-cent round trip passes on the street cars can also be obtained at any of these exchange stations.

KANSAN WON'T QUIT POST

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A refusal to resign as State Treasurer of Kansas was Tom B. Boyd's answer to Gov. Alf M. Landon's request he relinquish his duties in the light of developments arising out of the state's million dollar forged bond scandal.

Following his arraignment yesterday on a charge of embezzling state funds, the treasurer made public a letter he had sent to the Governor in which he declared he was guilty of no wrong doing.

The Governor said he was willing "to leave the entire matter up to the legislature and courts."

Boyd's letter expressed belief the Governor's action in posting National Guardsmen in the Treasurer's office was unwarranted, without precedent and without authority. He said:

> "As soon as you cease making my office a camping ground and a show ground, I shall return and resume my duties."

National Guardsmen were ordered to guard the Treasurer's vaults night and day after an investigation showed some of the forged bonds there.

BOY'S HANDCUFF ESCAPE FAILS

Waldon McWhirter, 18, of Watertown, Mass., yesterday afternoon was caught in the act of removing handcuffs from his wrists in the office of the United States marshal, Federal Building.

Earlier in the day he had been ordered removed to the Federal Court at Savannah, Ga., as a probation violator. On Monday, he had been brought from Hollidaysburg, Pa., by Deputy Marshal D. A. Goldman.

Government officers said McWhirter, since leaving his home in Watertown last November to "see the world," had stolen at least five automobiles and made two escapes from police.

'Clinic' to Study Crossings' Traffic

A traffic "clinic" tomorrow and Friday will study the 14 intersections at which 40 per cent of the Manchester district's 372 recently reported accidents have occurred. The study is being made, according to City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre, with a view to introducing corrective measures.

Westinghouse Outing To Be Held Saturday

More than 2,000 persons are expected to attend the annual outing of the Westinghouse Clerks' Association Saturday at Olympia Park, McKeesport. A girls' orchestra and eight entertainers are to give a musical and vaudeville program in the afternoon.

'Y' Leisure Schools To Open October 2

Executives of the Downtown and East Liberty Y. M. C. A. are planning to repeat the Leisure Time School this winter, it was announced today. According to present plans the two schools will open October 2.

Waynesburg to Have Large Student Body

Waynesburg College will open the school year September 18 with one of the largest student bodies in its history, the school registrar announced today. Approximately 90 incoming freshmen have signed entrance blanks, it was said.

Anticipation Is in the Air...

HORNE'S

People know that commodity prices have already advanced, and it is clear to everyone that higher wages and shorter hours must add further to costs. So the August Sales, which are predicated on preparations made many months ago, before wholesale price advances began, are having wide public acceptance this year.

The August Sale argument is the same everywhere. What you get will depend upon where you go. Cheap things from cheap stores, better things from better stores, and the best things from the best stores. This store naturally and logically qualifies on the last point, and you will find that the August selections and values here measure up fully to the lifelong reputation of this store for reliability.

We invite your full inspection of the August values without delay. August values, when they are gone, cannot be replaced, and sell-outs are being reported every day.

August, the Month to Buy.. Blankets

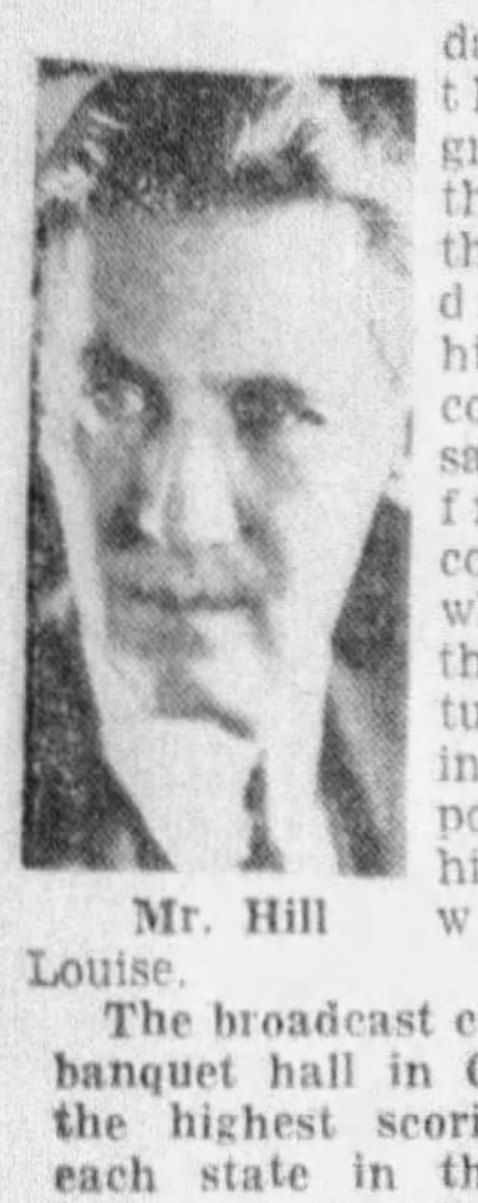
Hill, Thomas, Dr. Church On Air

The six winners of the boys' stage-coach building contest, in which many Pittsburgh boys took part, are announced over an NBC-WCAE network tonight at 9:45.

Edwin C. Hill, whose "Human Side of the News" is a popular daily feature of the Sun-Telegraph, describes the awarding of the prizes, and discusses the highlights of the contest. Thousands of boys, from 12 to 19, competed to see which could build the best miniature of the coach in which Napoleon rode to his marriage with Marie Louise.



Mr. Hill

The broadcast comes from the banquet hall in Chicago where the highest scoring boy from each state in the union and from each Canadian province is being entertained at dinner tonight. The six winners receive $5,000 university scholarships.

Final Concert

The Goldman Band concludes its eighth summer series of broadcasts from the Mall in Central Park, New York, tonight. The concerts have been a gift of the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Foundation to the people of New York City; and by radio, to the listeners of the nation. The concluding program is heard over KDKA at 9.

* * *

Eva Le Gallienne, assisted by Josephine Hutchinson, dramatizes another portion of "Alice in Wonderland," over KDKA at 7:15.

John Charles Thomas, baritone; Jules Lande, violinist, and a 31-piece orchestra are Capt. Bob's guests tonight in the program heard over NBC-WCAE at 10:30.

* * *

Dr. Church on NRA

Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, speaks over WJAS and KQV at 6:15 tonight in support of President Roosevelt's recovery program. Under the title "Fighting the Dragon," Dr. Church's talk deals with the activities of the Pittsburgh committee appointed to speed adoption of the NRA code in this area, and seeks the cooperation of the entire community.

Dr. Church

Frederic H. Frazier, nationally known business executive, takes up the NRA cause over an NBC-KDKA network at 8:45. He speaks on "Prices and Gold," explaining the Administration's motives in raising prices and purchasing power throughout the nation.

Bizet Tribute

The gifted Georges Bizet, French composer, is honored in the Columbia Symphony program heard over WJAS at 11. The orchestra offers selections from Bizet's opera "Carmen," and his "L'Arsienne" suite. Theo Karle sings the lovely "Flower Song" immortalized by Caruso.

* * *

A sentimental mood dominates Conrad Thibault's selections for this evening's broadcast with Ferde Grofe's orchestra. Heard over WCAE at 9, he sings "If I Only Had Someone to Love," and "Remember Me."

Quartet, Soloists In Junior Patrol Broadcast

A baker's dozen sprightly young radio artists make merry on the Junior Patrol program over WCAE at 4:45 today.

The Junior Patrol quartet and nine solo entertainers make the welkin ring with song, piano, guitar and recitation. The program in detail follows:

Junior Patrol Quartet.
May Florence Freker—vocal solo: Marching Through Georgia.
Martha Ann Gross—piano solo: Rustic Dance by Howell.
Eugene Hecht—vocal solo. Eugene accompanies himself with a guitar.
Flora E. Burkey—recitation: A Day at School.
Glenn Connor—song: Cowboy Jack. Accompanied by Devillo Connor.
Lester Gilbert—original poem: The Junior Patrol.
Junior Patrol Quartet.
Margaret Lucas—vocal solo.
Jean Scott—vocal solo.
And Snuggins, Spike, Perce and Bill, of course!

Fights, Football On Seals' Bill

Fights and football are the topics of tonight's Trained Seal program, heard over WCAE at 7. Harry Keck interviews Lou Raymond, local matchmaker, and Art Rooney, head of Pittsburgh's new professional football club.

The Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News airs the news over WCAE-WJAS at 9:05 a. m. and 12:15, 2:15 and 6:30 p. m.

Lombardo Threatening to Quit In Feud; Little Jack Little To Become Bandmaster

By AIRCASTER

Snapshots along Radio Row—Guy Lombardo and Monsieur Julius Seebach are feuding . . . with Lombardo threatening to split with CBS . . . the trouble is, various control men are being sent out to pipe the Lombardo broadcasts . . . and they get mixed up on switchboard throwing, so that several times, the band, as on Sunday night, wasn't able to get on the air.

Guy Lombardo

So Long, Jesters

The Jesters, so long identified with a yeast product, find grabbing a new account tough, so they're changing their monicker to "See, Bee & El," which are the initials of their names.

Barney Rapp kicks in with a real novelty . . . he's rehearsing his band to stage a radio play over CBS in which not a word is to be spoken . . . all the oratory will be simulated by clever effects on instruments.

Carillo Leaving

Leo Carillo's final broadcast with Rubinoff happens next Sunday . . . Leo will make pictures . . . Leo, by the way thinks Patsy Flick is the world's top dialectician . . . but Patsy Flick insists the honor belongs to Carillo.

Lee Sims and Ilomay Bailey step right into another commercial when Cantor returns to sell coffee.

The NBC is hereby notified that the fan cohorts are forming to register fresh protests because there's no slumber hour.

"What the audience really needs," says Buddy Wagner, "is an orchestra that won't put it to sleep."

Zora With Rudy

Zora Layman, radio's portrait painter, takes the air with Rudy Vallee tomorrow and will sing that tear-jerking ditty, "Seven Years with the Wrong Man."

Ethel Waters is well again and will sing before a huge throng at the Century of Progress show tomorrow, which is Negro day in Chi.

There's talk of shortening the ballyhoos on the Sunday night oil program featuring Fred Stone . . . Two of the plugs may be cut out . . . Sort of killing two blurbs with one Stone!

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Just try to get away with something! Yeah! Even if you don't try, see if you get away with it. Yesterday I had a story about a jokester who dyed a cat red and the kittens didn't recognize her. Immediately after the broadcast Mrs. Cain, Mt. Washington, called to say that cats are color blind.

* * *

Well, since we have started about animals (an improvement over bugs) we might talk about Lawrence Clem's horse. It has a mustache four inches long. That's not all. He has a cat with four front feet. G'wan up to his farm in Rillton if you don't believe it.

* * *

Samuel Baker doesn't want to hear any more about any kind of animals. He was the proverbial 'city feller' on the farm. Cows, he sorrowfully learned, are particular on which side they are milked.

* * *

We ought to have a Cuban consul in Pittsburgh, if for nothing else, to give correct pronunciation of official names. Who has the real low-down on "De Cespedes?" It might avert a revolution here.

* * *

Father Cox, eloquent extemporizer, in reviewing his radio experiences tells of a time when he made a certain statement and could only explain that he was as much surprised at hearing himself say it as the listener was.

* * *

That's like the old trombone player who complained that he blew them in sweet but they came out sour.

* * *

Before I start writing about bugs I better quit.

Dandruff Believed to Be a Factor in Baldness

Dandruff is one of the most common and annoying disorders of the scalp. Too often it is neglected, being regarded as a hopeless and unimportant ailment. But some times it leads to other and more serious disturbances of the hair and scalp.

Dr. Copeland

It is a common belief that many cases of baldness and early loss of hair can be traced to dandruff. Certainly it creates conditions favorable to an infection of the hair follicles. Once these are diseased and their health destroyed, the hair becomes thin and baldness results. Some cases of baldness could have been prevented had proper measures been taken for the early removal of persistent dandruff.

The cause of dandruff has never been discovered. Some scientists claim it is due to a germ, but the particular germ has never been identified. It is quite probable the disease is caused by a microbe or germ of some sort, because the tendency to dandruff is easily passed from one individual to another. This annoying defect is a disease of modern civilization; at least, no records show that it afflicted primitive people.

Occasionally dandruff is encountered in persons who have been ill for a long time and are in a run-down and weakened condition. It is generally present when the health is poor. It is apt to be present when the body is deprived of proper food and nourishment, or lacking in fresh air and sunlight. Lowered vitality from failure to exercise in the open air, is another factor in the development.

There is another popular idea that dandruff is caused by too frequent washing and wetting of the hair. Of course, a dry scalp does not require as much washing to keep clean as does an oily scalp. When the scalp is oily, particles of dust and dirt are quickly gathered by the hair and frequent washings are necessary. But this treatment is not the cause of dandruff. On the contrary, it is good for the hair.

To avoid the evil effects of dandruff keep the scalp clean and free from the scales. Shampoo the hair with a mild and cleansing soap. Massage the scalp with the tips of the fingers or very gently with a small bristle brush. The massage stimulates the circulation of the blood in the scalp and consequently improves the health of the scalp. This helps to prevent infection.

If dandruff is excessive and persists despite cleanliness and care of the scalp, I would recommend the application of a soothing ointment to the scalp. This ointment should be prescribed for you by a physician after he has examined you and discovered your special needs. The ointment or other local remedy should be applied after the shampoo and preferably just before bedtime.

Never borrow or use another person's comb and brush. Bear in mind that this practice is the most common way of contracting dandruff. Always use your own toilet articles and see that they are kept clean.

Expose your hair frequently to the beneficial action of fresh air and sunlight. Never wear tight and constricting hats. They serve to cut off the circulation of blood and promote baldness.

Answers to Health Queries

A Reader. Q.—What are shingles and what causes this disturbance? What treatment would you advise?

A.—For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Thomas. Q.—How can I grow taller?

A.—There is nothing you can do to increase the height. You will probably grow until you reach the age of 21.

F. H. B. Q.—What do you advise for an itch, when scratched raises up in lumps?

A.—This may be due to hives. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should Wife Be the Boss In the Family?

Attention, June brides!

Now that the wedding bells have rung, and you've settled down in the little home nest—

Are you trying to make the big boy over?

Do you think, just because you've married him, that he must henceforth do things your way, and live his life to suit you? That's what Buster ran into when he married Teenie, and now he's sore, surprised and badly muddled.

Can you help him? Or do you agree with Teenie that husbands should be made over and managed?

Dear Miss Robinson:

Gosh! Can a mere man come in here out of the storm, and maybe get a few pointers on how to get it turned off, or something?

I used to think I was a fairly sensible guy, with judgment that wasn't so bad. But that was before I got married. Since that important event, I've been told, plenty, that I should do things some other way than the way I've planned them, and I'm about to go goofy.

WIFE TRIES TO BOSS

I'm 25, and before I met Teenie, the girl I fell in love with and led to the altar, I got along well enough to hold down a pretty good job and [illegible] get in any jams. I kept well, and thought I was going strong. I got ahead in my work, and people seemed to think I had ordinary judgment.

Well, I've been married about six months, and my wife seems to think that being married to me gives her the right to boss and regulate just about everything I do—even my own personal affairs, like what suit I'm going to wear, or what kind of shirts I buy, or the friends I have.

I like to tinker around and help her. Or maybe I'd rather say I did like to, because now every time I start in on some little job she's right there to say, "Do it this way, dear. That way won't work," or "Here, let me show you how to do that."

Honestly, it's getting terrible.

And if I say, "for gosh sakes! Let me alone, can't you?" Then she turns on the weeps, or claims I "don't love her," or I'd be glad to have her show me things. Or she accuses me of being "stubborn," or says, with an abused air, "I'm trying to help you," and then sulks.

The way she acts, you'd think she believes that there was something in getting married that took away every bit of sense I ever had, and endowed her with some kind of supernatural wisdom.

She's an awfully sweet girl, and I love her. She says that she loves me. But sometimes I feel like a pup on a leash. What on earth ails women, anyway? And how long do they think a man can stay in love with a jailor? If we go out for an evening, we go where she wants to go, or another argument starts. What on earth shall I do?

"BUSTER."

Does that sound familiar, Sister?

SOUND ADVICE

Is that the way you are beginning your marriage? If it is, look out! Your husband was an individual before you married him, and he's still an individual—and has a right to be. If you won't respect that right, don't come moaning into this departmen when your marriage blows up, because it'll be your own fault. He didn't marry you to learn how to act, and no man will stay sweet on a tyrant.

And now—what'll Buster do about this?

My advice is: Sit down and have a serious confab with her. Tell her, kindly but firmly, just what she is doing to you, and to your love for her, son. Stick up for your rights. No one else will respect them or protect them, if you won't.

Make her understand that you do love her, but that you insist on being yourself, just as she insists on being herself.

And if she won't?

Well, then, what do you advise, Stranger?

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Losing by the Right Play

Correct play does not always win in Bridge. There are hands upon which experts fall down that the beginner at the game would play successfully. Often in Bridge, as in life, knowledge and experience must bow before ignorance and inexperience.

Take as an example the hand below, which was played in the recent international match in London for the possession of the Charles M. Schwab Trophy, in which my husband and his partner, Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, reached the correct contract, and my husband played the hand correctly, only to be defeated as a result.

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Double	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♡	Pass	4 ♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding was perfect, as it is obvious that only a beginner would think of playing the hand at four spades, which, of course, would be made laid down. Against the four-heart contract Col. Beasley opened the club Queen and followed with the club 6, which Sir Guy won with the King, returning the diamond five. The average player after taking the diamond trick would play the Ace and King of spades and ruff another spade in West's hand, getting into Dummy with the heart Queen to run the remaining spade tricks. If spades and hearts break, the game is laid down.

Mr. Culbertson, however, tried to allow for the worst possible distribution—and he got it. He won the diamond lead with the Ace and entered Dummy by leading the spade Ten and winning with the Ace. He then led a low diamond from Dummy, but Sir Guy refused to ruff, discarding a club. Mr. Culbertson won the trick, led his last spade and won with the King in Dummy. He then returned another spade and Sir Guy again discarded, West ruffing. Eventually, such was the unfortunate distribution that the hand was defeated 1 trick.

You are East, the Declarer, at a final contract of five clubs. The Opening lead is the spade Knave, which you win with the Queen in your own hand. What card do you lead next?

Answer—A low club. East must lose 2 trump-tricks and can thus lose no other tricks. He has but one entry in Dummy and will wish to use this entry later to finesse in diamonds. If there were several entries to Dummy, Declarer's best policy would be to go over to Dummy and lead a low club from there for the first round of trumps. This line of play offers the best chance of losing but 2 club tricks. However, since the one entry in Dummy may be needed later in the play, it is best to lead trumps from the East hand. If East leads the Queen and there is either the singleton Ace or the singleton King in either hand, he will probably lose 3 trumps-tricks; if he leads a low club, he cannot lose more than 2 tricks if the clubs break 2-2 or if they break 3-1 with a singleton high honor in one hand. There is no division of the four opposing trumps which will make the Queen lead the winning one rather than a low card.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Service Plates

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—When one gives a formal dinner consisting of a fruit cocktail, stuffed chicken, asparagus, a leafy vegetable salad and dessert, at what time during the dinner should the service plates be removed?

2—Should the leafy vegetable salad be served on the same plate with the main course, or individually, or on a common plate on the table? T.

1—The fruit cocktail would be served probably in a low sherbet glass, with a plate under this glass. This is placed on the service plate. Then, when the next course is served, the main course, the waitress takes up the service plate with one hand as she substitutes the heated dinner plate with the other hand.

2—It would be more convenient, I think, to serve the salad on a separate plate, especially since the asparagus will probably not permit room on the dinner plate. Or, best would be for you to make your salad course a separate course, and with it serve heated biscuits or crackers, with cheese.

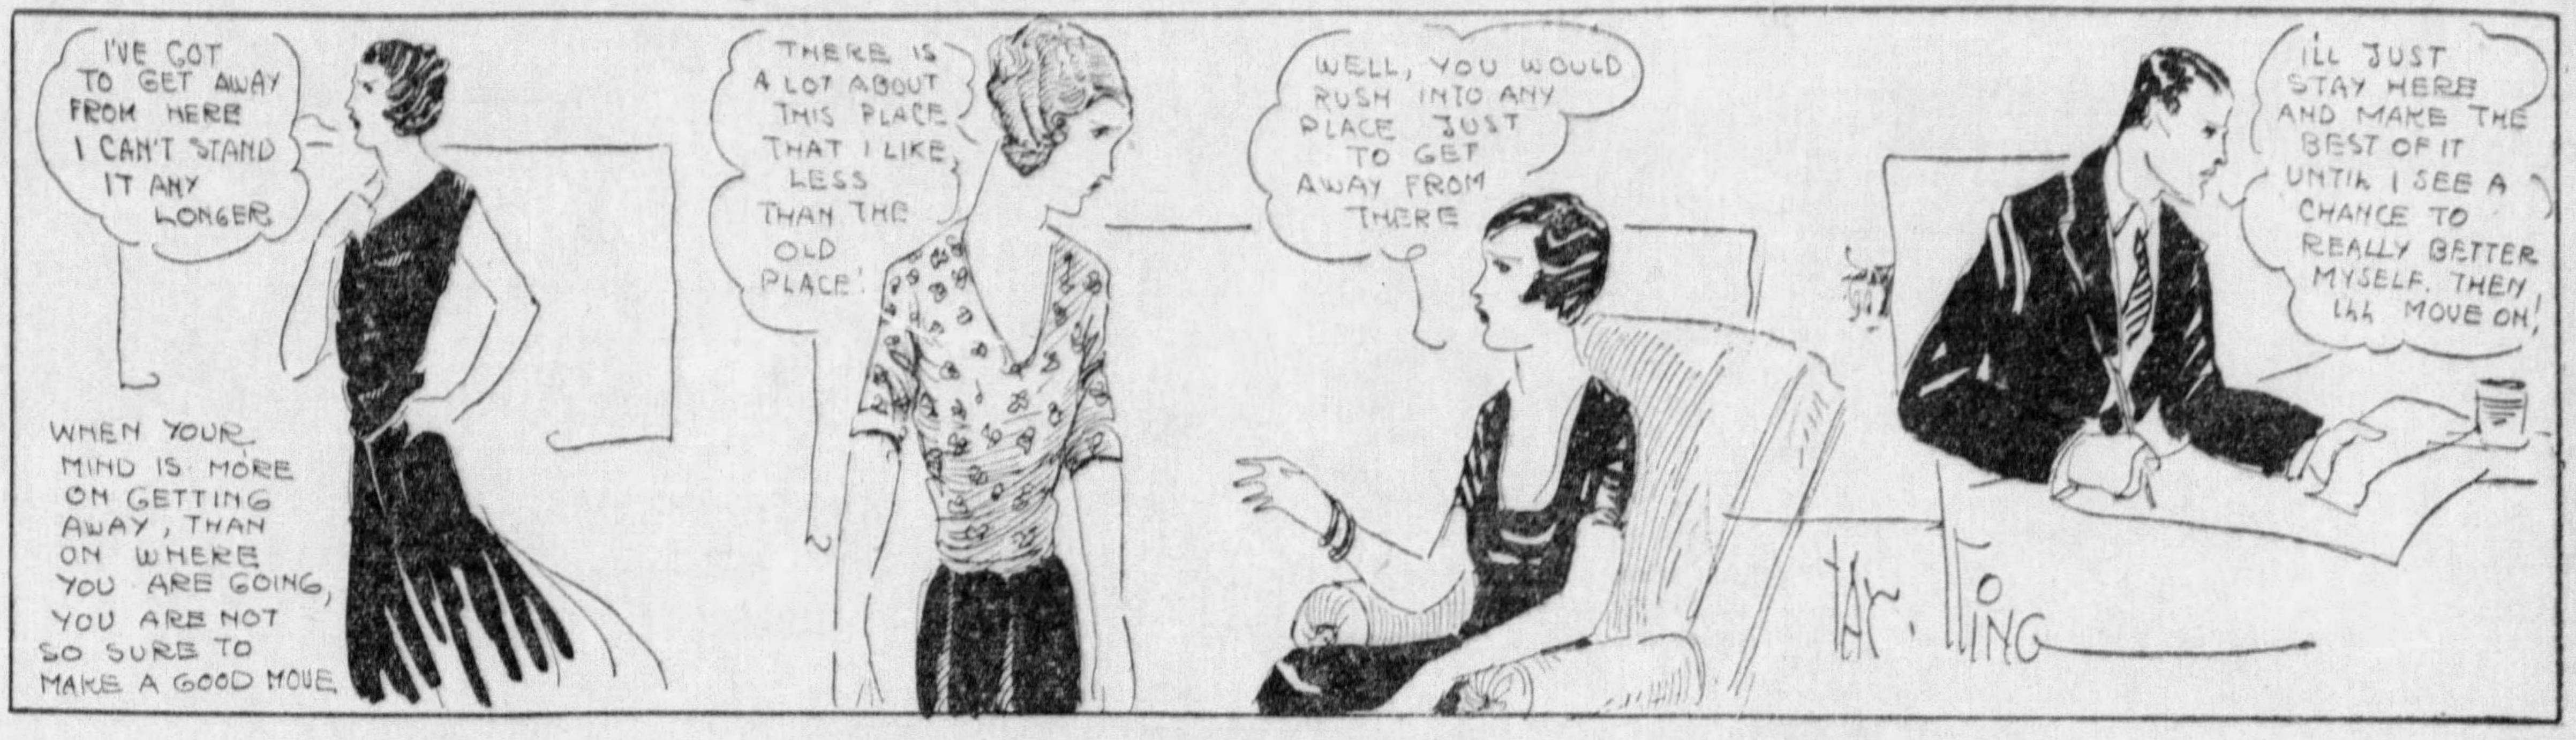
Real Nournishment

Perhaps the best way to build up the undernourished child without forcing him to eat is to disguise the milk and eggs in an attractive pudding. A particularly attractive sherbet glass may be reserved each day for this surprise. There is so much psychology in the feeding of a delicate child and it would be well for the mother to study this sideof it if she wants to get the youngster up to normal weight.

Fay King Warns Against Moving 'From,' Instead of 'To'



I'VE GOT TO GET AWAY FROM HERE I CAN'T STAND IT ANY LONGER
WHEN YOUR MIND IS MORE ON GETTING AWAY, THAN ON WHERE YOU ARE GOING, YOU ARE NOT SO SURE TO MAKE A GOOD MOVE
THERE IS A LOT ABOUT THIS PLACE THAT I LIKE LESS THAN THE OLD PLACE!
WELL, YOU WOULD RUSH INTO ANY PLACE JUST TO GET AWAY FROM THERE
I'LL JUST STAY HERE AND MAKE THE BEST OF IT UNTIL I SEE A CHANCE TO REALLY BETTER MYSELF, THEN I'LL MOVE ON!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

Always move TO—never FROM!

There is a vast difference.

When we make a move FROM any place we are peeved, petulant and impatient to get away. So much so that any place seems better, when in reality it may be infinitely worse.

But when we move TO a place, we are considering and concentrating upon its advantages. We are weighing well the comparative disadvantages, too, for every place has these also.

Just when we are most dissatisfied and things seem the most intolerable, it is best to make no move at all.

Better to stand things as they are a little longer than to make a change while in that state of mind that magnifies the disadvantages of where we are, and diminishes our judgment of where we would go.

Madge Tells of Her Consent to Early Marriage

At Philip Veritzen's humorous injunction to tell him what it was that Lillian and I wanted of him, I caught back a panicky little exclamation. It was the essence of our plan for Noel and Mary that it should not appear a premeditated thing upon my part and, above all, that Lillian should not have shared it.

Lillian is never at a loss, however, and her amused little laugh was a perfect thing.

"You've got me wrong, old dear," she drawled. "I craves nuffin' from yoh, 'cepting yoh hand in holy matrimony, and as I've got a puffickly good husband—"

INSISTS UPON KNOWING

"As you both know, to my sorrow," Mr. Veritzen answered with a rueful smile, "I can deny neither of you anything. So tell me at once what it is you want, and I will get ready to move mountains, or any other slight task desired."

"It is nothing I wish you to do," I began hesitantly. "It is simply that I want your approval on something I have done."

He stiffened ever so slightly, and I saw a wary look come into his eyes.

"This is most interesting—and intriguing," he said. "Tell me about it."

"I do not want you to think I had much time to make a decision," I told him, sparring desparately for time. "It was a question that came to me for decision out of a clear sky, and, as you already had put the matter entirely into my hands, I acted impulsively without getting in touch with you. Then, on the same impulse, I suppose, that locks the barn after the horse is stolen, I felt that I must tell you about it, even though my word has been passed and the decision is irrevocable."

Behind Mr. Veritzen's back, Lillian made silent gestures of enthusiastic applause, but I saw them only from the corner of my eye, for I was tremulously watching the man opposite me, wondering what his reaction would be to the statement I had just made.

I think he guessed something of my meaning at once, but he possesses what Lillian calls "the third degree of poker face," and only his silence for the fraction of a second gave any indication of the uneasiness which must have been his.

When he looked at me at last there was a whimsical look in his eyes, but I felt that some less pleasant emotion lurked behind it.

"If your 'word has been passed, and the decision is irrevocable,'" he quoted, smiling, "I do not see why you should tell me anything, unless you feel that confession will be good for your soul."

"I've always said Madge would make a good Flagellant," Lillian interposed. "She has to scourge her spirit every so often, and as for sackcloth, ashes and hair shirts, she could start a rummage sale of 'em."

We gave her the tribute of laughter which her nonsense usually brings forth, but if Mr. Veritzen's mirth was as hollow as mine, it was forced indeed.

"It isn't so much that I feel 'conviction of sin'," I told him, with a sad attempt at a smile, "as that I think you ought to know about what I have done, for it concerns you."

"Concerns me?" His tone was just the slightly astonished query that the statement demanded, but I sensed wild impatience behind the casual words.

VERITZEN FROWNS

"Yes," I snatched at my fleeting courage, anchored it with both hands and went on. "It's about Mary—your new plan for her."

His eyebrows narrowed into a frown.

"I am afraid my protege is indiscreet," he said. "I do not mind your knowing, of course, but I should have preferred to tell you myself. I cautioned her to say nothing to anyone, but she evidently flouted my suggestion. I suppose she also has told Noel."

He brought his son's name out with a palpable effort, and I realized that his iron composure was slipping. An imperceptible signal from Lillian told me that she advised telling him everything immediately.

"Yes, she told Noel of your plan to send her to France for a year's study, and of course they were terribly upset over so long a separation. They came to me in a panic, remembering that last Christmas time you had left the question of the time of their marriage with me."

ꝏ Hints for the Household ꝏ

Cream stains on white or fast color silk frocks should be soaked in methylated spirit for two or three minutes, adding two or three drops of ammonia. Then rub some cold soap jelly well into the stain. Wash and rinse in warm water.

Instead of throwing away those rusty curtain rings and hooks, cover them with water and vinegar, a little soap, and boil for a few minutes. Fish them out, polish hot with a dry cloth, and marvel to see how they are restored!

Don't throw away old rubber hot water bottles that leak. They make fine kneeling mats for house or garden use.

If you moisten stove polish with a little vinegar, a brilliant shine will result.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Man About Town

The George Metaxas were final-decreed on Thursday, the same day his heart, Peggy Stafford of the social sector, also turned sour . . . Republican County Chairman Sam Koenig's daughter (Mrs. Leslie Winik) is telling it to a Reno divider . . . Jackie (Kid) Berg of the ring and Bunty Paine of Mr. Cochran's chorus were merged in London on Aug. 11, and are on the high seas bound here . . . It isn't the humidity at all. It's the Anita Louise-Tom Brown and Lola Lane-Lyle Talbot heatwaves . . . David Hutton, Aimee's groom, knew those eggs would be thrown. He plotted it with the theater's exploiter—he's that stage struck . . . Titter or don't, but the insiders know all about the "understanding" between Miss Garbo and the heir to a foreign throne . . . The recent brawl in Hollywood in which John Considine was beaten senseless, still has the papers there wondering who the woman is—who "went to town" in a rage.

That up-State "snatch," according to local lather, was a form of vengeance—over an alleged $60,000 welch . . . There isn't much of a return on a $100,000 annuity. Peggy Joyce, however, bought one—but you can't shop at Carnegie's on that . . . The Duchess of Aosta (King Emanuel's kin) hopes it'll be a lad next month—so that the throne will have an heir . . . Add indications to what Broadway can expect: A movie exec came East to inspect 64 new plays in tryouts—and returned to the Coast without one! . . . The Ralph Wilks of Film Daily are cradle-shopping . . . Add surprising facts: Pres. Roosevelt's choice for Mayor of New York is his former critic, Alfred E. Smith.

Marilyn Miller has pledged against whoopee, and has her figure again. Chiefly from unnecessary worry that her comeback won't click . . . The late Louise Closser Hale's nasty "break" was that her last picture reveals her as a witch—which she wasn't—but a dear, dear old lady . . . Charles Francis Coe has shelved everything for the ad business—and his first account is General Electric! . . . Damon Runyon's first flicker "Lady For a Day" is "in" . . . The "deal" now being patterned is that Gov. Lehman will succeed Mr. Woodin "at the proper time"—that Lieut. Gov. Bray will do one year—and that Postmaster Farley will be New York's next master.

This and that Senatorial quiz will revive the shipbuilding scandal, which gave Wm. B. Shearer a "recess" and then was mysteriously dropped . . . Phil Harris, a huge hit in Hollywood, is very sad about New York . . . It's a boy at the Frank Beavens . . . Fred Pasley, who put Capone between covers, has completed one on the Scottsboro Case defense attorney, Liebowitz. It will be tagged "Not Guilty!" . . . All that mess that came out of the Morgan quiz was packed in Talbot Taylor's "Panicmakers." No publisher would touch it, saying it was crowded with dynamite, so the author, who put U. S. Steel on the market, turned his manuscript over to Mr. Roosevelt.

Curtis Dall, son-in-law of the White House, is tapping an impatient toe . . . Col. Roscoe Turner is plotting to break his own record—a round-trip coast to coaster within 21 hours. . . Lillian Bond is in the "middle," again . . . The "Dancing Girl" nude which Roxy booted out of Radio City is a World's Fair money-maker . . . Conrado Massaguer, eminent caricaturist, exiled from Havana, returns there for a major role in Cuba's new deal.

Lupe Velez and Peggy Fears are at war—over the usual reason . . . Johnny Weismuller can be comforted by this item. His opposition Tarzan, Buster Crabbe, is actually first-named Clarence! . . . La Guinan get $4,000 for only one week in Zanuck's forthcoming "Broadway" flicker . . . Sheila Barrett may Vendome it for the Wilkersons in Hollywood, a good buy . . . Gordon Andrews, conductor of the Ha-Ha crew, and Floria Vestoff will elope this wk. . . . Have some irony: The world's champion, Carnera, is practically broke . . . Father Coughlin is planning his own magazine . . . William Lyman, Bronx Democratic leader, was secretly married two days ago.

Music

Schenley Lawn Concert

The little Symphony Orchestra, under Victor Saudek, presented its closing concert of the summer series on the lawn of the Hotel Schenley last night. Assisting artists were Helen Bell Rush, soprano; Rafel Diaz, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera; Pierre DeBacker, violinist, and the Pioneers male quartet with Aneurin Bodycombe as director-accompanist.

The high spots of the evening were the Victor Herbert music which comprised the first half of the program, the singing of Rafael Diaz, who attended the concert unexpectedly on his way West, and the playing of the last movement of the "Farewell Symphony" by Franz Joseph Haydn.

Miss Rush's voice and those of the quartet are familiar to local radio listeners. Among their contributions were the "Italian Street Song" and the "Gypsy Love Song" from Herbert's facile pen, and two quartet numbers by Harvey Gaul. Mr. Saudek gave a fine reading of Herbert's Irish operetta "Eileen."

Mr. Diaz sang the "Flower Song" from "Carmen," assisted by the orchestra. A great demonstration produced two encores from him. A movement from the Wieniawski violin concerto No. 2 was played by Mr. DeBacker and well received.

The scene of the Farewell Symphony was impressive. With no light but the ancient glow of candles Mr. Saudek led the orchestra through the work in a most sympathetic fashion. As a stirring climax to the season the orchestra and the audience joined in singing "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot."

Powell Takes Politician Role

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—A smart man admits his mistakes. Some time ago, Bill Powell refused to play a political boss in "The Dark Horse." Warren William took the part and it made him a star. Now Bill has consented to play a similar role in "The Gentleman From San Francisco."

This picture will be Powell's next after he finishes Philo Vancing in "The Kennel Murder Case." It will show him as the power behind the throne in the political affairs of a modern city—not, however, our northern neighbor.

Mr. Powell

There's still no getting Bill to talk over his marital troubles with Carole Lombard. After a few quiet days at Arrowhead Hot Springs, he returned to Hollywood and plunged into work.

Meanwhile, Carole continues to establish residence in Nevada. Mrs. Zeppo Marx has just returned from there (her trip had no legal motive) and reports that Carole is looking swell.

* * *

After "The Late Christopher Bean," you'll not be seeing Marie Dressler on the screen for quite a while. Even the three hours a day on the set are too much for the grand old trouper. She's going to take an extended vacation—three or four months. For the time being at least, she will remain in Hollywood or close by. "I'm too tired to think of plans," she says.

* * *

It's a good old motto, "To them that hath," etc. Several nights ago, Bill Candy, local socialite and owner of yachts and things, was dancing in the Cocoanut Grove. A scout from the Fox studio spotted him, asked him to make a screen test. Now he's working in a picture and playing, of all things, a bartender.

* * *

Crooning is not good enough for Russ Columbo. The singing star is aiming at grand opera. Pietro Cimini is helping develop his voice . . . Greta Garbo, who hates changes, must get used to a new maid. Her old one, the dusky Alma, has had to retire on account of ill health . . . Ben Lyon writes from London that he has just received a British pilot's license, making him the only Hollywood actor to hold both an American and a British certificate.

Mr. Columbo

* * *

Evelyn Venable, daughter of a Cincinnati professor and leading woman to Walter Hampden before Paramount signed her up, wouldn't have a good time at a weiner roast. She's a vegetarian . . . Hard luck pursues Fox stars. To the list of injured in the last few weeks is added Mimi Jordan. She stepped off the curb in Hollywood and a squash-and-run driver ran over her foot, breaking the middle toe.

Little Jane Harding, daughter of Ann, is minus her tonsils. Ann was with her in the hospital and, though considerably shaken, went to the studio later and made a test . . . And the phoney travel writers can look out. W. S. Van Dyke is a to write a book, "Debunking Adventure."

Did you know: That Ralph Morgan lost a $5 gold piece he had carried as a good luck charm for two years, and recently received it in change in a Los Angeles department store.

Variety Going Burlesque

Beginning September 2, burlesque will return to the Variety Theater, Penn avenue, opening the fall and winter season with one of the biggest shows of this type to be presented in this city in years. Its two acts and 38 scenes of singing and dancing and comedy will be given by a cast headed by Eddie Kaplin, one of the best Jewish comedians in burlesque, and Billy (Bumps) Mack. Forty people will be in the show exclusive of a picked chorus of 20 Pittsburgh girls.

Manager George Jaffe, in announcing the reopening of the Variety, states that, with the exception of principals, all musicians, chorus girls, ushers, stage hands and the technical staff of the theater will be Pittsburgh residents. Fifty to 60 persons will be given employment, Mr. Jaffe says. He has signed the theater code of the NRA.

The Variety, formerly the Academy, has been redecorated, and the foyer and lounge rooms have been remodeled and refurnished.

Simpson Goes Into "Chan" Picture

Ivan Simpson, who appeared with George Arliss in every stage and screen play he made during a period of 12 years, has temporarily severed that partnership to appear in "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case," with Warner Oland.

Roche Story For Film

Cosmopolitan Productions announces that its next feature picture will be "Penthouse," made from a dramatic serial story that has been running in Cosmopolitan Magazine since last May and which is concluded in the September issue.

"Penthouse" was written by Arthur Somers Roche, and was one of the most sought stories of the year for motion picture purposes. It has to do with racketeering on a "penthouse" scale.

The motion picture division of the public relations activities of the NRA is engaged in mobilizing the screens of the country to carry the message of the New Deal to the public through a graphic presentation of it. In many theaters next week there will be shown a trailer carrying the official message. It will be followed up, about September 1, by the first of a series of short motion pictures, featuring noted stars in short subjects pertaining to the New Deal, written by prominent authors. They will be contributed by the leading motion picture studios, including Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner Brothers, Fox, Paramount, Universal, Columbia, United Artists, RKO, Harold Lloyd and others.

HUSTON URGES G. O. P. BOLT TO BEAT COYNE

Mr. Huston

John M. Huston, who yesterday astonished political circles by leaving the Republican party to become a candidate for a Democratic councilmanic nomination, today invited his friends to enroll as Democrats as the best means of defeating the "machine-controlled Republican forces of Senator James J. Coyne."

Huston said he had tried to bring harmony to the Republican factions opposed to Coyne, but when that proved hopeless, decided to throw in with the Democratic regular organization, which has William N. McNair as its mayoralty candidate.

Huston, who lives in the Tenth Ward, originally was a member of the Citizens League, left that organization to preside at a meeting which indorsed Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell for the Republican mayoralty nomination, and now has turned to McNair. This is his first race for public office.

INDEPENDENTS 'HOPELESS'

In his announcement he said:

"For the past few months, in an effort to help eliminate Coyneism from our city government, I have been identified with and interested in the Independent movement for better government.

"During this time I have lent my efforts to try and reconcile the difference between the various Republican candidates to the end that we would have that most essential thing to secure a victory over the machine-controlled Republican forces of Senator Coyne, namely—one Independent candidate for Mayor who could win against Mr. Coyne's candidate.

"But the task was hopeless. As time went on the Independent forces, instead of getting together, drew farther apart—reaching such a stage that there was, in my opinion, no chance to defeat the Coyne forces in the Republican primary.

"As there seems to be no hope for better government from the Republican party in this city, many of my closest friends, inspired by the great record ovr Democratic President has made in Washington, and further inspired by the record of the Democratic legislators at Harrisburg, have urged me that if I really want to help bring about better government in Pittsburgh it was my duty to run on the Democratic ticket for council of the City of Pittsburgh.

"Consequently, in this fight for good government and the end of Coyneism I am proud to be aligned with the party of President Roosevelt, and to run with so staunch a supporter of President Roosevelt as William N. McNair."

Mr. Huston has been connected with Donahoe's for over 23 years, and is affiliated with many fraternal organizations.

'CHARLEY ROSS' CLAIM FILED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Convinced he is Charley Ross, who was kidnaped when five years old from the home of his millionaire father in Philadelphia, Fred Hendrickson, now a gray-haired man of 65, said today he would ask permission through the courts for legal use of the name to which he lays claim.

An action to restore the name of Charley Ross will be brought by Hendrickson's attorney, G. R. Lessing, who said no effort would be made to claim a share of the Ross family fortune.

Charley Ross was kidnaped from the family estate in Germantown, Pa., in 1874. No trace was ever found of him and nearly 50 different men have claimed to be the missing heir.

Mayor, Judgeship Candidates to Talk

John B. Sweeney, candidate for both Republican and Democratic mayoralty nominations in McKeesport, will address an open-air meeting tonight on the lawn of the Reformed Church, Library and Union avenues, McKeesport.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for Common Pleas Court, also will speak. A meeting has been called for Thursday night at the Highland Grove.

Uncle Sam's Cash On Hand Largest Since War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Uncle Sam had more cash in his pocket this morning than at any time except during the war.

There was $1,247,389,348 of spendable money in the Treasury. It got there through the sale of $1,189,901,650 of bonds and notes. This netted $389,755,150 to be spent on the administration's recovery program after deducting refunding operations and payments of interest on the public debt.

There already was a balance of $757,634,198.

POLITICAL FEUD IN WILMERDING

There was dissension today in Wilmerding's political family.

Councilman Julius Peduzzi, of the Fourth Ward, believes that a councilman should have more power than a police captain. He is particularly interested in Councilman Peduzzi having more power than Police Capt. W. T. Surran, of Wilmerding.

Peduzzi told Council last night that there has been a slight difference between him and Curran for two months, as the result of an argument.

He was willing to forgive all, he said, but Capt. Curran had belittled his political leadership to Peduzzi adherents of the Fourth Ward—had even claimed to possess greater power than their favorite Councilman. What, he asked Council, did they think of that?

Council passed the query to its police committee.

SANBORN CLUES FAIL SLEUTHS

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The movements of Henry F. Sanborn, socially prominent New York railroad executive between July 16 and August 5, the day his bullet-pierced body was found in a Long Island ditch, remained shrouded in mystery today.

Two New York detectives, who spent two days in Connecticut trying to follow Sanborn's trail after he was seen aboard a bus at East Haddam by his fiancee, July 16, returned to New York, apparently with little new information.

The clue given New York police by Miss Magnhild Almskaar, the fiancee, placed Sanborn in Connecticut the day befort his associates said he disappeared only to be found slain weeks later at Bayside, L. I., but whether they traced him beyond the small Connecticut community, they did not reveal.

The detectives spent the afternoon searching through the records of a recent re-organization of the Weibel Brewery Company and questioning officials of the company as to their knowledge of Sanborn.

Gas Blast in Home Injures Avella Girl

AVELLA, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Olive Gianotto, 19 is in a hospital, badly burned in a gas explosion which blew all the windows out of a room in which she was ironing clothes.

Electric fixtures were being installed in the Stephen Gianotto home. A spark from a new wall plug is believed to have ignited gas escaping from a leak in disconnected pipes.

Dying Jap Envoy Joins Catholic Faith

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Hiruoki Kawai, the Japanese minister to Poland, died today shortly after having embraced the Catholic faith. He was baptized by the papal nuncio.

The minister succumbed from tuberculosis at nearby Otwock.

CRAFTON SEEKS TO ORGANIZE NEW BANK

A campaign has been launched in Crafton for the organization of a new bank recently approved by the Comptroller of the Currency.

The new institution to be known as the Crafton National Bank will take over good assets of the old First National Bank of Crafton, and immediately make available to depositors in the old institution approximately 60 per cent of their money, according to L. P. Meyers, president of the new bank.

Depositors of the old bank will be asked to contribute the major part of the $100,000 capital and $10,000 surplus of the new institution, although efforts will be made to raise new money in the community, Meyers stated.

TO SELL ASSETS

The remaining assets of the old bank will be gradually sold and applied to dividends on the unpaid 40 per cent of the deposits, he said.

At the time the old bank closed, total deposits amounted to $800,000, of which approximately $150,000 were secured deposits such as borough and school funds.

The organization of new banks follows a policy now being generally followed by the Comptroller of the Currency in opening the closed institutions, according to Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson, representative of the Comptroller of the Currency, who is in Pittsburgh seeking to hasten action on closed banks.

CONFERENCES HELD

Judge Johnson has been holding conferences with officials of many of the closed national banks, and has expressed himself pleased with the results. Wherever a re organization is possible, it will be done, but in some cases there will have to be receivers, he said.

Officers and directors for the new Crafton National Bank approved by the government are: L. P. Meyers, president; Jess H. Cramer, vice president; J. W. Giffin, cashier, and J. D. Rex, F. C. Biggert, Jr., and W. T. Speer, directors.

4 Women Mystics Read Magistrate's Mind, Go Free

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Magistrate Benjamin Marvin believes in letting occupation justify itself.

Four women charged with "telling fortunes" were brought before him. He said:

"I'll give you a chance to guess the amount of money I propose to fine you. If you guess it you'll go free. If you don't you'll each pay double."

He jotted down a figure and the four went into a huddle. Finally the spokesman said:

"Five dollars."

The magistrate admitted:

"You're right. All dismissed."

Boy Scouts End World Jamboree

GODOLLO, Hungary, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—American boys who attended the fourth world Boy Scout jamboree left on the homeward trip today with the conclusion of the convention.

The shout "Brother" three times in languages of all countries was the concluding exercise. Count Paul Teleky, former Hungarian premier, emphasized that the boys should write to each other and thus continue the friendships formed here.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

And again we return to that exciting topic—our lenghty list of debutantes for the fall. Today a new name is added, bringing the list of sure-to-come-out debs to 37.

Antoinette Vilsack is the attractive addition. She's the young daughter of the Maurice Vilsacks, of Beechwood boulevard. And her mother is planning a coming out party for her during the holidays.

She left last night for Fisher's Island, New York, where she'll be the guest of Gertrude Jones at the Jones cottage there. Antoinette and Gertrude, whose winter home is in South Orange, N. J., were classmates this past winter in Miss Stout's Travelling European School.

* * *

As friends of Mrs. Newton Chapin, the playwright, expected, her three-act drawing room comedy, "Love Flies in the Window," given for the first time Monday night at the Berkshire Playhouse in Strockbridge, Mass., was a grand success.

Comedy Success

And the Chapins, who live in Sewickley, were there, of course. Mrs. Chapin, who signs her work Ann Morrison Chapin, was there for the rehearsals, too.

* * *

The Edward B. Sculls, of the Hotel Schenley, have been at The Inn, Buck Hills Falls in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania.

* * *

The Edgeworth Club's tennis court is popular these cool mornings with the sub-debs of Sewickley, who by the way, are most attractive. Yesterday there were a number of them playing and for their game they wore the gayest cotton prints.

Courts Popular

Mary Stoner's was of white cotton material with pert bows of blue and white dots on either shoulder and a twisted belt of blue and white. Winifred Miller's sleeveless frock was of blue and white striped seersucker with a square neckline and bows on the shoulders.

Laura Liggett's coat of deep tan was enhanced by brown linen with buttons as the only trimming on the pockets and pointed bands over the shoulders. A smartly tailored cotton print in fine red and white bars was the choice of Mira Bowman. Also playing were blonde Shirley Adams and Jean Thornton.

Mrs. Richard Khuen was playink a set on the courts with Mrs. Estep Gott, too, and Mrs. Khuen was dressed in a cool blue and white flowered print and her partner's frock was of blue and white checked gingham.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Just who will take the late Miss Lide Shafer's place as social arbiter hasn't been settled yet.

And by taking her place I'm referring to her work, of course, and not her place in the affections of Pittsburgh social register families.

At present there are at least three different persons who are doing Miss Shafer's work. They are Miss Elizabeth Tebbetts, of Sheridan avenue; Mrs. Richard T. Frick, of Sewickley; and Eleanor Longenecker, of St. James street.

Miss Tebbetts probably will be the one most interested in carrying on the work over a period of time. She'll pay a visit to the National Social Register offices in New York, by the way, on her way East this week, to settle affairs.

She has been for a long time social secretary, I might add, for Mrs. George M. Laughlin III. And her sisters, Miss Ruth and Miss Elizabeth Tebbetts have a needlepoint studio where the interesting annual needlepoint exhibits are held.

* * *

The Tebbett sisters, Miss Mary, Miss Ruth, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Marian, will leave today to be the guests of Miss Katherine May Edwards, at her cottage in Old Lyme, Conn. They'll return to town the first week in September.

Polly Schoyer, Pittsburgh young tennis enthusiast, whom I mentioned yesterday, has won no less than three matches this summer. She lost in the mixed doubles. She's summering with her family at Biddeford Pool, Me.

Pittsburgh Families on Vacation at Seashore

The number of vacationists at the Shore is increasing. Among recent arrivals in Atlantic City are Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Langfitt, of Ben Avon; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hope, of the Arlington Apartments; Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gehres, of Hastings street, all of whom are stopping at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall.

At the same hotel are William D. McCormick, of South Fairmount avenue; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Ebberts, of Heberton avenue; Mrs. A. L. McLaughlin and Miss Helen McLaughlin, of Broughton street; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Boyd, of Filmore street; Mrs. J. Bigenwald and Miss Ann Bigenwald, of South Evaline street; James S. Crawford, of South Lexington avenue.

Still others are Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Miller, of West Kennedy avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dengel, of Quincy street; Mrs. W. L. Sloan, of Jackson street; Miss Jean McLachlan, of Jackson street; Mrs. W. W. King, of Coral street, and Hugh R. Hughes, of Alder street.

EVELYN EVANS ARRIVING AT ALLEGHENY COUNTRY CLUB . . SHE'S THE DAUGHTER OF THE HOWARD SALISBURY EVANSES

Harriett Dornbush, August Bride, Much Feted

Much entertaining is being done honoring Miss Harriett Dornbush, who will be a bride of Saturday. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dornbush, of Highland avenue, Bellevue Heights, and she will marry Charles Donald Benner, of Ben Avon Heights, in the parlors of the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Miss Katharine Benner is giving a bridge tea this afternoon in the Shannopin Country Club for her future sister-in-law, and tomorrow night Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkes, of Peace avenue, are giving a party. Miss Eleanor Weitzel is to be hostess at the rehearsal dinner Friday night.

Other entertainments honoring Miss Dornbush include a bridge party given by Miss Betty Leyda, of Dawson avenue; a bridge by Miss Isabelle Epley, of Bartlett street; a luncheon at which Mrs. R. Ripley, of Highland avenue, was hostess, and a bridge-luncheon by Mrs. Harold Jackson.

Miss McPherson To Be Married September 16

Miss Elsie L. McPherson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. McPherson, of North Jackson street, Bellevue, has named September 16 as the date for her riage to G. E. F. Scheffel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Scheffel, of Maple avenue, North Side.

The marriage will take place that evening in the McPherson home. Miss McPherson will have Miss Mary Pickett, of Bellevue, as her maid of honor, and James Coleman, of the North Side, will be best man.

East End Girls Return From Cleveland Visit

Miss Gladys Weinberg and Miss Rose Pechersky, of the East End, have returned from a visit with friends in Cleveland.

Murna Gwendolyn Emeigh To Marry on August 26

Miss Murna Gwendolyn Emeigh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Emeigh, of Grandin avenue, Dormont, has named Saturday, August 26, as the date for her marriage to Charles B. Pierce, of Dormont, which will take place in the Dormont Presbyterian Church.

Miss Emeigh has chosen her sister, Miss Helen Emeigh, to be her maid of honor, and Miss Sarah Ewalt to be bridesmaid. Small Joan Shirley Emeigh will be the flower girl. Fenton Laucks, of Reading, Pa., is to be the best man and ushers will include Albert Tosh, of Pittsburgh; Edgar Lutz, of Denver, Pa.; Frederick Mowry, of Geistown, Pa., and Earl Haupt, of Somerset, Pa. Officiating will be a friend of Miss Emeigh and her fiance, the Rev. Frederick Luchs, of Monroe, Pa., a fraternity brother of the bridegroom-elect. Miss Marie Verner is to sing, accompanied by Josiah P. Smith, at the organ.

Miss Emeigh attended Carnegie Tech and is a graduate of the Slippery Rock State Teachers' College, and for the past two years has taught in the Dormont schools. Her fiance is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., and is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha.

During the past weeks the bride-elect has been feted at a number of parties. Miss Gladys Campbell and Miss Marie Verner entertained and the Girls Guild of the Dormont Presbyterian Church also gave a party. The teachers in the Hillsdale School gave a buffet picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Dale Whipkey, of Connellsville, and on Saturday afternoon there will be a bridge luncheon in the Hotel Schenley at which Miss Sarah Ewalt will be the hostess, assisted by Miss Hilda Ballard, Miss Elva Ackleson, Miss Elinor Keefer, Miss Katherine McKenna and Mrs. Mary Eggers.

Miss Emeigh will give her spinster dinner in the Gypsy Tea Room Wednesday evening, and the maid of honor is giving the rehearsal dinner Friday evening preceding the ceremony.

Emsworth Group to Hold Clinic Benefit Tonight

To assist in defraying expenses of the children's clinic at the Bellevue Suburban Hospital, the Emsworth health committee of the North Boroughs Council will have a lawn bingo and card party this evening at the home of the committee chairman, Mrs. William F. Alexander, Beaver road Emsworth. In case of rain, the affair will be held tomorrow.

Miss Hossford to Speak On Federation's Hour

"Sight Saving," the work in which she is engaged, will be discussed by Miss Dorothy Hossford, of the Pittsburgh Association for the Blind, when she gives the State Federation's radio program over KDKA at 3:45 tomorrow afternoon. This is the third in a federation-sponsored series of talks on children's problems.

Mrs. Joseph Kippella Heads Outing Group

Mrs. Joseph Kippella heads the committee arranging for gypsy dancing at Hungarian Day, Saturday, in Kennywood Park. A real Hungarian kitchen, with food cooked in homeland fashion, will be established and the highly-spiced dishes, rich gravies and dressings will be served in place of regulation picnic fare by women from all over Allegheny County.

Mrs. Kippella.

Magyar folk songs, ballads and classical Hungarian music will be heard at the concert, which is to feature the day. Miss Julia Balint and Miss Margaret Erdey will be soloists and the Hungarian Self Culture Society will sing under Elmer Klimko's direction. The outing is an annual event sponsored by the Congress of Hungarian Churches and Societies of Pittsburgh and Vicinity.

Pageant Feature Of Benefit for Peace League

One of the chief features of the benefit entertainment which the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will give tomorrow night at Mrs. Norman W. Storer's home, Reynolds street, will be a pageant "The Crowning of Peace". It will be presented under the direction of Miss Gladys Anne Garber. A musical reading of "All O' the World a Home" will be done in costume and Miss Garber will give impersonations.

The program also includes an address by Dr. Henry Frank, professor of chemistry at Ling Man University, Canton, China, who is on leave of absence and visiting his father, Dr. Austin Frank, of Denniston avenue. Quartet numbers will be sung by Mrs. Frances Ray Dunlevy, Miss Frances Norris, Edgar Morris and Willington Carl with Miss Virginia Ray as accompanist.

Sisterhood Sponsoring Play-Dance Tomorrow

The Tree of Life Sisterhood, which is sponsoring a play-dance tomorrow night, announces that the play will be presented by the Stage Guild in the Oakmont High School and that dancing will take place later at the Willows.

* * *

Rigo Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, will have a bingo party after the meeting on Friday night in Serbian Hall, Fifth avenue, Oakland. Playing will begin at 9 o'clock.

D.A.R. Motorcade To Visit Farm Of Members

Gen. John Neville Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will make a motor trip on Saturday to the home of three members, Miss Mary Elizabeth and Miss Ella Gertrude Powell and Mrs. May Powell Lee near Oil City. The motorcade will leave Pittsburgh early Saturday morning and will be served a chicken and corn dinner.

The remainder of the day will be spent at games and sports and in viewing the many objects of interest which have been collected by the Powell family since 1818 when the farm was purchased by Samuel Powell. He and his family first lived in a log cabin and later built the present house which was the first plastered and painted house in what was then known as Pine Grove Township.

The timbers in the house and barn were held together by wooden pegs and the stone in the walls was found on the place itself. The family came to Pennsylvania from New England in ox-carts.

After supper many of the Daughters will go on to Cook Forest for overnight.

Girl Scouts Make Gain of 6,791 During June

An increased membership of 6,791 Girl Scouts for the month of June this year is the contribution of the national organization to the post-depression record. The increase for this month is almost double that of June, 1932, according to a statement just issued at national headquarters in New York City. It brings the present active membership for the first half of 1933 to 305,315.

The lure of camp always stimulates registrations, and this year has proved no exception. Crowded enrollments in Girl Scout camps throughout the country have exceeded every expectation of Girl Scout leaders.

Camp Andree, the national experimental camp at Briarcliff Manor, New York, where Girl Scouts between the ages of 14 and 18, who meet the requirements, come from every state in the union, opened with a capacity registration for the first two weeks of the season, and every succeeding period for the remainder of summer has a full enrollment.

Lochbrae, the new Girl Scout camp on the shore of Lake Kanawaukee, in the Palisades Interstate Park, at Bear Mountain, N. Y., opened its first encampment with an enrollment of 125 girls from nearby towns and cities in New Jersey.

Advisory Committee For City P. T. A. Named

The advisory committee to Pittsburgh Council Parent-Teacher Association for the coming season includes Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of education; Mrs. Frederick B. Chalfant, of the Board of Education; Miss Esther M. Smith, president of the Teachers' Association, and Miss Adda M. Mann, president of the Principals' Club.

Mrs. W. E. Brosius is president of the council; Mrs. H. C. Courtwright and Mrs. Bertram F. Handloser are vice presidents; Mrs. C. H. Bassler is recording secretary; Mrs. C. D. Harnack, corresponding secretary, and Miss M. Elizabeth Wolf, treasurer.

Glenshaw and East End Folks in Ocean City

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Scholl, of Middle road, Glenshaw, are at Ocean Gardens, Ocean City, N. J. With them are Mr. and Mrs. William Guckert, of Howe street, East End, and their son, W. L. Guckert, of Chicago, formerly of Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Butts Visit With S. W. Grays

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred E. Butts, of Albany, N. Y., are spending part of their vacation at the home of Mrs. Butts' parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Gray, of Bigham street, Mt. Washington. From Pittsburgh they will go to Buffalo to visit Mr. Butts' parents.

East Liberty Juniors' Initial Year Book Being Sent Out

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The very first year book issued by the Junior Auxiliary to the East Liberty Woman's Club is in the mail. It's a neat looking booklet, bound in blue and lettered in silver and its pages carry much promise for the first full season. The club was organized in April and joined the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women and the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Club the same month.

With Mrs. Robert P. Marshall continuing as president, the auxiliary will begin its season on September 9 with the president's reception at the East Liberty Young Women's Christian Association. A program of dances, readings and music will mark the event.

Mrs. Clifford C. Taylor is to talk on "Our Neighbors' Children" when the members meet September 15 for their first regular session. A tour of the H. J. Heinz plant will be held later in the month and in October the members will go to the Allegheny Observatory. A club institute conducted by Mrs. H. D. Stark, district chairman of club institutes in the State Federation, is listed for October 20; a visit to the International Art Exhibit at Carnegie Institute for November 7 and a talk on parliamentary law by Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., for November 17.

Guests are invited to the Yule program when "Christmas in Picture, Song and Story" will be presented. On the twenty-seventh of the month a holiday party for children will be given. January's events are a tour of the A. J. Logan Company's plant, and a book review by George Seibel, of the Sun-Telegraph. A valentine party and descriptive talks concerning the Century of Progress Exposition will make up February's interests, March brings a citizenship program and April the annual meeting and a benefit bridge to close the year.

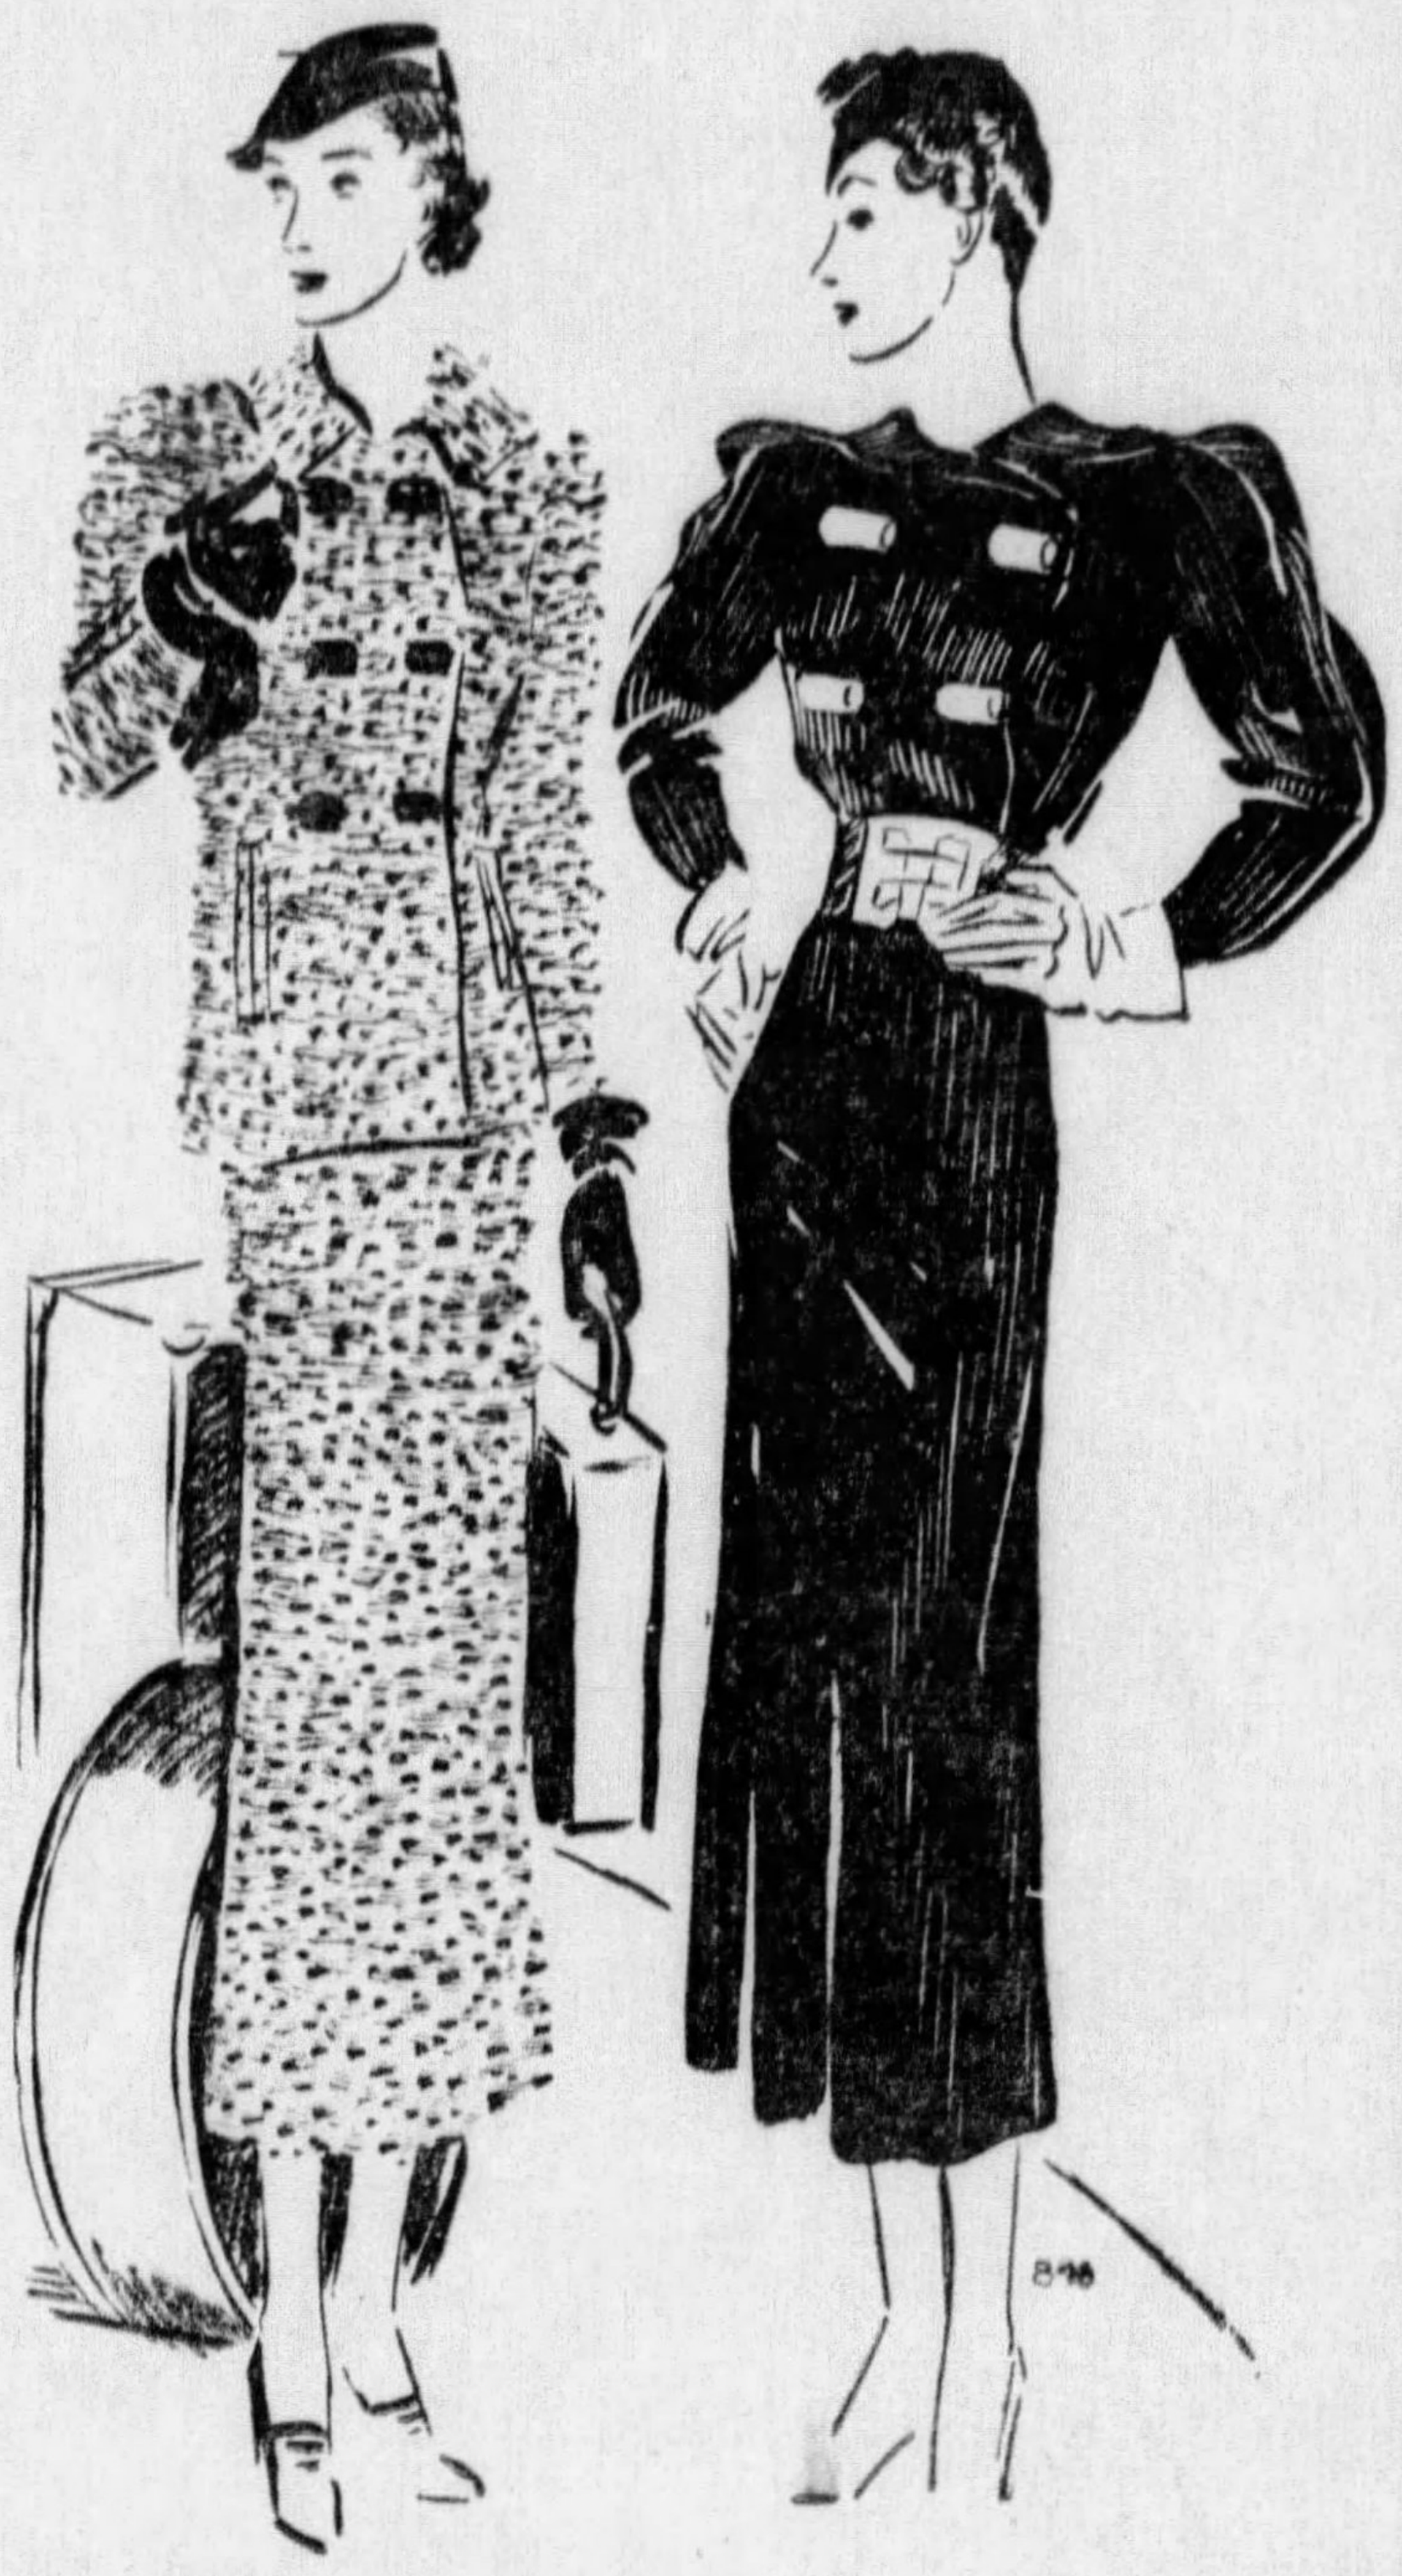
SMART CAMPUS COSTUMES SEEN AT A VERY EARLY "PRE-VIEW"



THE DRAWING hasn't been faked. It really was made in Grand Central Station recently. Two girls, who in a few weeks would be taken for students, were 'caught' as they started on their last vacation trip. Undoubtedly, on a wager, we could find the same girls, in the same clothes, in the same terminal, when the mad exodus back to school begins.

* * *

IT'S UNNECESSARY to put the clothes problem up to any girl who's been to college before. Good taste is foregone conclusion with her. Close scrutiny of a large group of well-dressed girls give her a sort of seventh sense about the whole thing. She has little to do with whimsies, she loathes fads in fashions and "tricks" as much as all well-dressed women do. The bad stands out from the good like a sore thumb to her, with geegaws included among the "bad." Simple tailored things get second notice and praise.

* * *

AS YOU can see, clothes for the much discussed college life have become simple and far saner than they've been in years, but they're prettier and more youthful, too. Take one good look at the practically perfect choice of both girls in the sketch. Paradoxically, sensitive young girls who have a habit of yearning to look older would have spurned that Peter-Pan-like collar and childish box coat last year—now it's the fashion for sophisticates to take to naive things!

* * *

THE SELECTION of this tweedy suit evidently needs good judgement ambout accessories. Felt, preferably. And by the same token of ensemble ideas in sets, a bag, hat, purse, gloves of exactly the same shade.

* * *

DO YOU remember the popularity of picwale this last summer? One dress manufacturer responsible for many successes, took this fabric and developed it in a heavier weight to wear right now and later under warm coats. There'll be loud huzzahs for this fine ribbed navy dress with its clever belt. If you've spent your summer near a polo field, you must recognize this as a very faithful copy of the broad leather belt all polo players wear.

* * *

THE LUGGAGE that looks so spic and span and expensive might possibly have been achieved by new canvas-covers inexpensively made to fool you completely. It's a good idea, taking hold.

* * *

AS THE DAYS go by, we'll let you know what information we're picking up about the rest of the college wardrobe. Festivities and parties, football games, sorority teas, trips into town—all these occassions make their own special demands on you. They can be arranged for quite easily.

GIRL, SCOLDED, MISSING

A statewide search was in progress today for Virginia Nord, 12, who disappeared from her home, 1213½ Hill avenue, Wilkinsburg, last night. Her father, Alex R. Nord, told Wilkinsburg police he had reprimanded the girl for keeping late hours. He said he believed she had gone to New Jersey to visit an aunt.

She left home in company of two girl friends to skate at a neighborhood rink. Shortly before they arrived there she left her friends, saying she had a package to deliver.

Police said they had traced the girl to the Wilkinsburg station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, where she inquired about trains to Manor. Virginia wore a blue "tam," short coat, and a light dress.

MOTHER—protect her baby skin!

Prevent irritation with KLEENEX disposable tissues

Illustration and text copr. 1933, Kleenex Co.

Use for handkerchiefs, for drying, as a bib, for everything! Surprisingly inexpensive.

MOTHERS call Kleenex "the friendly tissue" because it's so handy and practical for so many, many uses. It costs very little. You use each tissue just once, then destroy. It's even softer than linen, and infinitely more absorbent.

Here are but a few of the many comments received from mothers:

"Kleenex makes the ideal handkerchief. It's so soft and absorbent that I feel sure of the safety of it on baby's tender skin."

"I dry my baby with Kleenex after her bath. Even old linen doesn't absorb moisture so effectively, and thorough drying is important in any baby's comfort."

"I use a sheet of Kleenex tucked under the chin as grandfather does his napkin, when I give my baby her cod liver oil and orange juice which stain clothes so badly. Baby's dresses are spotless and mother's temper much improved now. Kleenex also cuts down laundry expense."

And these are only a few of the valuable uses for Kleenex! Use it to remove face creams and cosmetics the safe way. It blots all dirt and impurities from the pores. You will want a box in every room in your house.

Safer than handkerchiefs

Important for baby! Kleenex is made under the most hygienic conditions. It is kept clean, hygienic, even during use, by the patented, self-dispensing, pull-out carton. You touch only the tissues you are about to use. Your hand never enters the box to contaminate or mess up the other sheets. You never take out more than the required amount—assurance of economy!

Sold at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

POLITICS

Varied Interpretations To Huston Decision

—By MARK SHIELDS—

The decision of John M. Huston, Tenth Ward, to become a candidate for a Democratic councilmanic nomination, running on the same mayoralty ticket with William N. McNair, is one of the most unusual of recent developments in Pittsburgh politics, a happening which has politicians buzzing and leading to varied interpretations.

Mr. Shields

Mr. Huston has followed a tortuous course in the initial stages of the present campaign.

First he was a member of the Citizens' League. That was when the league was hoping that William P. Witherow would become a candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination. It was understood by the league, according to league officials, that should Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell become a candidate Mr. Huston would be released, his friendship and attachment to Mr. Mackrell being widely recognized.

When the league decided to indorse Councilman P. J. McArdle as a mayoralty candidate it was figured that Mr. Huston was released. His resignation as chairman of the Tenth Ward league organization was considered automatic. But it was not forthcoming until finally a blank resignation was sent him to sign.

The resignation was dated August 1, according to league officials. Mr. Huston signed it, but changed the date to August 2.

The significance of that may pertain to the fact that the night of August 1 there was a meeting in the Tenth Ward at which Mr. Huston presided, and which indorsed Mr Mackrell as a mayoralty candidate. Mr. Huston at that meeting was careful to say that he was merely chairman of the meeting, and not of the Citizens' League.

* * *

Huston Figured As Mackrell Supporter

Nevertheless, the action generally was interpreted as a break in the league in the East End, despite denials from league officials. It was figured that henceforth Mr. Huston would support for the mayoralty his friend, Mr. Mackrell.

But something must have happened, in view of Mr. Huston's decision yesterday to come out as a Democratic candidate, thus deserting Mr. Mackrell.

The decision of Mr. Huston to run as a Democrat is understood to have followed a conference between David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, and Joseph F. Guffey, Roosevelt leader in Pennsylvania. The agreement of Mr. Huston to be a candidate then was secured. It was noon before circulation of his petitions was begun, according to report, and the signers were visitors to regular Democratic headquarters in the Benedum-Trees Building.

The progress of the negotiations was carefully guarded. Throughout the morning the organization Democrats were saying they would have the fifth man on their councilmanic slate within a few hours, provided he would agree. The first intimation that this man was Mr. Huston came with the filing of his petitions, along with those of Mr. McNair as a mayoralty candidate.

Mr. McNair was authority for the statement that the slate had been filled. Yet Mr. McNair apparently was so surprised by the turn of events that he announced an entirely different gentleman whose name sounds the same, as one of his colleagues on the ticket. It was only when the Bureau of Elections was checked that the accurate information was procured.

The first information that Mr. Mackrell and his associates had that Mr. Huston had bolted them for the Democrats came when the petition for a Democratic nomination was filed. They were stunned, to say the least. It is understood that Mr Huston and Mr. Mackrell were together at a fraternal gathering Monday night, but nothing was said of the defection.

* * *

No Inkling of Move, Declares Mackrell

Mr. Mackrell says he had no inkling whatever that he was about to lose what had been considered not only a strong political supporter, but something of a personal friend. He did not view the withdrawal of James P. Bailey, one of Mr. Houston's men, from the Republican councilmanic race—joined to a declaration for McNair—as meaning anything beyond that one step.

As to the interpretations, there was a general agreement among political observers that it only could be taken as a conclusion by Mr. Huston that Mr. Mackrell and Mr. McArdle were merely hopelessly dividing the Republican vote opposed to Mayor John S. Herron.

Huston figured that Mr. Herron would be nominated, and that Mr. McNair, rather than John M. Henry, the second Democratic mayoralty aspirant, would be the better candidate to oppose the Republican selection in November. Therefore he determined, not being able to support Mr. McArdle, to let Mr. Mackrell go by the board to concentrate his support behind Mr. McNair to block Mr. Henry.

Right or wrong, whatever the results of the primary show, that is the interpretation being put on the Huston bolt by unprejudiced observers up and down the line of politics.

Incidentally, Mr. Mackrell made a shrewd move by filing for the mayoralty nomination on the Independent ticket. He is the only candidate. That nomination may be worth something in fusion or negotiation after September 19 should Mr. Mackrell be defeated for the Republican nomination.

Just why the Herron organization did not seek to block this move with a candidate of its own is difficult to figure.

DEMOCRAT WING SUPPORT SEEN FOR PAIR

Drive Likely to Unite Former Republican Officeholders

An independent councilmanic campaign, in which the fortunes of Former Mayor William A. Magee and James F. Malone may be joined, impended today, with the probability that both Magee and Malone eventually might be indorsed by the anti-organization wing of the Democratic party.

Magee and Malone filed petitions yesterday to run on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. Each declared he was running independently of any mayoralty candidate, though Magee was placed on the same ticket with Councilman P. J. McArdle for Mayor.

Organization Democrats filed a full councilmanic slate, as did McArdle, Mayor John S. Herron and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell.

MALONE INDEPENDENT

Independent Democrats are without a slate, but before the end of the campaign probably will make indorsements, and some of their leaders are inclined to the two former Republican officeholder.

Malone in filing his petitions yesterday said:

> "I am not or will not be affiliated with any faction or party and will run absolutely independent of all mayoralty and councilmanic candidates. Should indorsements from individuals or groups come to me they will come without any obligation on my part."

Magee's announcement yesterday was in similar vein, though he had been placed on the McArdle slate.

Despite the declaration of Malone that he was running independently of any other councilmanic candidate it is considered a foregone conclusion that before election day he and Magee will have been of assistance to each other.

Scores of Council candidates filed yesterday, the last day to become eligible for the primary.

THOUSANDS FILE

Tomorrow will be an important day in the campaign, with the candidates drawing for the positions they will hold on the ballot. That draw may have an effect on some candidacies, and withdrawals may follow for men who procure a bad position and lack the indorsement of any political group.

Thousands of candidates filed in the city for minor offices, as well as for the top positions of Mayor, Council, Sheriff and Coroner. Adding the filings for local offices throughout the county, more than 30,000 persons are seeking public office.

Unless there are a number of withdrawals, the problem of using voting machines even in the city may become a serious one.

The list of those who have filed for the major offices follows:

1 SHOT, 3 HELD IN HOTEL ROW

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Aug. 16.—Police today were investigating the shooting of Modesta Giannini, 35, of West Apollo, who was shot during an alleged argument in a West Apollo hotel, near here, last night.

Constable Neil Gumbert, of West Apollo, said the three men with whom Giannini is alleged to have argued declared he was beating one of them over the head with a revolver butt when the gun exploded, the bullet striking Giannini in the abdomen.

He was taken to the West Penn Hospital at Pittsburgh, where his condition was said to be critical. Police held Fred Whittingham, 25; Arthur Bryar, 26, and William Walsh, 25, all of Vandergrift, for questioning.

Bellevue Man Seeks Tax Collector Post

David Bennett, of 425 Orchard avenue, Bellevue, today announced his candidacy for tax collector of Bellevue on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. Bennett, a war veteran, has lived all his life in Bellevue. He is an employe of the American Bridge Company's engineering department.

John J. Freund, Jr., Out for Alderman

John J. Freund, Jr., basketball promoter for many years and former South Side merchant, has filed papers as a candidate on both the Democratic and Republican tickets for the office of alderman of the Thirtieth Ward, in which he has resided for 25 years.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 16.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, just sitting around here late in the afternoon, and happened to have a day off tomorrow (Wednesday) and the West is playing the East polo in Chicago. Think of leaving here late this evening, flying to Chicago, see the game, and back Wednesday night.

Will Rogers

Over Boulder Dam about 9 tonight, see the sun rise in Cheyenne, breakfast in Omaha, lunch in Chicago. All on a passenger line.

And by the way, the old airplane come in pretty handy getting the ex-presidents out of Cuba. There is nothing that will drive you to flying quicker than to have somebody after you. If this NRA works out (and it certainly looks like it will), it will just show you, you don't have to have war to make folks patriotic.

Yours, WILL.

Attorney Gloeckner Running for Judge

John F. Gloeckner, Pittsburgh attorney, has announced his candidacy for judge of Common Pleas Court on the Democratic ticket. He is a graduate of the law school of the University of Pittsburgh and is a member of the executive committee of the German-American Federation.

4-MILE CHASE RECOVERS AUTO

After a four-mile chase over Lawrenceville streets early today police recovered an automobile they said had been reported stolen and arrested one of the occupants.

Nearly a dozen shots were fired during the chase, four bullets lodging in the body of the machine.

One of the occupants was believed to have been wounded.

The suspect, who said he was Edward Karowski, 16, of 4612 Plummer street, was lodged in the Lawrenceville Police Station. Police said they found bloodstains on his shirt.

The chase started at Thirty-fourth and Butler streets when Capt. Thomas Lyons and Lieut. Jack Lavery, riding in a radio car, saw the automobile reported stolen from Fancourt street a few minutes previously.

The chase ended at Forty-second and Bruce streets, two of the occupants fleeing on foot.

S. M. McBriar, of 811 Progress street, reported the car stolen.

Window Smashed, Fur Coats Stolen

The crisp, cool night made four fur coats in the window of the Hudson Fur Company at Fifth avenue and Graeme street look tempting. They were so much so that a thief early today hurled a brick through the window and escaped with an armful.

RULE OF COYNE SCORED BY MACKRELL

Candidacy Indorsed by Independents of Eleventh Ward

Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell opened his speaking campaign for the Republican mayoralty nomination last night in the Twenty-eighth Ward with the declaration:

> "I am opposed to and by Senator Coyne and his city administration in this campaign."

Mackrell, recalling the last Legislature, pointed out that Coyne was opposed to old-age pensions, while he favored them, and asserted he would oppose every effort to throw the schools into politics.

Charles P. Murray presided at the meeting, and Robert K. Cochrane, candidate for sheriff, also spoke.

ATTACKS RACKETS

Mackrell attacked racketeering, the forced participation of police in politics, and urged strong civil service regulations. He promised later to review the tax question, saying that "the back of real estate must not be broken by an over burden of taxation."

Mackrell said:

> "To the utmost of my ability I will stand as a protecting influence against any and all attempts to fasten the racketeer system prevalent in some other cities on the business interests of Pittsburgh.

DEFENDS SCHOOLS

> "Years ago the schools were taken out of politics. Lately in the Legislature my opponents have attempted to send the school affairs back into that same condition. If mistakes have been made in school affairs I hold that it is easier to correct them from within than to have them made a public football."

Independent Republicans of the Eleventh Ward, at a meeting last night, indorsed Mackrell. Harry E. Sherrer presided, and Mrs. Mabel Bartell and Mrs. Francis Keefe, other officers of the organization, were present. E. C. Alexander offered the resolution of indorsement, which said after careful investigation of all candidates it had been decided to back Mackrell.

'Shocking'

DOROTHY RUSSELL CALVIT

Daughter of late Lillian Russell, seeking $100,000 from a film company because she was "shocked" at a motion picture supposed to portray the life of her mother, wife of the late A. P. Moore, Pittsburgh publisher and Ambassador to Spain. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

SLAIN FATHER'S KIN SOUGHT

Homicide detectives today sought Sebastian Bucolo for questioning in connection with the shooting to death of Carmen Gaglianna, 55, in the former's home, 1609 Colwell street, Sunday night.

Bucolo, whose wife was a stepdaughter of the victim, disappeared after the shooting, the detectives revealed. They believe a quarrel, with the consequent shooting, occurred when Bucolo went to his home Sunday and found Gaglianna there.

The murder of Edward Sabel, 47, carpenter, shot down in the rear of his home, 938 West North avenue, Saturday night, continued to baffle sleuths. Five men arrested for questioning were turned over to the Coroner for further questioning.

Meanwhile, county detectives were still endeavoring to trace the telephone call that was made to Frank Joy, 44, of 620 Twelfth street, Pitcairn, shortly before he was murdered and left in a coal mine near Pitcairn.

Court Frees Veteran On Illness Plea

Sheldon Hentricks, 35, of 932 Columbus avenue, was released from the Allegheny County Jail today on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Elder W. Marshall on the ground that he was illegally detained.

Hentricks was arrested while driving an auto in allegedly reckless manner. He was committed by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney on a suspicious person charge. Veterans of Foreign Wars' officials interceded for Hentricks, and told the court his actions were due to illness resulting from service in the Army.

County Assessor Attacked by Dog

A county assessor, J. A. Fey, of Duquesne, was bitten on the leg by a dog as he approached a home in Fifth avenue, McKeesport today.

DOROTHY CALVIT FILES $100,000 FILM SUIT

Lillian Russell Screen Play 'Shocking,' Says Daughter

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the late Lillian Russell, has filed a $100,000 suit against a film company charging a motion picture produced by the concern in which she was headlined was "shocking."

The suit, disclosed when she obtained a court order requiring the picture people to show cause why they should not be restrained from distributing the film, sets forth Mrs. Calvit agreed to appear in the movie on the understanding it was to be a tribute to her mother, the famous actress.

Instead, Mrs. Calvit's suit states, she found herself described in the film as a "faded beauty," who was "disillusioned, defeated and a hopeless cripple living on the few dollars given her by Alexander P. Moore," former ambassador to Spain and Mrs. Calvit's stepfather.

Mrs. Calvit submitted affidavits of three friends who said they had seen a preview of the film and were "shocked" by the narrative.

Mrs. Calvit's suit against the Alexander P. Moore estate was settled in Pittsburgh more than a year ago. By the settlement she receives a sum of less than $100 a week. She sued to break Moore's will, contending he had failed to live up to a promise made to Lillian Russell to "take care of" her daughter. Mrs. Calvit charged also that Moore had not made a proper accounting of Miss Russell's estate.

LINDSAY URGES CITIZENS VOTE

The aims of the Pennsylvania Conference on Election Laws would be achieved with much greater rapidity if the lax citizens who fail to vote would turn out at the polls and express their independent opinions, Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, candidate for judge of Common Pleas Court and chairman of the conference, told a meeting of the Dravosburg Voters League in the Dravosburg school auditorium last night.

Mr. Lindsay will speak tonight at a meeting of the Large Voters League, in the Wray school, Large, and at the Seventh Ward open air meeting being held on the grounds of the First Reformed Church, Library and Union streets, McKeesport, under the auspices of the 25 Club of McKeesport.

Local Option On Milk Might Halt Violence

-By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER-

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 16.—When we thought beer would make a lot of trouble we forgot about milk.

If those New York farmers don't stop slugging the National Guard we will have to vote on milk by states.

When the embattled weedbender grabs grandpop's colonial musket from over the fireplace, he ain't going to fight the redcoats or the Indians. He's going to market.

The food question has caused plenty of trouble and proves you have got to crack heads to make omelets.

The farmer deserves a fair price for his butter and milk. Even though we do not believe in physical force, we agree with the farmer who sat astride the strikebreaker, punching his nose and yelling:

"Nobody is going to cheat my cow."

Think once and put yourself in that farmer's place. It would be foolish to think twice and be the guy on the bottom.

8 Bitten, Owners Urged To Keep Dogs Tied

Police Capt. John W. Barry today appealed to Oakland dog owners to keep the animals tied after five persons had been bitten in the district yesterday. Two were bitten in the East End district and one in the South Side district.

The Oakland victims, according to police, were Lawrence Flaherty, 18, of 615 Blanton street; Stanton Jones, 4, of 9 McDevitt place; Jack Julius, 7, of 3321 Juliet street; Hugh Lawrence, 11, of 3520 Wakefield street, and Thomas Bleckner, 46, of 2451 Fifth avenue. Their wounds were cauterized at hospitals.

George Raletich, 8, of 2735 Carey way, was bitten on the left side by a dog near his home. He was treated at South Side Hospital.

Attacked by a dog in the East End district Sam Capozzli, 16, of 554½ Winfield street, was treated at Pittsburgh Hospital. Harry Johnson, 32, Negro, of 623 Winfield street, who attempted to seize the dog, said to have been owned by Joseph Lango, of 6419 Shetland avenue, was bitten and was also treated at the Pittsburgh Hospital.

THREE INDUSTRIES MEET HERE TO FRAME NRA CODES

STEEL, GLASS, TANK MAKERS IN SESSION

13,589 Employers Sign Blue Eagle Pledges

Representatives of three national industrial groups considered NRA codes for submission to Washington at meetings here today.

Steel fabricators representing 84 per cent of the construction steel industry met at a call of the American Institute of Steel Construction in Hotel Schenley. The institute's president, Clyde G. Conley, of Mount Vernon, O., presided. The session was devoted to discussion of a tentative code of fair competition.

TANK MAKERS MEET

Range boiler and water tank manufacturers were preparing a code for submission to Washington at a meeting in the Hotel William Penn. Ninety-five per cent of the national manufacturers were represented, according to M. H. Feldman, of Philadelphia, who presided. A minimum wage scale of 35 cents an hour and a maximum of 40 working hours a week were being favored. A permanent organization tentatively known as the Range Boiler and Water Tank Manufacturers Association will be formed, Feldman said.

A code was submitted to the Illuminating Glassware Guild meeting also at the Hotel William Penn. M. T. Gleason, of Brooklyn, national president, presided. The code adopted here will be submitted to the subdivisions of the glass industry, including tableware.

REQUIREMENTS MET

Ready compliance in remedying violations of the NRA codes when the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce committee notifies employers was reported today by Frank C. Harper, secretary.

The majority of violations, according to Mr. Harper, have been found due to misinterpretation of the code.

BRITAIN BALKS GANDHI'S FAST

POONA, India, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—After the Mahatma Gandhi had announced at noon today that he was starting a fast until death, the government came forward with an offer which, it was expected, would impel him to abandon the plan.

The government was willing to provide the Nationalist leader with facilities enabling him to continue, under certain conditions, his campaign to better the status of India's most lowly caste, the untouchables.

Thus far the Mahatma has not actually missed any meal, and it was expected that he would eat as usual this evening.

The little Nationalist leader, who was arrested August 1 at the outset of a new disobedience campaign and committed to Yeroda Jail here for a year because he refused to obey a command to cease political activities, threatened to start the fast unless he was given full rights as a state or political prisoner.

MURDER VICTIM MISSING NURSE

EXETER, N. H., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Identification of the nude and dismembered body of a woman found in a thicket at a Hampton Falls roadside today was made positive by Dr. L. H. Jacobs, a dentist, who said a set of false teeth found in the mouth was made by him for Mrs. Louise Palmer, 50-year-old nurse and textile worker.

Mrs. Palmer disappeared from her Exeter home six weeks ago. She left a note to her sister, Ida Bostelle, with whom she lived, saying she would return at 5 o'clock.

Chief of Police Thomas R. Chrysler said, however, her disappearance was not reported to police until a week ago.

Dr. Wendell Clare, acting medical examiner, believed the body had been partially dismembered while the victim was still alive.

Mrs. Palmer had been married twice, but neither the name of her first husband nor the first name of her second was known.

Her sister, with whom Chief Chrysler said she had not been on friendly terms, has been visiting relatives in Pennsylvania.

Druggan Removed From 'Pet' Prison

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Terry Druggan, Chicago racketeer, got a new prison address today.

He was transferred to the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary last night from Leavenworth, Kan., where four prison officials were discharged after revelations that he had been accorded special privileges.

Homesteader Wills Daughters $12,000

The will of Phillip Ament, Homestead, filed today, leaves his $12,000 estate to his two daughters, Mrs. Elsie Rearick and Mrs. Margaret A. Morris, after $500 bequests each to Emma A. Holland and Carl Ament, relatives. The Monongahela Trust Company, of Homestead, is executor.

Prices Here Follow Rise Over U. S., Pitt Man Says

Believes Government Can Accomplish Objectives

Pittsburgh prices have been following the increase in other parts of the country and have already felt the influence of the government's activity toward recovery.

This is the belief of Dr. J. Paul Watson, assistant director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Pittsburgh.

Furthermore, Dr. Watson believes that the federal government has both the purpose and the strength to accomplish its ends.

Thus far, he points out, the government has not engaged to any substantial degree in inflation of currency. The mere expectation of what might happen has been enough to send prices upward, he stated.

Certain natural causes have also contributed to the price rise, he said. He referred to wheat, where crop conditions have been an important influence in its sensational rise.

Asked if he believed higher prices would have a healthy effect on the nation's economic structure, he said:

"Prices had fallen so far that a grave burden of debt was placed on persons who had incurred bills at the higher levels. The attempt to get prices back is simply trying to adjust current income to obligations."

Commodity prices in the United States reached a peak in 1920, broke in the depression of 1921-22, then partially recovered, but in 1925 started the downward trend which was continued until last March.

MERCY SLAYER UNDER GUARD

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—With tear-reddened eyes, bewilderment on his pale face, Frank W. Fabian, Jr., 21-year-old athlete, yesterday was led into court to hear himself formally charged with the murder of his month-old love child.

As Fabian stepped from the prisoners' cage to his position before the bar, Harry McKenzie, his counsel, asked for a continuance of a week, which was granted.

To and from the courtroom he was accompanied by a double guard. For he had reiterated his belief that "the problem" would be solved best by his suicide.

Miss Ellen Rautio, former San Francisco domestic and the mother of the baby, will not be called to aid in defending her former sweetheart. That became definite when Fabian firmly refused to draw her further into the case.

She now is with her family in Belt, Mont. She went there soon after the baby was born here July 4, its face disfigured by a birthmark and a deformed mouth.

Hoover and Son On Fishing Trip

PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The Herbert Hoovers, father and son, the Ray Lyman Wilburs, father and son, and seven other men left here yesterday for a fishing excursion into the Siskiyous.

It was expected they would be away the rest of the week. They traveled by motor.

BOY STARTING WORK DROWNS

William Hess, 18, rear of 136 Sixth avenue, Homestead, out of the Thorn Hill Reform School and ready to go to work to support his family, was drowned while bathing in the Monongahela River near Brown's Bridge last night.

William sank in view of his brother, John, 33. Fully clothed, John leaped into the water and swam toward his brother. William seized him and began to drag him down until John lost his hold on the boy. John was rescued by an unidentified man.

River Patrolman Charles Snyder recovered the body several hours later.

William had been released from Thorn Hill, Monday, police said. Yesterday he obtained employment in a Squirrel Hill bakery and was to have started on the job today.

FREE MILK TASK FOR BOARD

Distribution of free milk to more than 40,000 children of unemployed will be the task of the Allegheny County Relief Board beginning September 1.

Heretofore the distribution has been made by the state health department. The new arrangement is in keeping with the plan of the Federal Relief Administration to centralize all public relief distribution.

Delivery of 660,000 quarts of milk during September is anticipated.

Roosevelt's Ax To Hit Army Posts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt plans to eliminate a large percentage of the Army posts operating in the country. It will not affect the size of the Army, but will simply concentrate the men in fewer camps.

Mr. Roosevelt feels this concentration will save many millions of dollars and is now studying a graph showing the location of every soldier in the United States with a view to cutting down the number of posts.

2 Rallies Tonight To Hear Cochrane

Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., Republican candidate for Sheriff, will address two meetings tonight.

A Twenty-ninth Ward rally will be held in Carrick High School by the Ex-Service Men's Organization. Cochrane also will address the Seventeenth Ward Chapter, United American Veterans' Association, in Lithuanian Hall, 1721 Jane street, South Side.

Sportsman Enters Race in Bellevue

A. F. Menzemer, president of the North Borough Sportsmen's Association, today announced his candidacy for councilman from the Third Ward, Bellevue, in the Republican primary. Menzemer said he would advocate changes in the borough managemnt system. He declared it antiquated.

FILMS TO SHOW VOTE MACHINES

Movies will be used to educate members of election boards in the use of voting machines, the County Commissioners have agreed. A short test film showing an election board at work was presented for the Commissioners' benefit yesterday, after which they all agreed the idea was good. The Commissioners appropriated $250 to prepare additional films along this line.

Director William T. Rees, of the Bureau of Elections, announced that one of the films would be shown at the county fair at South Park where the various county offices will have exhibits.

Director Rees said the educational campaign would start within 10 days or two weeks.

Druggists Here Seek 52-Hour Work Week

Opposition to the drug store NRA code was voiced early today by registered druggists of Pittsburgh who formed an Employes Pharmacist Association of Greater Pittsburgh. A letter accompaning a petition was sent to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson urging 52 hours as the registered druggist' maximum working hours. They also asked protective insurance and old age pensions. Ralph Kartub was elected president.

Plate Glass Plants, Under Code, Hire 200

Two hundred new employes went to work today in the Ford City and Creighton plants of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, as the company went under provisions of their proposed NRA code.

An additional 200 will be hired soon, it was announced. The four plants affected have been employing about 3,200 men.

FAIR PLAY

Wives deserve to be happy! A man is away all day—meeting friends, seeing new faces. His wife is more or less confined to the home. • Her recreation comes in being able to chat with neighbors; in finding someone to join on shopping trips; in being able to say "How are you" to friends. • All this the telephone gives her . . . and more. It helps her handle quickly and efficiently the varied duties of a busy household. Above all, it provides protection. And this means happiness!

Surely you can't afford to be without a telephone in your home. The cost is low . . . you can have one for less than 10 cents a day!

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

BELL SYSTEM

PICKUP SHOWN IN RAILWAYS' BUSINESS

Some lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, particularly those serving the steel manufacturing districts, are showing increased revenues compared with last year.

The earnings of the entire system, however, in July were 5½ per cent lower than the same month last year. It must also be remembered that earnings last year were but approximately 50 per cent of those of 1923.

The railways company has been conducting an uphill fight to get back some of the business that it has lost because of the depression or on account of competition with the automobile.

Its management, through rigorous economy, was able to get together enough cash to equip approximately 50 per cent of its cars with faster motors, and the fast lines immediately showed increases in revenue. Then along came the pickup in the steel and coal industries, which already has helped to some extent.

Since June, the interurban lines to Charleroi and Washington have been doing better than last year. This is particularly true of the former line, which passes through an active mining district.

Within the city, the lines to Homestead and McKeesport have shown decided improvement. Revenues also have gained for the lines tapping the industrial districts of Neville Island and Carnegie. Lines serving the suburban districts chiefly patronized by office workers are nearly all, however, carrying less passengers.

REX DETHRONES OCEAN QUEEN

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The steamer Rex of the Italian line docked today with all records for transatlantic crossings stowed in its log.

She wrested the title from the Europa which had won it from the Bremen. The Bremen had taken it from the Mauretania, the unchallenged speed queen of the Atlantic for 20 years.

The elapsed time of the Rex was 4 days, 13 hours, and 58 minutes from Gibraltar to Ambrose. The Europa had made the 32-mile shorter run from Cherbourg in 4 days, 16 hours and 56 minutes.

The Rex's average speed was 28.92 knots per hour. The fastest day's run was made at an average speed of 29.61 knots per hour covering 736 miles in 24 hours. The entire mileage from Gibraltar was 3,181 miles.

Constance Bennett's Marquis Home Again

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The Marquis Henri de la Falaise, husband of Constance Bennett, film actress, returned yesterday to Hollywood after spending 45 days on the Island of Bali, where he went to film a motion picture.

HEALTH MEANS CHARM AND HAPPINESS

Sparkling eyes and smiling lips speak of health and vitality. Clear skin attracts. The healthy active girl is both happy and popular.

Perhaps you are not really ill yet when the day's work is done you are too tired to enter into the good times that other women enjoy. For extra energy, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It tones up your general health. Gives you more pep—more charm.

Remember that 98 out of 100 women report benefit. Let it help you too.

POSITIVE indications of higher prices for FURS have already been announced in the industry's trade journals. "Raw furs soar to advances from 20 to 60 per cent," in recent trading. Anticipation of these price rises by Pittsburgh Fur Dealers caused their placing of large advance orders early in the season. Now they are in a position to protect the public with Furs at pre-inflation price levels during their August Sales!

COMMON SENSE ENDS STRIKES, PINCHOT SAYS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Reviewing recent turbulent months of widespread strikes, Gov. Pinchot today asserted "a little good will and common sense" will settle any industrial dispute, and there's "not the slightest excuse for violence and bloodshed during strikes."

From the hundreds of strikes which spotted the state during June and July and sent the total of strikers above the 100,000 mark, the Governor cited those in Lansdale and Fayette County as resulting in "a new precedent for the outlawing of disorder and industrial strife."

In the textile strike at Lansdale, Pinchot effected an agreement by which the sheriff and local police withdrew and left the state police take charge, while strikers bound themselves to a policy of peaceful picketing.

In the Fayette soft coal strike, the Governor overrode the Sheriff, sent 325 National Guardsmen into the area and enlisted hundreds of United Mine Workers as "union guides" aiding in preserving order.

RESPECT FOR ALL

In his statement today, Pinchot said:

"Through these agreements we have proven that all that is necessary is the exercise of a little good will and common sense by all concerned. Common sense as we understand it, requires a proper respect for the rights of the workers, a proper respect for the rights of the employers, and cooperation instead of attempted intiimidation by the peace officers, and especially by company-owned deputy sheriffs."

The two strikes, the Governor continued, were examples of "useless and unnecessary disorder" while "in these same places we have seen peace and order restored by exercise of common sense, forbearance and tact."

RIGHTS OF WORKERS

He continued:

"What happened in Pennsylvania during the recent strikes sets a new mark. For the first time in the history of the commonwealth, the state police and the National Guard, when called out to preserve the peace, were ordered to see that the workers were protected in the rights guaranteed to them by the Constitutions of Pennsylvania and the United States.

"Heretofore, except when I was governor, the state police and the National Guard were always used to help sheriffs, their deputies and company police beat workers into submission. They were sent out to break strikes, not to enforce the constitution."

WOMAN PLEADS FOR JUDGESHIP

Promising to conduct the Juvenile Court along lines that have proven extraordinarily effective in reducing repetition of lawbreaking among delinquents, Mrs. Lois McBride, candidate for judge of the newly created Juvenile Court, spoke before the Glassport Rotary Club last night.

Mrs. McBride said hundreds of the 1200 boys and girls in their late teens who were committed to jail in Allegheny County last year were repeaters. Against this record she explained how methods which she had used in dealing with similar cases resulted in only 14 repeating offenders, of 985 cases handled.

Mrs. McBride pointed out the function of the Juvenile Court was to check crime among the young, and to help, educate and improve or remove the condition causing childish mistakes.

KIWANIS, LIONS HEAR SMITH

Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for election to a full term in Common Pleas Court, spoke on law enforcement at a joint luncheon meeting of the Wilkinsburg Kiwanis and Lions clubs at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel today. Donald Eaton, president of the Kiwanis Club, presided, and Attorney J. Clark Stewart introduced the speaker.

Tonight in Carrick High School, Judge Smith will be a guest speaker of the Twenty-ninth Ward Ex-Service Men's organization.

Yesterday at Kennywood Park, Judge Smith spoke at the outing of 30,000 Polish-American citizens who celebrated the 250th anniversary of the raising of the seige of Vienna by Polish armies under Gen. Sobieski, credited with saving the world from Moslem rule.

Democratic Women Pledge Schramm Aid

Correction rather than punishment should be the function of the new Juvenile Court, Gustav L. Schramm, candidate for that bench, told an audience of 150 women gathered at the home of Mrs. John M. Phillips, 2336 Brownsville road. Mrs. Carroll Miller, Democratic national committeewoman, declared Democratic women would support Schramm, who is running both as a Republican and Democrat.

Schramm said he favored more systematic medical care for wards of the Juvenile Court.

Two Features Mark 'Y' Member Drive

Boy at Play Hurt As Hamper Falls From Truck

Hobart Cantor, 9, of 2109 Wharton street, was in St. Joseph's Hospital today with internal injuries suffered when struck by a 700-pound hamper which rolled from a platform as he sat in the doorway of a warehouse in Wharton street, yesterday.

The boy was playing beneath one of several doorways when vibrations of trucks backing into the other doors started the hamper rolling on its truck and it crashed against him, according to police.

PROTEST ABUSE OF JEWS

Circulation of petitions to be sent to the League of Nations protesting the persecution of Jews in Germany will start in Pittsburgh within the next two weeks. About 2,000 Christian women in Western Pennsylvania will be asked to sign the protest.

The 10 women supervising the work here are Mrs. A. H. Bowman, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Cause and Cure of War Committee; Mrs. James M. Simpson, of the Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Mary Scott, executive assistant of the Metropolitan Young Women's Christian Association; Mrs. William Schuette, of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches; Mrs. Max Henrici and Mrs. J. Howard Dice, of the American Association of University Women; Mrs. H. K. Griffin and Miss Anne Demmler, of the League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Carl Behrhorst and Mrs. R. W. Johnston, of the Western Pennsylvania Cause and Cure of War Committee.

McKeesport police arrested H. M. Livingstone, 29, of New Martinsville, W. Va., today and charged him with violation of McKeesport's new city ordinance requiring all peddlers to have a license.

Livingstone, police say, had helpers out soliciting business for the portrait and enlarging photographic studio which he had set up in the Penn McKee Hotel.

Two witnesses, who appeared against him, Miss Margaret Miller, of Hartman street, McKeesport; and Mrs. H. O. Breitimger, of Versailles, testified that pictures of them which Livingstone produced did not look like them at all.

Pasteur Treatment Ordered for Score

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Twenty persons today were required to begin taking the Pasteur treatment as a result of contacts with Richard Turner, 26, who is suffering from so-called "dumb rabies"—said to be the most virulent type of hydrophobia. Those exposed to possible infection included doctors, nurses and relatives.

Hitler's Adjutant, Niece Hurt in Crash

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Chancellor Hitler's adjutant, Wilhelm Brueckner, sustained a fractured skull and a broken arm when the automobile in which he accompanied the Chancellor's car was wrecked yesterday on a drive in this neighborhood.

Hitler's niece and a woman friend in Brueckner's car were slightly injured, while the Chancellor's sister escaped unhurt.

Boy Kills Fugitive, Captures Second

GRANITE, Okla., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A 17-year-old farm boy killed an escaped convict from Granite Reformatory and held another at bay with his rifle until a posse reached the scene and captured him yesterday.

Royal Tope, alias Ralph Johnson, serving a 10-year term for robbery of a Tulsa theater, was killed when he tried to take A. A. Godfrey's rifle from him. Godfrey then held the weapon on Ernest Moffatt, serving eight years for forgery from Osage County, until the posse arrived.

Mystery Woman's Husband Sentenced

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Kenneth A. Laubach, Quakertown, Pa., husband of the young woman who became known recently as "the mysterious Miss X," pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of conspiracy to defraud in a real estate deal and was sentenced to two to three years in prison.

Laubach's wife was arrested seven weeks ago in connection with a real estate transaction and for a month remained in jail, refusing to identify herself. Thus she became known as "Miss X."

Hungarian Actress Wins Alimony Suit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—A victory over her husband, Sam Fengel, New York surgical supply dealer, was won in Superior Court by Irene Biller, Hungarian actress, whose separate maintenance action is being contested by Fengel.

On the actress' petition, a Superior Court judge yesterday held Fengel in contempt of court for failure to pay her temporary alimony as ordered, and appointed a receiver for Fengel's business.

First....

For the first time you can view at your leisure the unified, simplified equipment for heating with gas and perfected air-conditioning produced by combined efforts of the Engineers of these great pioneers. Demonstrations daily at 110 Jenkins Arcade.

Nature has, for countless centuries, challenged man's ingenuity to control heat and cold in his home. Much progress has been made in the past decade by different leaders, each in a specialized direction.

Now, for the first time, through a consolidation of the resources and experiences of the two great leaders in this field, American homes can obtain perfected air conditioning both for summer and winter.

The Pittsburg Water Heater Company, oldest and largest manufacturers of gas heating equipment in the world, has joined hands with Frigidaire, the largest maker of refrigeration equipment, and now places the facilities and knowledge of the Engineers of both institutions behind SIMPLIFIED AIR CONDITIONING.

Both agree that gas as a fuel now makes perfected air-conditioning possible. Gas never fails, always provides just the right amount of heat automatically. Gas is also economical, clean, and temperatures can be evenly maintained under any conditions. No wonder these engineers place gas FIRST as a requirement in the proper air-conditioning of homes.

You ARE INVITED TO ATTEND

The First Public Demonstration of Perfected Air·Conditioning

● See how it is possible to flood a room with cool, refreshing air on the hottest day with the flick of a switch. Watch the removal of all dirt, dust, flower pollens from the air by filtration. Observe the economy of using gas to heat your home. Note how the automatic humidifying of the air will insure comfortable, healthful temperatures at a lowered cost for fuel. Learn, by seeing the equipment in actual operation, how simple it is to maintain a refreshing, energizing atmosphere in your home the year around—all automatic and without attention from anyone.

● It is particularly fitting that the first public demonstration in America should be made in Pittsburgh. You will find it not only interesting but educational as well to see this exhibition—The Culmination of a Century of Progress.

Miss Helen Jacobs, defending her National women's tennis championship, made her debut in "shorts" yesterday with some misgivings about the propriety of the thing, although other women players have taken to the modern mode and are enthusiastic about it. The Misses Round and Heeley, of the English Wightman Cup team, for instance, and Misses Alice Marble and Carolin Babcock, American stars. Officials barred shorts as immodest during the Wightman Cup matches. Watch for the craze to spread to golf and other sports. Above we see a trousered Japanese woman golfer playing in San Francisco, the extreme opposite of the tennis trend, while, at the right, Miss Virginia Van Wie, National woman golf champion, hasn't yet gone in for either shorts or trousers. Miss Jacobs in conventional court garb looks quite at ease. Will modest Mrs. Helen Wills Moody follow her into adopting shorts? The fad has great possibilities, believe it or not. A Wartime Epic.
And Its Sequel.
Cav's Son Writes.

Chip Off Old Block.
And Cav Fights On.

FATHER AND SON PALS TO THE END

And now the classic piece of sportsdom's wartime literature has a sequel. You remember the epic Christmas letter Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, the hard-boiled football coach, who was known as the Iron Major, wrote to his young son, Davie, from France some 16 years ago. It has been reprinted so many times that it is a wonder it is not preserved in everybody's collection of treasured clippings by this time. In case you don't have it, here it is again:

"Somewhere in France.

"Dear Davie Boy:

"Your mother writes me that you have a chum and she says he is a fine boy who lives next door. Isn't that fine?

"I wish I had a chum. You and your mother used to be my chums, and sometimes Joe and Billy and even dear little Rose Marie, and Phil, too, when he was home; but now that is all changed and I have no chum in all the world. I think it's rather sad sometimes, don't you, but I have your pictures which I take down and talk to when I am lonesome.

"I am happy to know that you like your new school and home, and I'm sure you'll play with clean boys who don't do anything very bad and who also like to go to school.

"Didn't we used to have great times together, and wasn't it fun when you'd come up to the car to meet me? Then when you saw me getting off, do you remember how you'd hide behind a tree and run up behind me and scare me after I had passed? And do you remember how sometimes you and I would race and you were getting so you could run so fast that you could beat me sometimes, for you were getting to be a great big boy?

"And then we'd all go down to see the circus and the parade and hold hands so we wouldn't get separated or lost? And then Christmas! Oh, wasn't that a wonderful day? Early in the morning how we'd all rush downstairs to see our presents!

DINNER WITH ALL THE FIXIN'S

"And then poor, tired mother would work and work to give all you boys and girls a Christmas dinner—turkey, cranberry sauce, and dressing and plum pudding, and candy and nuts and everything.

"Oh, Dave, did any little boy ever have such a good mother as yours, I wonder? And now you are soon to have another Christmas and old Cav won't be home. But I want you to have the finest time you ever had on that day, so that I may be happy over here thinking of you all. I wish I knew some little boys and girls over here, so that I might talk to them and hold their hands, and I would call them my boys' and girls' names and pretend I was home.

"The other night I had a lovely dream and I was so disappointed when I awoke. I dreamed I was sitting in our kitchen, with mother, David and all the children, and a chair which was tilted back against the wall slipped and I fell gently, and without hurting me, to the floor.

"And mother and you and all the children laughed and laughed, just like good naughty folks. And you came over and took my hand and lifted me up easily. Isn't that funny, Dave? Think of any boy lifting a big, fat father like me from the floor with one hand!

"Then we laughed some more and suddenly I remembered that it was after 9 o'clock. I said, 'Why, children, what are you doing out of bed at this hour of the night?'

"And you said, 'Why, it isn't very often that our father goes away to war, so we thought we'd stay up and say good-by.'

"And then I was so surprised to learn that I hadn't gone away to war yet that I suddenly awoke, only to find myself in my little, lonely barracks with the rain coming down hard outside and I was lonesome for my dear family.

"But now, David, old boy, everyone is in bed but me, trying to get lots of strength and health for the big fights we will soon be in, so I must do likewise and end this letter to you.

FOUGHT FOR LITTLE CHILDREN

"You must always remember that your father came into this great war for the sake of all little children, and I know that you will, while I am gone, take good care of mother and all the children. I can see you growing up tall and straight with shoulders back and head up, because that's what old Cav wants, and you love Cav, don't you, Davie boy? Dave, will you do something real nice for me? Will you kiss mother and Annie and Billy, Rose Marie and John, for Cav, and send one to Philip in Maine?

"Excuse me, David, for writing in pencil instead of ink, but ink is hard to get.

"The lights are going out in a few minutes, so good-night, good-by, Dave, and God bless you.

"From your old man. "CAV."

The Iron Major lived through the horrors of the World War and came back to his Davie boy and the lad's mother, and to Annie and Billy and Rose Marie and John and Philip—and to football.

It was a happy aftermath. Happy until the ravages of the war began to prey upon the Major and sap his strength and dim his sight and he had to quit as coach of Fordham

PRELIMS SET FOR FORBES FIELD SHOW

Denying a report that all reserved seats for the Ted Yarosz-Vince Dundee boxing show at Forbes Field next Monday night had been sold, Promoter John L. Hernon today revealed the fact that there still are some of the 1,644 field seats and that the upstairs boxes have not yet been placed on sale.

The general admission tickets, which are good for any seat in the grandstand, aside from the boxes, will not go on sale until the day of the fight. There will be 25,000 of these pasteboards at $1.10. The field seats are $3.30 and the box seats $2.20. The grandstand seats are not reserved and the fans will take them on a basis of first come, first served.

ZIVIC ON CARD

Fight headquarters are located in the Pittsburgher Hotel, but tickets also are available at Forbes Field, Spalding's and the Seventh Avenue Hotel for the convenience of the fans.

The show will get under way at 8:30 o'clock and there will be four five-round preliminaries, three of which have been arranged. They will be between Al Lewis and Joey Bazzone, Al Diamond and Phil Ross, and Eddie Zivic and Harry Weekley.

A special row of seats is being arranged on the field behind the customers' rows for a delegation of referees and judges who will be notified to attend and from whose ranks the officials in the main bout will be selected at the last minute.

DUNDEE CHANGES PLANS

Word from Max Waxman, manager of Dundee, is that he will break camp a day earlier than he planned and will be here Saturday morning instead of Sunday.

Charley Jones, who has quit as boxing manager and intended to return to his home in Louisville this week, has been persuaded by Art Rooney to stay over and act as the matchmaker for his Primo Carnera exhibition show in the St. Peter's A. A. Stadium, Thursday night of next week.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE FIVE-NOSED TRIBE—Every ant has five noses or olfactory organs situated in the antennae in the shape of tiny sensory pits. Each of these "noses" serves a different purpose, as the ant is able to recognize an enemy with one, the direction in which to travel with the other, friends with the third, while the purpose of the two remaining "noses" has not yet been definitely established. The ant's sense of smell does not become active until five days after its "birth." (See W. M. Wheeler's "Ants," page 61.) NATIVE ENDURANCE—Aukuka, a Papuan native, fell overboard from a small cutter in which he set out with another half-caste in a rough sea. His friend, unable to handle the vessel, ran before the wind, grounding on a coral reef, whence he waded ashore to report to the priest on Sidea Island that Aukuka had been drowned. Twenty-one hours later, Aukuka, alive, was washed ashore on Itou Island, temporarily blinded and considerably hardened by the sea water. The tide, shifting repeatedly, had carried him in divergent directions for 21 hours.

Women's Tourney Pairings Announced

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Pairings for the qualifying round of the women's national golf championship at the Exmoor Country Club, Highland Park, Ill., as released by the United States Golf Association, bracket the titleholder, Virginia Van Wie, with Mrs. Harley G. Higbie, of Detroit, for the 18-hole round test on Monday, August 28. A total of 119 players will contest for the 32 qualifying places for match play.

Fritzie Stifel, of Wheeling, W. Va., paired against Roselia Knapp, of Glen Head, N. Y.

Westrope Rides Four More Winners

CHICAGO, Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Jack Westrope, who rode five winners Monday, came right back with four more to again dominate the Hawthorne program yesterday. He just missed getting his fifth victory, when he finished second with Her Elegance in the seventh race.

The Montana Flash scored with Victorium in the second, Dark Mist in the fourth, Tela in the sixth and Happy Fellow in the closing number.

M'INTYRE NEW COACH

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—M. M. (Tubby) McIntyre, of New Martinsville, former coach at West Virginia University, has been named head football coach at Magnolia High School, New Martinsville. Herb Schupbach, a West Liberty graduate, was named line coach and Orville Kiger was retained as backfield coach and head basketball mentor.

MEXICAN PUG ARRESTED

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—The Mexican featherweight, Casanovita, who Saturday night knocked out Young Tommy, of California, was arrested today on charges of seduction. The boxer was accused by 16-year-old Elvira Gonzales Mosqueira.

M'FAYDEN MARRIED

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16. — (AP.) — Danny McFayden, Yankee pitcher, told Manager Joe McCarthy yesterday that he was secretly married to Miss Marie Harty, of Chicago, in New York last July 22.

DOZEN NAMED TO START IN HAMBLETONIAN

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED TO SEE CLASSIC

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The little town of Goshen today paid homage to the memory of its equine "first citizen," Hambletonian X, with the seventh renewal of the Hambletonian Stake, a $40,000 race that is considered the Kentucky Derby of light harness racing.

Hambletonian X, an ancestor of about 95 per cent of the trotters and pacers who compete in the Grand Circuit races here and all over the country, was born near Goshen and now lies not far from the village with an imposing monument to mark his resting place. Because of this fact, Goshen and William H. Cane, the Hackensack, N. J. contractor who sponsors harness racing at Good Time Park, annually outbids all other towns for the great race of the year and sees 30,000 or more horse lovers pour into a town of perhaps a tenth that size. The largest crowd ever to see the Hambletonian was expected today.

A dozen 3-year-old trotters, the largest field since the year the stake was inaugurated, was named to start today and there was not an outstanding favorite on the list. The entries follow:

Horse	Driver
1—Spencer McElwyn	Marvin Childs
2—Atlantic Volo	Lyman Brusie
3—Mary Reynolds	Ben White
4—King Ben	Henry Thomas
5—Captain Hanover	Tom Berry
6—Hollyrood Portia	J. L. Dodge
7—Poplar Hill	Harry Stokes
8—Prince Hall	Earl Pittman

VINES DEFEATS WILLIAMS

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, national and defending champion in the Newport Casing tennis tournament, today advanced into the fourth round with a decisive 6-1, 6-3 victory over R. Norris Williams, of Philadelphia, who won a national title here almost 20 years ago.

Vines, who has won the last two Casino competitions, appeared to have his game on the up-grade as he humbled his veteran rival, whose service was out of control during all the match, although he managed to carry six of the 16 games to deuce.

Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., national indoor champion, entered the round of 16 with a 6-2, 6-1 victory over H. G. N. Lee, British Davis Cup player. Lee was the eighth Englishman to meet defeat in two days and left Ted Avory as the sole foreign threat in the tournament.

Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, moved into the same bracket with Vines by defeating Johnny Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, seeded tenth and last, 6-0, 7-5. Keith Gledhill, of Santa Barbara, Cal., out-battled Edward Jacobs, of Baltimore, for a 6-4, 6-4 victory that placed him into the fifth round.

Another seeded player dropped out of the tournament when Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, twisted an ankle chasing a drive and defaulted to George Lott, Davis cup doubles ace, with their match at one set all.

The summary of the matches played today follow:

Third Round

Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, Cal., defeated R. Norris Williams, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-3.

Bryan Grant, Atlanta, defeated John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, 6-0, 7-5.

Gregory Mangin, Newark, defeated H. G. N. Lee, England, 6-2, 6-1.

George Lott, Chicago, won by default from Sidney Wood, New York, after two sets, 6-8, 6-1.

Fourth Round

Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Cal., defeated Edward Jacobs, Baltimore, 6-4, 6-4.

Stengel Mentioned For Dodger Job

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The railbirds entered a new candidate today in the race for the job of managing the Brooklyn Dodgers next season, a job that for no other reason than that the club is going terribly has been taken from Max Carey by unanimous consent of all but the club owners.

The latest nominee is Casey Stengel, coach with the club, who managed Toledo in the American Association after his big league outfield career with the Dodgers, Pirates, Phillies and Giants was through. Gabby Street, recently replaced by Frankie Frisch at the Cardinals' helm, also has been mentioned.

Crack Polo Teams Resume Series Today

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Four daring, spectacular horsemen from the West ride their mounts onto Onwentsia Field today eager and confident of routing Capt. Tommy Hitchcock's hand-picked band from the East in the all-star intersectional polo championship series.

Victors in the first engagement by the surprising margin of 15 to 11, the western team needed only a victory today to clinch the series and hand the world of polo a distinct upset.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

Playing on the National Golf Links not long ago, I happened to be driving very well. Alec Girard, the club professional, walking around with us, asked if there was any one thing I thought about that enabled me to keep on hitting the ball where I wanted it. I replied that when I was hitting the ball well there always were one or two things which I made certain of doing, and the doing of them would assure success for a while. But they were not always the same things. One conception was good for only a limited time, and when the charm wore off, I would have to begin looking for something else. Alec said emphatically that his experience had been the same.

Bobby Jones

This is one of the things which our theorists and analysts overlook when they are not themselves reasonably capable players. It is of great value to have a clear understanding of the successive movements which make up a correct golf swing. This much is needed in order to enable one to recognize and correct faults as they appear. But no human is able to think through and at the same time execute the entire sequence of correct movements. The player himself must seek for a conception or fix upon one or two movements upon which to concentrate, which will enable him to hit the ball. And then, when this wears out, because, perhaps, he begins to exaggerate or overemphasize it to the detriment of something else, the search must begin anew for another idea which will work. In this process there inevitably are alterations in the swing, not in fundamentals, of course, nor of radical proportions, but more than can be accounted for in any series of diagrams.

STICK TO GRIP

If the expert player, possessing a swing that is sound in fundamentals, has to be continually jockeying about to find the means of making it produce fine golf shots, what of the average golfer who never has developed such a swing? Still groping for some sort of method which will give him some measure of reliability, it is only natural that he should try almost anything. If he ever wants to improve he must strive in every way possible to build up a sound style.

There is a whole lot in knowing what to monkey with and what to leave alone. In making day-to-day adjustments, I never consider even for a moment making any alteration however slight, in my grip. It is of the utmost importance that the hands should be placed on the club so that they can perform certain necessary functions, and the correct grip should be the first thing learned. But, after this has been done, the accustomed feel of the club never should be altered. It is only through the grip that the player is able to sense the location of the clubhead and the alignment of the face. If he is constantly changing here he cannot possibly retain this feel. The temptation is great sometimes to correct a temporary hooking or slicing tendency by shifting the right hand more over or under the club. This never should be done. If the grip is wrong, change it by all means, but let the change be a permanent one.

STANCE-POSITION MAY VARY

The stance can vary considerably, shifting the feet to favor a hook or a slice; the ball can be shifted about within ample limits with respect to the feet. These little changes are by no means fundamental. Even what might didactically be prescribed as the correct swing allows some latitude in these matters.

The important thing which the non-golfing theorist or analyst seldom can appreciate is the importance of the player's conception of how to put the correct swing to work. Very often what a man feels he is doing is more important than what he does. The feel, the experience, is so much easier to remember and repeat. When you arrive at a feeling of doing something in any part of the stroke and that something continues to produce good results, you will have a player's conception to hang onto. It is something upon which to concentrate, and which everyone must have in order to play consistent golf. Even the soundest swing must have some simple control to keep it in order.

W. PA. AMATEUR GOLF TOURNEY UNDER WAY

By TOM BIRKS

With a new champion to be crowned, the qualifying round for the West Penn amateur championship got under way over the links of the Highland Country Club this morning.

The 18-hole medal-play test finds practically all of the leading amateurs in the district seeking to match par over the Wellington Heights layout. Of the low-handicap simon pures, the only notables missing from the pairings are Billy Marks, the Kiski star who led the national amateur qualifying round at Oakmont two weeks ago, and Ray Babcock, of Oakmont, a veteran when it comes to the local amateur championship play.

With Marks out of the picture and the defending champion, Maurice Le Bosquet, not eligible to compete, since he has left the district, the Highland contingent of Joe Royston, Jerry Wyman, Regis Wolff, Dr. Stanger and R. B. Parker, together with Knox Young, of Shannopin, and Fred Brand, Jr., of the same club, are expected to dominate the championship flight when match play begins tomorrow.

Royston and Young played sensational golf to finish with the leaders in the open championship on Monday, both shooting par golf or better for the 36 holes.

Fred Weppner and Bill Farquhar, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, must be considered.

The Alcoma Country Club women's invitation tournament got under way this morning with a large field entered.

George L. Craig, Jr., of Allegheny, won the low gross title in the Sons of the American Revolution tournament at the Butler Country Club yesterday, scoring a 77.

Garden Reveals New Boxing Plan

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Madison Square Garden is adopting a new policy in its boxing matchmaking. John Reed Kilpatrick, new president, revealed it at a banquet to sports writers here last night.

Henceforth, instead of making the matches in secret, it will ask the newspapers to publish lists of bouts it is seeking and then let the public know, step by step, how negotiations are carried on. If managers sidestep important matches for their boxers, the fans will know where the fault lies.

Jimmy Johnston, the Garden's matchmaker, is one of the skeptics who do not think the plan will work. His comment was:

"I'd like to be around when he tells that to Carnera's brain trust."

NEW COURSE READY

The first nine holes of the new Penhurst Golf Club, on Churchill road near the Edgewood Country Club, will be opened for play on Labor Day, it was announced today, with the second nine available for play a few weeks later.

Tribe May Use Wesley Ferrell In Outfield

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Unless Wesley Ferrell, for four years the ace of the Cleveland pitching staff, returns to his winning ways soon he may be shifted to the outfield.

Both he and Manager Walter Johnson said today they had discussed such a plan but neither is as yet convinced Ferrell is through as a pitcher. It has been weeks since he won a game. Johnson said:

"I haven't given him up as a pitcher. I've been watching him closely for some time and I think he would make good as an outfielder. He always has been a dangerous batter."

Ferrell yesterday allowed Philadelphia 14 hits in losing by 8 to 7. His contract for this year calls for $12,000 and he would get $2,000 more as a bonus if he should win 20 games during the year.

Two A. A. U. Meets Open for Entries

Two important amateur events have been scheduled by the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. for the latter part of the month.

An attractive program of swimming and diving events will be staged in the Kennywood Park pool on Saturday, August 26, when the Homewood-Brushton Boosters and the Thirteenth Ward Republican Club honors Mayor John S. Herron. The events include 60 yards free-style for women, 60 yards backstroke for women, 60 yards free-style for men and 120 yards free-style for men.

Next Saturday a swimming and track meet will be held at West View Park by the West View-Ross Township Firemen. Entries for both meets as well as the Homewood-Brushton Boosters' affair may be obtained at the A. A. U. headquarters, room 35, Vandergrift Building.

SARAH PALFREY EASY WINNER IN NET PLAY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Sarah Palfrey, little star from Brooklyn, Mass., scored the first victory in the second round of the women's national tennis tournament here today when she overwhelmed left-handed Marjorie Sachs, of Cambridge, 6-0, 6-1. It was no contest from the start, Palfrey, seeded No. 4 on the domestic list, outclassed her opponent in every phase of the game.

Draw for Legion Play Set Today

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Drawings will be made here today for the pairings in the regional American Legion junior baseball series Thursday, Friday and Saturday. State champions of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and West Virginia will play.

The winner of the local series will go to Springfield, O., to compete with five other teams representing 24 states for the eastern sectional title.

Kitzmiller Plans to Continue Coaching

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Johnny Kitzmiller, assistant football coach at the University of Oregon, said he will return to the university this season to assist in directing football activities.

Reports from New York had indicated he would return to professional football in the National League, but Kitzmiller said he had decided to continue in the coaching field.

New England Girl Archery Victor

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Scoring 72 hits with 72 arrows in the concluding Columbia round, Dorothy Dugan, of Greenwich, Conn., topped the women's field in the Century of Progress open archery tournament yesterday. Her final point score was 1,674.

John Hobson, of Portland, Ore., won the junior tournament with a total of 2,292 points. Gordon Smith, Fort Worth, Tex., was second with 1,950 points.

Pro Grid Team, Yarosz Fight To Be Discussed by Seals

Coming events cast their shadows before.

For instance, there is that Vince Dundee-Ted Yarosz fight at Forbes Field next Monday night, which has all of the sports fans buzzing.

Lew Raymond

Then there is the debut of Pittsburgh in the National Professional Football League this fall.

If you want to know more about these two future events you will be accomodated if you listen in on the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh franchise in the National League, will tell about his plans and the colorful squad he is corraling in an attempt to give Pittsburgh a winner right from the start.

Pittsburgh's fistic "Battle of the Century" will be discussed by Lew Raymond, famous local matchmaker, and Harry Keck, sports editor, who will conduct the program, with Leland Becraft, WCAE announcer, also participating.

CHAMP ENTERS GOLF FINAL

Mrs. Margaret Curry, medalist in the qualifying round and defending champion, will meet Mrs. Eva Blair in the 36-hole final for the women's city golf championship over the Schenley Park course tomorrow.

Both scored victories in their 18-hole semi-final matches this morning to enter the championship round. Mrs. Curry defeated Mrs. Leo Schwartz, 6 and 4, while Mrs. Blair defeated Miss Edith Clarke, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Blair turned in the best medal score in today's matches, scoring 42-38—80. Mrs. Curry scored 43-40—83, Miss Clarge 41-43—84 and Mrs. Schwartz a 96.

The final match of 36 holes will be divided into two rounds of 18 holes each.

In the second division, Mrs. McAnally qualified for the 18-hole final by defeating Mrs. Walsh, 1 up.

MAXIE BEATS JACKSON

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Outweighed 29 pounds by Dynamite Jackson, a 206-pound Los Angeles Negro, Maxie Rosenbloom, the National Boxing Association light-heavyweight champion, scored a decision in 10 fast rounds last night. Rosenbloom won all except the first, fourth and tenth rounds.

Reading Loses One Game and Most of Park

READING, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Reading's Red Sox lost one game of a double-header yesterday, and all the rest of the baseball park with the exception of a plot in center field.

The game will remain lost, but Mike Kelly, business manager of the Sox, stated that the infield, grandstand and bleachers and right and left fields will be retrieved in time for this afternoon's game with Binghamton.

Constables appeared at Lauer's Park at noon yesterday and served notice on Kelly that the Lauer estate had started proceedings to void the lease held on the baseball plant by the association for failure to pay back rent amounting to about $4,000.

Ottawa to Stay In Hockey League

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Any doubt that the Ottawa Senators would be represented in the National Hockey League again next fall was removed when a group of Baltimore sportsmen, who held an option on the club franchise and players, failed to exercise it before its expiration at midnight.

The crucial test for the Book team in the second half race for the City League title comes this evening when Heinie Boll and his outfit clash with Dormont at the Dormont High School field.

After meeting the Dormont club, the Books must take on the league-leading Whitaker nine at Whitaker tomorrow. Book wins in both games will enable the Bollmen to take the second half honors, while a defeat will erase them from the running.

The Gillespies aided the Book cause last evening, beating the Whitaker, 8 to 5. Kapfer limited the hard-hitting leaders to five hits. The Cochrans were defeated by Homewood, 9 to 2 in the other City circuit encounter.

The South Hills American Legion team will meet the Dormont Club, of the City League, at Dormont tomorrow evening.

"That's What I Call Good Beer!"

In steel mills, glass plants, homes, offices, clubs . . . wherever you go, you hear the same enthusiastic praise of Iron City Beer. "It tastes best." Iron City Beer has its own distinctive flavor—neither too sweet nor too bitter, but just right. No other beer tastes quite the same. Iron City Beer tastes good because it is carefully made from the best materials, and properly aged. It is made by expert old-time brewers in Pennsylvania's largest brewery.

BRAVES WORRY ALL RIVALS

BOSTON NINE MAY WRECK WEST'S HOPES

Associated Press.

While American League baseball fans had their eyes turned toward St. Louis and Lou Gehrig's approaching record, those who follow the National League were watching the Boston Braves today and wondering if they would nominate themselves as official "softeners" of the Western clubs for the New York Giants.

Gehrig, who played his one thousand three hundred and sixth consecutive game with the New York Yankees and set the batting pace with three hits as they beat the Browns, 8 to 5, yesterday was due to equal Deacon Everett Scott's major league durability record today, barring rain, injuries or other mishaps.

BRAVES TOP CUBS

The Braves started their home stand against the third place Chicago Cubs in a manner which reminded fans of their famous 1926 feat, when they bumped all four Western clubs in succession and practically took charge of the pennant race, althonugh they finished in seventh place. Yesterday their stunt was to make five hits off Guy Bush for a 2-to-1 victory.

Every one of Boston's hits counted in the scoring, while Ben Cantwell managed to hold Chicago to a single unearned run for his sixteenth victory of the year, although he gave 10 blows.

This game dropped the Cubs a full game behind the idle Pittsburgh Pirates and kept the Braves close behind the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals, who won the only other game on the National League program. With Bill Hallahan pitching six-hit ball, the Cards trimmed the Phillies, 5 to 1.

YANKS BEAT BROWNS

The Yankee victory, gained largely through a five-run rally in the fourth that drove Jack Knott to cover, and aided by Herb Pennock's relief pitching when Johnny Allen weakened, served only to keep the world champions five and one-half games behind Washington. Trailing the Chicago White Sox in the early innings, the Senators whaled Sam Jones for four hits and three runs in the sixth and went on to win, 5 to 1.

A prospective mound duel between Lefty Grove and Wes Ferrell turned out to be a slugging match as the Philadelphia Athletics beat out the Cleveland Indians, 8-7.

The Boston Red Sox evened their series with Detroit by a 5-3 victory as they rapped Fred Marberry for three doubles in the eighth to tally three runs after the big flinger had started the inning with a walk.

BUCS DEFEAT SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 16.—The Pittsburgh Pirates' stop here yesterday proved a disastrous one to the Scranton Barons of the New York-Pa. League. Slugging out 14 hits, the Buccos defeated the locals, 5 to 3.

Bill Swift, a Scranton citizen, pitched the first three innings for the Pirates, with Harris finishing. The score:

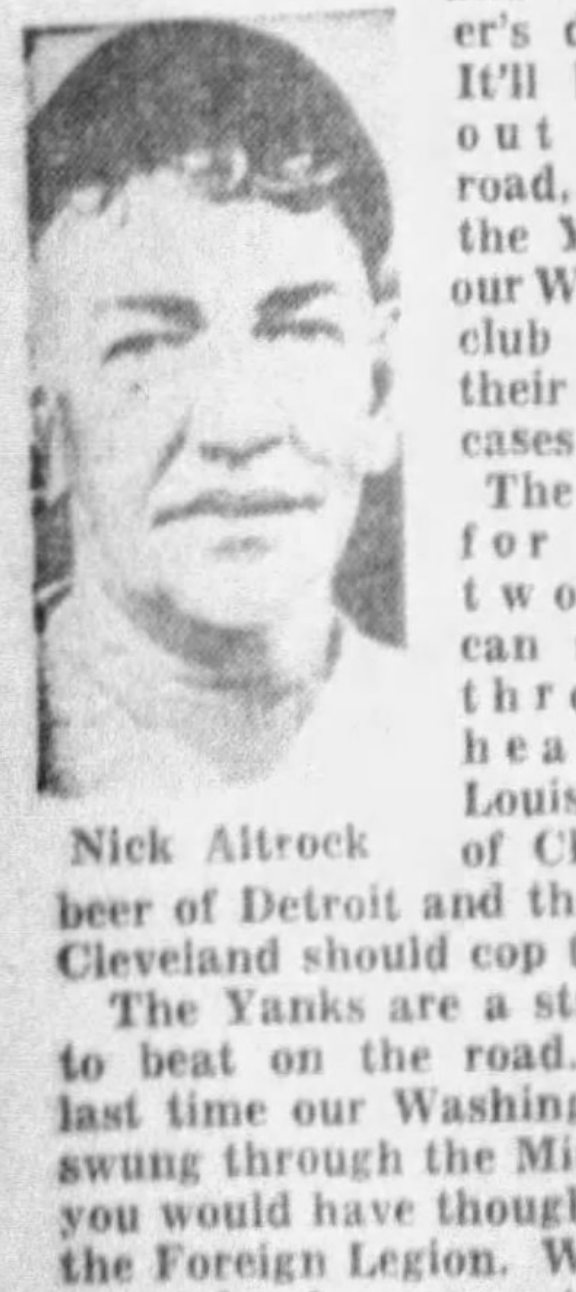
HAGEN VICTOR

GLASGOW, Scotland, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen continued his successful exhibition golf tour of the British Isles yesterday as he defeated Jack McLean, Scotland's leading amateur, 2 and 1 in a 36-hole match after being 7 down at the end of the first 18.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Well, folksy-Wolksies, the 1933 American League pennant race is just like the two traveling salesmen and the farmer's daughter. It'll be settled out on the road, where the Yanks and our Washington club now have their sample cases.



Nick Altrock

The club that for the next two weeks can stagger through the heat of St. Louis, the guns of Chicago, the beer of Detroit and the ennui of Cleveland should cop the rag.

The Yanks are a strong team to beat on the road. But the last time our Washington outfit swung through the Middle West, you would have thought we were the Foreign Legion. We lost only a couple of games out of 22. So we are not any more afraid of out-of-town dates than Ringling's circus. Bring 'em on!

DAVE CAVANAUGH AND HIS DAD, MAJ. FRANK CAVANAUGH

DAVIE REMEMBERS AND WRITES

Recently Cav underwent a serious operation, and for days hovered between life and death. Meanwhile, Davie boy, who had played under him at Fordham and had gone on to blaze his own career in the New York business trenches, and had become the upstanding, hard-fighting man his dad always wanted him to be, yearned to be at his side, his pal as of yore, but he couldn't tear himself away from his job.

He knew what Cav needed. The old fight. A pep talk. The same sort of a spirited call to arms that Cav himself had given his men in France, his boys on the football field. The will to carry on, to FIGHT.

So, 16 years after he had received that masterpiece of a father talking intimately to his son from "Somewhere in France" across a span of 3,000 miles, Davie sat down to write the answer. Here it is:

"232 E. 176 Street,
"New York City,
"August 9, 1933.

"Dear old Cav:

"Mother says that you are getting along nicely and will be sitting up very soon. That's great! Then you'll be up on your feet and ready 'to go' as always.

"Wish I could be home more often, Cav, but you understand, don't you? You've always been a great help to me and you know how much I'd love to lend you a hand now. If there's anything at all I can possibly do tell mother about it and I'll surely do it.

"Remember those great talks, Cav, you always gave the gang before they went out to do battle? 'Go after 'em, gang. Don't let up for a second. Give all you have and then PLENTY more. They can't take us—we're too tough. Get out there now and bury 'em—BURY 'EM—GO AHEAD!'

"That's it, Cav! Give everything you have—show 'em how a veteran does it.

"We're all pulling for you, dear Cav, and when the shadows cast their reflections across the white-striped field the score board will tell the story of another cause won.

"May the good God bless you and keep you for,

"Your eldest of the gang,
"DAVE."

Cav is fighting on. Davie's a chip off the old block, and the old Iron Major can't quit on him.

RACES CARDED ON FINAL DAY OF FAIR

Under the direction of the Schenley Matinee Club, a fine program of harness racing will feature the Allegheny County fair to be held in South Park August 31 to Labor Day, inclusive. The races will occupy the final day only.

A half-mile track has been laid out and there are 14 buildings on the scene, all ready for the celebration. The center field has been arranged for show purposes and polo games. A parking field has been established to accommodate 10,000 cars, so that they will not clutter the infield, as at many similar affairs.

HORSE SHOW ARRANGED

The horse show program calls for the exhibition af all types, from the show horse to draught horses, brood mares, etc. Mrs. Simon Patterson is director of the horse show, with David G. McDonald, superintendent of the bureau of horses for the city of Pittsburgh, in charge of heavy draught and breeding animals and all classes for vehicle-drawing equines, as well as the racing program.

The city department will be represented in the exhibit for heavy draft animals and will exhibit the unbeaten champions, "Dave" and "Al," a cream colored pair with white manes and tails and ankles weighing, respectively, 2290 and 2260 pounds.

CLUB ARRANGES MEETS

The Schenley Matinee Club also will furnish the racing programs for the Carmichaels Fair, opening September 7; the Waynesburg Fair, September 13-14 and the Washington Fair, September 19-20.

Racing on the County Fairs circuit begins tomorrow at Ford City. Next week it moves to Butler and the following week to Ligonier.

FANS, SECONDS STAGE ROW

James Phillip O'Connor, local barrister, found himself squarely in the center of a young riot last night as excited seconds and spectators swung fists in an unscheduled free-for-all scrap at the Pittsburgh Lyceum's outdoor amateur boxing show.

Lawyer O'Connor, former Duquesne University basketball star, had just announced the verdict of the judges and referee following the 160-pound bout between Tom Slusser, Penn State football and boxing ace, and Red Davidson, of the Lyceum, when the fight started. The division was awarded to Davidson. The seconds of both men entered the ring, someone punched someone else, and the battle was on. It took the police to quell the disturbance.

Al Quaill, Y. M. H. A. middleweight, and Teddy Movan, 147-pounder of the McKeesport A. C., continued their winning streaks. The summary:

112-pound class—Johnny Burke, Linwood Club, won by a technical knockout over Tommy Ryan, Pittsburgh Lyceum, second round.

118-pound class—Gigi Carabba, J. L. Thomas Club, defeated Gene Morgan, Pittsburgh Lyceum.

147-pound class—Teddy Movan, McKeesport A. C., defeated Ray Eberle, South Heights A. C., three rounds, decision.

160-pound class—Al Quaill, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Steve Kodeba, Pittsburgh Lyceum; Red Davidson, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Tom Slusser, Frawley A. C.

Heavyweight—John Schuster, Linwood Club, defeated Jimmy Jones, Krah A. C.

Jockeys Suspended After Steeplechase

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(INS.)—The National Steeplechase and Hunt Association today began consideration of the cases of Jockeys E. Ball and D. Hutt, both of whom were suspended yesterday after Cito, odds-on favorite, won the selling steeplechase event.

Forbis, ridden by Hutt, and Sardaneza, with Ball up, came to the finish together, with Cito, ridden by Rigan McKinney, millionaire amateur, the only horse trying to win. Ball and Hutt were denied further admission to the course and their cases referred to the association.

Fight Results

At New York—Midget Wolgast defeated Pete Sanstol, 10 rounds; Lew Feldman defeated Jerry Mazza, 8 rounds; Petey Hayes knocked out Frankie (Kid) Covelli, 5 rounds.

At Chicago—Laddie Tonelli defeated Andy DiVodi, 6 rounds; Frank Seglio defeated Eddie Smith, 4 rounds; John Mirabal knocked out Tony Congelosi, 4 rounds.

At Englewood, N. J.—Dick Clarke and Jack Mason drew, 8 rounds; Frank Buzzoni knocked out Pat Sullivan, 1 round.

At Los Angeles—Maxie Rosenbloom defeated Dynamite Jackson, 10 rounds; Oscar Rankins knocked out Sandy Garrison Casanova, 6 rounds; Kenneth LaSalle defeated Bobby Pacho, 10 rounds.

LOCAL NETTERS SCORE WINS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN
Staff Correspondent.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 16.—Quarter-final men's singles play features today's program of hostilities in the fourteenth annual Western Maryland tennis championships. Start of competition in men's and mixed doubles and continuation of women's singles contesting will round out the bill.

Six of the seven Pittsburghers seeded in the local classic remain in the man-to-man running with but two matches remaining to round out full complement of the bracket of eight. Dr. John O'Loughlin, P. A. A. ace and defending champion, romped through early tussles with Lawrence Shafer, of Cumberland, 6-0, 6-1, and Bill Schaeffer, of Kingwood, 6-1, 6-1, and this afternoon meets Paul Sullivan, who defeated Wayne Howell, of Keyser, 6-1, 6-1.

W. O'LOUGHLIN ADVANCES

Billy O'Loughlin, third of the select group, yesterday out-walloped Frank Kennedy, Morgantown youth, 6-3, 6-0, and thereby merited right to battle John Brown, hard-hitting Mt. Lebanon contender, whose wins over Tourney Chairman Ralph Weber, 6-4, 6-2, and Selby Jacobs, of Keyser, 6-0, 6-0, advanced him in to stanza four.

Margaret Carspecken, Morgantown flash, and twice Western Maryland premier, headed the parade into the feminine semi-finals with quick successes over Margaret Ryan, Washington entry, 6-2, 6-1, and Jerry Morgan, of Grafton, 6-1, 6-2.

LITTELL MEETS ROTH

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Aug. 16.—Duane Littell, Geneva College tennis star, advanced to the finals in the annual junior tourney on the college courts today and meets Chris Roth, city champ and crack high school athlete, of Salem, O., in the title match today.

Littell yesterday advanced to the semi-finals in a hard battle with Bill Fay, of Pittsburgh, 6-4, 6-2, and then defeated Harold Hatch, of Mt. Lebanon, in the semi-finals, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3.

DIXON UPSET VICTOR

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 16.—Favorites led the way in the second round of the third annual Butler County tennis tournament.

Bill Fehrs, defending champion, won by default from R. T. Booth. Don Dixon turned in a surprise victory over Red Laderer, Grove City College letterman, in the final second round match, 6-2, 6-3.

CASH BLOCKADE WEIGHS DOWN INDUSTRY

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The breaking of the capital blockade would add greatly to the forces making for economic recovery.

Mr. Rukeyser

Investor apathy in respect to new bonds has been paralleled by the timidity of investment bankers, especially since the passage of the new federal security act, which adds greatly to the financial responsibility of issuing houses.

As Col. Leonard P. Ayres, of Cleveland, has just pointed out:

"To restore prosperity we must revive the production of durable goods, which involves the floating of corporate bonds, and that in turn requires the restoration of full faith in the future of money and credit."

Apart from theoretical monetary factors, the free flotation of new bond issues must also await improvement in the financial statement of would-be borrowers. Fortunately, some of the outstanding American corporations are rich in cash, and can make capital improvements without going to the money market.

The importance of capital goods to prosperity is indicated by the estimate that in 1929 the country produced 30 billion dollars of consumption goods, and nearly 40 billion dollars of durable goods.

Real estate bond houses are in many instances moribund, the reservoirs of the title companies have dried up, and even the institutional investors are disinclined to add to their mortgage holdings. The banks, which ran to excess during the boom in taking on mortgages, have turned ruthlessly away from them.

Accordingly, private construction—and the employment which depends on it—continues at a low ebb. To some extent, the situation will be relieved by the acceleration of public works outlays.

Obviously the occasion is ripe for the improvisation of new financial machinery for quickening the flow of capital funds from saver to user.

(Mr. Rukeyser's daily column on finance and business will be resumed when he returns from his vacation early in September.)

U. S. Banking Structure Virtually Restored

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.) The American banking structure is virtually back on it feet.

The records of Walter J. Cummings, executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury, today show 13,951 licensed banks operating without restrictions and only 2,870 closed or operating on a restricted basis. These figures include national banks and state members and non-members of the federal reserve system but exclude mutual savings institutions.

The record is as of the close of business August 12 for member institutions and as of July 26 for non-members.

Cummings, brought to Washington by Secretary Woodin and regaled with the unofficial title of "bank opener," said that on August 12, there were 4,961 national banks doing an unrestricted banking business, with deposits of $16,938,145,000; that 740 state member banks with deposits of $9,741,987,000, and 8,250 non-members having deposits of $5,057,596,000 were operating on a full-time basis on July 26.

The deposits are as of December 31, 1932, as there has been no assembled condition report of banks since that time.

The next such condition report, based on the national bank call by the comptroller as of June 30, will be made in about two weeks.

The figures in Cummings' report were taken from official records of the Comptroller of the Currency for national and state member banks, and from Federal Reserve Board records for non-members.

On the inactive side, it was found that on August 12 there were yet closed, or operating on a restricted basis, 909 national banks having deposits of $954,304,000; 95 state member institutions, with deposits of $204,134,000, and 1,866 non-member institutions, exclusive of mutual savings banks, with deposits of $1,005,365,000.

The composite picture shows deposits in open banks of $31,737,728,000 while a ttotal of $2,163,803,000 was tied up in closed or restricted banks.

The picture is even brighter, Cummings said, when cognizance is taken of the many details entering into the task of reopening an institution. In this connection he pointed out that of the 909 national banks still closed or unlicensed, 317 have received the official "O. K." of the Treasury and are raising money provided in approved reorganization plans. This will involve the release of $400,000,000 more in deposits, he said.

Cummings said that every closed banking institution in the United States had been examined by the Treasury since the banking holiday in March.

BOYS & GIRLS! YOU'RE INVITED
P-O-P-E-Y-E-'S
BIRTHDAY PARTY
KENNYWOOD PARK, FRIDAY AUG. 25

O

THERE will be a coupon in the Sun-Telegraph every day—with a different letter each day—just enough to spell P-O-P-E-Y-E when the six have been printed. Bear in mind you cannot get the tickets unless the BIG LETTERS in your coupon spell P-O-P-E-Y-E.

Every boy and girl who clips enough coupons to spell P-O-P-E-Y-E can exchange the set of six for a strip of tickets good for 8 different rides at Kennywood.

If you missed "P" yesterday you can clip two of this letter tomorrow—using one as the FIRST letter in your P-O-P-E-Y-E. Exchange stations where you can get your strip of tickets in advance will be announced in the Sun-Telegraph later and also stations where you can get the special 15-cent round trip passes on the cars of the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

THE "P" WILL APPEAR IN TOMORROW'S COUPON

STOCKS TOPPLE IN SELLING FLURRY

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—After tip-toeing cautiously through cloudy fields of grain and cotton, security markets stumbled over further real and imaginary uncertainties today and slipped rather abruptly to lower price levels.

Most trading eyes were centered on Chicago, where the Board of Trade authorities pulled the "peg" on previous restrictions and wheat, corn, oats, rye and barley dropped the full allowable daily limit. Wheat at Winnipeg also sagged around 2 cents a bushel. Cotton, apparently in sympathy with the grain situation, slumped about $2 a bale at one time. Bonds were heavy. The dollar was steady in foreign exchange dealings.

Stocks mulled about rather dully until about noon when a half-hour selling flurry toppled the list for losses of 1 to around 5 points. The ticker-tape moved rapidly for awhile, but the rush was short-lived and most of the leaders steadied and regained portions of their declines. Issues off 1 to 3 or more included Allied Chemical, Western Union, Case, U. S. Steel, Union Pacific, American Telephone, Homestake, Alaska Juneau, National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Can, U. S. Smelting, Santa Fe, New York Central and others.

Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend by American Telephone seemingly was a minor influence. This action on the disbursement had been expected in Wall street notwithstanding the company's failure by a substantial margin to earn the payment in the first half of 1933.

There was some meager public buying reported at various times during the day but, on the whole, the so-called "outsiders" were not in a participating mood. There were few purchasing orders under the market. At the same time bearish operations recently were said to be on a careful scale owing to fears of the "short" contingent that anything may happen at any time to start the market on another upswing.

Statistical indications that the downtrend in the volume of life insurance has been halted were cheering to the financial district. While new life insurance written in July was down 3.7 per cent from the same month last year, the decline has been dropping sharply each month in 1933. This recession in January was 34.9 per cent and 10.5 per cent in June. Some insurance officials feel that new business probably will rise above the 1932 level during the remainder of the year.

WHEAT BREAKS FIVE CENTS

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—All grains fell to the lowest prices permissible as soon as today's trading began, wheat dropping 5 cents a bushel. Removal of limits on fluctuations except 5 cents up or down for any one day let loose selling that proved more than enough to overcome demand from buyers.

Hopes that broader buying interest would be attracted on price breaks were disappointed, and the wheat market became a desultory affair a few minutes after the opening. Asking prices only were obtainable. There were no bidders. Wheat started at five cents under yesterday's finish and held suspended at the bottom limits allowed. Corn duplicated the action of wheat, starting four cents down, the bottom fixed boundary, and temporarily displayed no power to rally.

Stoppage of business in grain was just about as complete as during recent days when the market was continuously upheld at the artificial minimum instead of being subjected to only a single day's liberal limits of fluctuation. Some trade notables said the public was paying too much attention to technical conditions and too little to a broad view which suggested that values had not yet reflected various stimulating market factors.

Friends of higher prices urged especially that tremendous crop loses not only in wheat but in all agricultural products, including hay and pasturage, would sooner or later have inevitable effect on supply and demand anl on prices as well.

Provisions like grain quickly reached the day's minimum, and stayed there.

Market Sinks Listlessly As Grain Price Peg Is Removed

Dullness remained the outstanding feature of the stock market as traders' interest centered primarily in the grain market. With the "peg" removed, grain prices opened down the maximum permitted, or the equilavent of 5 cents in wheat. But inasmuch as it had been widely expected that grains would be weak, this development did not appear to carry and great weight in shaping the course of stocks. While "pegging" was withdrawn, the daily price restrictions of 5 cents for wheat, rye and barley, 4 cents for corn and 3 cents for oats remained in effect and prices promptly sank the limit.

News coming to hand overnight was not of a character to prompt extension of bullish activities in face of the fresh decline in grain. The drop of 4 per cent in steel operations marked the first substantial contraction since the industry began to taper off late in July. With the Iron Age attributing slackened demand partly to seasonal conditions and partly to retarding influence of efforts to codify the industry, more attention naturally was given the latter element.

The rail equipment issues, particularly American Car & Foundry were tipped all over the lot yesterday.

Bullishness on the rail equipments is due in no small measure to the reports of imminent Russian recognition and the formation of an organization to handle the Russian business in this country. Undoubtedly the rail equipments and other heavy machinery manufacturers will benefit, but the average trader should remember the majority of these stocks have already discounted any business improvement far in advance.

Undoubtedly, the efficiency methods obtained through the necessity of depression are going to have far-reaching effects in many industries. For instance, while it is admitted that carriers need new equipment in many departments, they have learned to conserve their locomotives, cars, etc., to such an extent that it is problematical if they will ever buy with such a free hand as they have in the past. The same applies to other industries.

Wall street admits that the general business of the country is slowed up pending the arrangements of codes. There was general buying of commodities, etc., in the belief that the codes would bring higher prices, but with many industries still working on codes, second-hands do not know what prices to put on future business as they do not know what prices they will have to pay for some of their necessities.

An English distiller who is visiting this country, remarked that Great Britain is quite alive to the benefits it may receive when, as and if this country repeals prohibition. He says that it is being taken so seriously that some British legislators are worrying about the possibility of all of the aged whiskies in Scotland and Englind leaving those countries for the United States when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed, and considering some action to conserve some stocks for home needs. He added that hundreds of Americans have been over there making arrangements to start the "wet fleet" moving with full cargoes as soon as it is legal.

Columbian Carbon Company and subsidiaries for six months, ended June 30, reports net income equal to 90c a share comparing with 87c a share in the first half of 1932. June quarter net income was equal to 45c a share against 45c a share in the March quarter and 36c a share in the June, 1932, quarter.

Pacific Gas and Electric Company reports consolidated net earnings for the first six months of this year of $5,433,915, compared with $6,823,991 in the like 1932 period. The net amounted to 87 cents a share on common stock, against $1.09 last year. Payment of $6,274,236 in common stock dividends left a deficit of $840,321, compared with a balance last year of $587,874.

Ohio Oil Company and subsidiaries report for six months ended June 30 net loss of $3,140,680 after all charges, comparing with net profit of $4,098,198 in first half of 1932.

Vanadium Corporation of America reports net loss of $613,354 for the six months ended June 30, after taxes, depreciation, etc., but exclusive of $148,155 profit on purchase and retirement of bonds credited to capital surplus account. This compares with net loss of $801,627 in the comparable 1932 period, including a profit of $77,976 on purchase and retirement of the company's debentures.

Electric Power and Light Corporation, utility holding company supervised by Electric Bond and Share Company, reports consolidated net income of $4,758,388 for the 1932 calendar year against $4,771,176 in the previous year. The 1932 net income after interest was $370,861 less than the full dividend requirements for the year on the company's preferred stocks.

Gotham Silk Hosiery Company, Inc., for the first six months of the year shows a net loss of $207,922 against a net profit of $62,765 in the first half of 1932.

COCOA BEAN IMPORTS

Arrivals of cocoa beans in the United States during the first 10 days of August totaled 154,318 bags against 45,380 bags in the comparable period last August. Warehouse stocks in New York have increased gradually and at the close of the week aggregated 840,546 bags against 763,909 bags a month ago.

REFRIGERATOR SALES

The Electric Refrigeration Bureau of the Edison Electric Institute reports that 36,223 household electric refrigerators were sold in New York State in June compared with 31,035 in May and 42,297 in June, 1932.

TRADING QUIET ON LOCAL BOARD

There was no change in the general character of the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Prices held to a narrow range and the volume of stock passing through the market was held down to around the low levels of recent sessions. A little activity in Lone Star Gas marked the early dealings but the stock quieted down after a small fractional rise. The other fuels were dull and practically unchanged. Armstrong Cork fell back a little on an offering of a round lot shortly after the opening.

On the "big board" prices sagged early in anticipation of a further break in the wheat market when the "pit" opened with the minimum price restriction removed. A fluctuation of five cents from the previous close is the new regulation. Wheat dropped the five-cent limit when the market opened at 10:30. Other grains also fell the alloted amount, after which the trading went stagnant.

COTTON DROPS ON CROP NEWS

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 3 lower to 2 higher with steadier Liverpool cables offset by favorable crop advices. October, 8.87; December, 9.07; January, 9.15; March, 9.30; May, 9.49; July, 9.61.

There was some selling of near months and buying of later deliveries at the start, but offerings increased right after the call. Expectations of a favorable weekly weather report and the opening decline in the grain market influenced the decline. December cotton sold off to 8.96 and May to 9.57 and the general list was 9 to 13 points net lower at the end of the first half hour.

Stop orders were uncovered as prices eased off and while there was covering and trade buying on a scale down, the market appeared to be without much other support. December sold off to 8.66, and May 9.11, making net losses of 35 to 44 points and was within a few points of these figures around midday.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 16.—Cotton, 16,000 bales including 12,800 American. Spot quiet; prices 5 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.27; Good middling, 5.97; strict middling, 5.67; middling, 5.52; strict low middling, 5.37; low middling, 5.17; strict good ordinary, 4.97; good ordinary, 4.67. Futures closed barely steady. October, 5.22; December, 5.26; January, 5.28; March, 5.32; May, 5.36; July, 5.40.

Eastman Appoints Short Line Groups

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Three representatives each to represent the short lines and electric railways on the region coordinating railroad committees in the east, west and south were named today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation.

The men will sit at hearings held by the regional committees only when proposed economies affecting the interests of the short lines and electric roads are involved.

DOLLAR JUGGLE DOUBTED AS PRICE SPUR

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Last Saturday I explained that those who want a "commodity dollar," propose to vary either the quantity of the gold in the dollar or the quantity of money, and thus attempt to keep some average of wholesale prices from changing.

I pointed out that no wholesale prices average is satisfactory, also that most of us are interested in retail prices. In short, we have no adequate measuring stick to start with. This is a serious practical difficulty.

Two objections might be offered.

INTERESTS DIFFER

The first one is that each of us is interested only in the prices of a few particular commodities, and in the relation of these prices to the prices of other commodities. Hardly any two of us have the same interests in a list of 780 commodities. And it is inconceivable that we could control the several markets for all commodities by any single uniform treatment of the dollar.

Say that a dollar will buy one bushel of wheat, two bushels of corn and 10 pounds of copper. To make the thing simple, suppose these to be the only commodities, and the average is $1.

Now suppose that we have a crop failure in wheat, which, therefore, becomes scarce, while corn remains abundant and an overproduction of copper results in a large copper surplus.

DOLLAR THEORY

Ordinarily, under such conditions, wheat would rise to say $1.50, while two bushels of corn would continue to sell at $1.00 and copper would fall to say 80 cents for 10 pounds. This would make the average of the three commodities rise to $1.26. A dollar would now buy 0.67 of a bushel of wheat, two bushels of corn and 12½ pounds of copper.

But the commodity-dollar enthusiast would say:

"We must lower this average price. We will increase the gold content of the dollar by one-fourth, which will offset the average rise in prices, and bring the average purchasing power of the dollar back to where it was."

DEMAND CHARGES

Suppose that we do as they say, and put enough more gold in the dollar to make it seem worth $1.25.

The enlarged dollar might now buy 0.83 of a bushel of wheat, 2½ bushels of corn and over 15 pounds of copper. Does this restore the original condition? Does it mean stability?

The "average" price might be the same, but the dollar buys less wheat and more corn and copper than originally.

Demand and supply conditions for various articles are different and are changing in different ways. The commodity dollar would prevent the just regulation of the production of different commodities, and would make nearly impossible any normal adjustment of supply to demand.

DETERMINING FACTORS

Another objection might be that prices are not determined by the quantity of gold in the dollar, nor by the quantity of money or credit. This is true not only of individual commodities, but also the averages.

Scarcity or manipulation in a single commodity, such as rubber or copper, sometime affects the average of even 780 items.

The rapidity of circulation of money may be the decisive factor in determining the general price level. How, then, can you control the level merely by changing dollar sizes or the number of dollars in existence?

EXPERIMENTS FAIL

Another point is that the interests of borrowers and lenders, and of bond issuers and stock issuers, are fundamentally different as regards prices. These interests cannot be equalized.

Another is that it might be practically impossible to carry on international trade among countries trying to experiment with commodity dollars, pounds and francs.

Neither Sweden nor any other country has ever succeeded in a "managed currency" experiment.

WEEK'S GRAIN EXPORTS UP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Grain exports last week from the United States totalled 277,000 bushels against 185,000 bushels the previous week and 1,433,000 during the corresponding week of last year. Commerce Department figures gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those for the week before:

Wheat, 1,000 bushels against 5,000; barley, 137,000 against 143,000; corn, 113,000 against 24,000; oats, 26,000 against 13,000; no exports of rye were reported for either week. Canadian grain exported last week from United States ports totalled 159,000 bushels against 412,000 bushels the previous week, while exports of North American wheat flour were 45,000 barrels against 39,000 barrels.

Waste Producers To Present Code

The National Association of Waste Material Producers has been organized under the management of James Flett, of Chicago, for the purpose of safeguarding the interests of the waste producing companies in the preparation of codes by the waste material dealers of the country. One of the purposes of the association is to prepare a code which will meet the producers' situation as regards marketing their product.

LATIN AMERICA TRADE GAINS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Basing his conclusions on air-mail reports, Postmaster General Farley today said there was "a renewed flow of trade and commerce between the Americas" which he interpreted as the first major indication of improvement in the export field.

The Foreign Airmail Service, he asserted, was playing a large part in rehabilitation of trade with Latin America, which in 1929, he said, contributed $2,000,000,000 or one-fifth of the entire world trade of this country.

"More closely keyed to American commerce than any other institution in this field, the International Air Transport System already reflects in its traffic volume to the West Indies, Central and South America, an increasing measure of the confidence inspired by the constructive recovery steps already taken by the administration." Farley's statement said.

Rumania Defaults Interest on Bonds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—American investors induced to purchase foreign bonds by the super-salesmanship of big New York banking houses during the early 1929 speculation orgy today faced a new loss on the $9,375,000 Rumanian bond issue outstanding in this country.

Official word reached the State Department that the Rumanian government had suspended foreign interest payments on this issue, which was floated here in 1929. The annual interest payments due the American public which invested in these bonds totals approximately $650,000.

Canadian Revenues Take Upward Trend

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—Due to a sharp increase in returns from excise taxes, Canadian government revenue from customs and excise taxes in July reversed the trend of earlier months of the current fiscal year to show an increase of $642,920 over July, 1932.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Raw sugar was quiet early today, and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 3.45c for spots.

Futures showed early net losses of 2 points on most positions under scattered liquidation and selling by houses with producing connections.

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.70c for fine granulated with a fair withdrawal demand while new business was light and supplied through second hands at around 4.50c.

July Wholesale Price Level Higher

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—(INS.)—Wholesale price levels in July show an increase of more than 6¾ per cent over those in July a year ago, the Labor Department announced today.

Between June and July increases took place in 466 instances, decreases in 40 instances, while in 278 instances no change in price occurred.

This is the second consecutive month in the last three years that prices for the current month have shown an increase over the corresponding month of the year before.

Forbes

Investigate This Rumored Motor Merger

By B. C. FORBES

I HEAR that a financier" who has had, to express it mildly, a checkered career, is actively trying to round up a number of automobile manufacturing companies into one consolidated organization.

Mr. Forbes

I am told that several highly reputable motor executives have been approached and are quite responsive. My advice is that before they proceed any further, they insist upon having all the cards laid on the table by the promoter.

A motor merger of the smaller and moderate-sized companies might not be inadvisable under the right sponsorship. Most of these companies have been awkwardly in the red. Several are in financial difficulties. Successful automotive companies have been the exception rather than the rule during the last few years.

But executives and directors, custodians of stockholders' interests, should be extremely chary about entering negotiations with undisclosed principals. There are logical mergers and illogical mergers. There are mergers dictated by sound economic reasoning, others inspired by stock-jobbing possibilities.

Perhaps the new securities act will hereafter prove an effective obstacle to luring the public into stock-jobbing projects engineered solely for the purpose of enriching get-rich-quick promoters.

THE RECENT "pay your bills" columns are being widely indorsed. Organized action is under consideration in various communities.

If everybody who could pay would promptly pay bills, business and employment would be immediately stimulated. If I were a business doctor and were asked for a prescription, I would issue this simple formula:

Pay—and buy.

THE BEST managers of corporations make it their business to keep closely in touch with their stockholders—General Foods, General Motors, General Electric, Westinghouse, American Telephone, General Mills, Standard Brands, Du Pont, and not a few public utilities spring to mind.

A management that has made it its business to cultivate the confidence and good will of its stockholders can usually, when occasion arises to appeal to them to indorse some special action, get prompt, favorable response.

The prospect is that a good many corporate capital structures will have to be revamped. Some capitalizations need to be greatly reduced; some need to be simplified by reducing the varieties of obligations outstanding; in other instances, holders of maturing obligations must be induced to agree to accept something less than full payment in cash—we already have had illustrations of this in the railway world.

WHAT ONE very large industrial enterprise, Armour & Co., is attempting to do is illustrative of the kind of capital revamping likely to become common. There is an Armour Company of Illinois, an Armour Company of Delaware, Armour bonds, Armour preferred stocks and Armour A and Armour B stocks.

The company has formulated a plan to simplify very greatly its financial set-up. Briefly, the preferred and the A and B shareholders are asked to exchange their present holdings for one class of stock under terms which the directors regard as equitable to all.

Without attempting to pass judgment on the relative attractiveness of the terms offered each class of stockholder, it can be said unhesitatingly that the principle is thoroughly sound.

I understand, however, that the attitude of many of the smaller stockholders in apathetic, that they have thus far failed to act or to express their views.

One explanation is that an awkwardly large number of the A and B (non-dividend-paying) shares are not registered in the names of the actual owners, but are in brokers' hands, thus making it difficult for the company to communicate directly with the individual holders.

Satisfied stockholders, like satisfied customers, are assets. Enlightened executives know this and do not hesitate to do everything possible to develop satisfaction.

Since friendliness is worth cultivating, why not cultivate it?

NOTHING has occurred to warrant pessimism that business won't rise this fall.

Speculative Markets Ignore Upset In Cuba

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The Cuban revolution with its denouement in the downfall of the Machado regime caused scarcely a ripple of comment in brokerage quarters. Financial pages of the newspapers and brokers' letters, carried few if any references to the upheaval as a market factor, except as regards securities of corporations with direct Cuban interests.

Some Wall street observers thought it rather odd that the event was so completely negative as an influence in speculative gossip and operations, but others pointed out that it was simply an indication of the stock market's strong fixation on domestic problems and its correspondingly marked indifference to the sort of developments which formerly carried weight in the shaping of market sentiment.

Veteran brokers can recall many little spasms suffered by the market on news of "political tension" in Morocco, China and other remote places. In the Cuban coup, there were rumors that this government might consider the advisability of armed intervention, but even on this ominous talk the market never batted an eye. Stocks were under some pressure at the end of last week, but no one associated the selling with the Cuban news.

Thus it appears that when the country got itself mired in depression four years ago, the stock market stopped worrying about the internal troubles of small foreign nations, and saved its tears and worries for the bad breaks in the home situation.

CODE RETARDS STEEL TRADE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—There has been a considerable falling off in steel orders, mainly as a result of seasonal influences and difficulties surrounding application of the industry's code, Iron Age said today.

Ingot output for the nation has drapped to 53 per cent of capacity from 57 per cent in the previous week, and sharp recessions in output have occurred at Pittsburgh, Chicago and other leading centers, according to the review.

Uncertainties growing out of the national recovery program, continued the review, are responsible in large part for the downward trend in iron and steel business. Sellers feel that they will not have a firm foundation for steel prices until wages in the coal industry are settled.

Iron and steel consumers, on the other hand, are unwilling to make further purchases of materials until they find a way out of some of the perplexities that have arisen from signing up under the Blue Eagle.

Seasonal reaction in the steel industry is most noticeable in the automobile industry.

Both structural steel and concrete bar lettings are suffering because of the slowness with which the public works program is getting under way.

Curb Market Short Interest Declines

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The short position in securities on the New York curb exchange amounted to 37,828 shares on July 31, compared with 55,769 shares on June 30, the exchange announced today.

SAME DIVIDEND ON A. T. & T.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—The regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 on the capital stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company was ordered by directors of the company today.

The dividend is payable October 16 to stock of record September 15.

Declaration of the regular disbursement had been expected in Wall street notwithstanding the company's failure by substantial margin to earn the dividend in the first half of the year.

For the six months ended June 30, net earnings of the company itself, were equal to $3.54 a share of capital stock, compared with $4.03 a share in the first half of 1932. Treating the Bell System as a whole, the earnings were equal to only $2.30 a share of American Telephone stock. On the same basis the company earned $5.96 a share in the full year 1932.

In spite of this deficiency, and earlier drafts upon surplus for dividend payments, there have been indications of a turn in the company's business. The company itself, at June 30, last, had cash and temporary investments of more than $170,000,000.

Stockholders actually will receive less than in the past, although no change was made in the rate. Under the new tax law the 5 per cent levy on dividends will be deducted by the company in computing the amount each shareholder will receive. On the basis of a $42,000,000 melon the company will pay approximately $2,100,000 to the federal treasury.

NEW VOLUME ON MONEY

Containing a timely chapter on our currency, a new edition of "The Common Sense of Money and Investments" has just been issued. Written by Merryle Stanley Rukeyser, financial and editorial writer of the Sun-Telegraph, the New York American, and associated newspapers, and associate in journalism at Columbia University, this volume attracted considerable attention when it was originally published some years ago. Commendations of "The Common Sense of Money and Investments" have come from Bernard M. Baruch, Bayard Dominick, former president of the Better Business Bureau of New York; J. Edward Meeker, economist of the New York Stock Exchange, and Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company.

"The Common Sense of Money and Investments" is simply and graphically written, with a wealth of practical illustrations, and without technical jargon. It emphasizes the importance of the thrift habit in a nation of investors, and points out the dangers of short-cuts and detours to those who would follow the road to independence through sane investment.

The author's discussion of investments in relation to the nation's present financial policy and program is intended primarily for ordinary men and women who have been puzzled by the events of the last dozen years in the world of finance.

Mr. Rukeyser's syndicated articles have resulted in more than 50,000 inquiries from investors all over the United States. This book gives the essence of his financial philosophy.

POWER DECLINE SEASONAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP.)—Electric power consumption for the country last week was up 15 per cent as compared with a year ago. The gain was only a shade less than the 15.6 per cent rise reported in the previous week and the peak improvement reported for the period ended July 15.

The week's outturn, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute, amounted to 1,627,339,000 kilowatt hours against 1,650,013,000 in the preceding week and 1,415,122,000 in the correspondinf period last year. The loss from the week of August 5 was a seasonal recession, accentuated by some slowing down in industrial activity.

In the major geographical regions, output gains over the previous year were substantially maintained around recent levels. The central industrial district was up 21 per cent against 22.7 per cent in the previous week.

CHAPTER XXX.

"First of all," said Cavanaugh after a moment's silence, "I want an unconditional release and exoneration from the police. Then I want you to leave me alone. I'm not a stool pigeon and I'm not going to double-cross any of my friends."

Mulrooney wiped his forehead.

"I couldn't do that. You're an accessory in these cases, beyond doubt. I'm consulting with the District Attorney this afternoon about your charges. No, the best thing for you to do is to come clean on everything. You haven't done that yet. Don't you think I'm right, Miss Luneska?"

"You can leave Miss Luneska out of it," Cavanaugh said levelly. "This is between you and me, Mulrooney."

Mulrooney's mouth grew sulky under the stubby moustache.

"The trouble with you, Mr. Cavanaugh," he said coldly, "is that you're trying to carry water on both shoulders. You know the identity of those yeggs that blew that safe and killed Kruger."

"Maybe I do and maybe I don't."

"Answer me one thing. Why don't you tell us who they are?"

Cavanaugh's eyes narrowed a little.

"Isn't it possible, Mulrooney, that one of those men might have been a friend of mine? Maybe that man has done me a big favor sometime. And here's another angle. There's a killer loose and he's after me. It's my own personal job to check up on him. I can't do those things as long as the police have a string on me. You ought to be smart enough to see that. I'm asking you to do the wise thing. Turn me loose!"

MULROONEY REFUSES

Leni leaned forward a little. "There—isn't that simple, Mr. Mulrooney?" she exclaimed.

But Mulrooney had no intention of being swept off his feet. He was, after all, a policeman and he entertained not the slightest idea of exonerating and liberating a promising prisoner in exchange for an ephemeral promise.

"Not on your life, Mr. Cavanaugh," he said without taking his cigar from his mouth. "You're in a bad jam and you know it. I've stretched a point even in bringing you out here to talk. I made a bargain with you after Kruger was shot, but that's all off now. You're in a spot where you're going to come clean with everything—I mean everything—or you're going to take it on the chin. I was willing to play ball with you after Kruger—but it's another story now."

He had employed the tone which he used to intimidate prisoners. Lucky Cavanaugh had no intention, however, of being browbeaten.

"I'm going to make you just one more little proposition, Mulrooney," he said—and his eyes tightened as he spoke. "First, I'm going to do you a favor. I've lost a lot of my luck, but I've got a hunch there's a little of it left yet. I think I can get my hand on the fellow that killed Annette. I can't promise but I think so. When I get him I'm going to turn him over to you. You're going to have all the glory. That's what I'm going to do for you. Now I'll tell you what you're going to do for me. You're the only living soul outside of myself that knows the story of Miss Luneska's past lift. You're going to keep your mouth shut forever on that subject. If it ever comes to light—if a single word of it is ever made public—I'll know who it came from. Did you ever have any threats made against you, Mulrooney?"

The detective's eyes were hard and unblinking.

"Plenty of times, Cavanaugh."

"Well, I'm not making any threats. I'm telling you something. Win or lose—whatever happens—I'm expecting you to keep your mouth shut about Miss Luneska. It's plain, common, human decency. If you spill anything, it's going to be a personal matter between the two of us. Just something between Mulrooney and Cavanaugh. I've never made that threat before to any living man and I hope I don't have to carry it out."

LENI REMORSEFUL

Mulrooney got to his feet, his eyes glinting with cold fury.

As Mulrooney rose, Cavanaugh, too, came to his feet.

Leni came up as well, watching intently these two men who faced each other with such opposition in their stormy eyes.

She would have thrown her arms around Cavanaugh except that it would have been silly and inadequate. Her heart was swelling with remorse, pity, alarm.

But remorse was uppermost. It was all her fault. It was she who had been fatal to Cavanaugh. He had been free, gay, untrammeled, until he met her. It was the black shadow of her own life that fell like a pall upon him.

In the beginning it had been no more than a casual flirtation for him. Now it was, practically, a matter of life and death.

Had their paths never crossed it was a certainty Lucky Cavanaugh would still be the insouciant young man of the world, welcome almost everywhere, master of his life, liberty and destiny. Instead of his charming freedom he now faced a charge of murder—was now about to be dragged off to jail like a common felon.

Worse, in trying to defend her reputation, he had lost his head, had uttered words which amounted to an implied threat against the life of an officer of the law. Leni moved quickly between the two men, her arms stretched out sidewise as though to keep them apart.

"Now, please, both of you!" she cried. "This is a conference—not a vendetta!"

Following the instinct of her heart, she leaned pliantly against Cavanaugh.

"Don't mind what Lucky says about you, Mr. Mulrooney. I assure you—I promise you—I don't care about myself. I'm through with pictures anyway—what does it matter whether my name is good or bad? Lucky is angry—he doesn't realize what he is saying!"

It was the futile effort of the peace maker and met with the usual result. Cavanaugh moved a strong arm and forced her ruthlessly out of the way.

"What I said to you goes, Mulrooney!" he said in compressed words. "You keep her name out of this."

It was a command and it affected this arm of the law exactly as a slap in the face. Twenty autocratic years of police authority began to boil. He reached under his coat toward his hip pocket of his trousers.

For a moment Cavanaugh thought he was going to pull a gun. But instead of a police automatic, Mulrooney produced two nickel-plated circlets connected by a short glistening chain.

"Stick 'em out, wise guy!" blurted out the detective, white with rage. "I brought you here like a gentleman and you're going back to the tank like a crook!"

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Karl Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky. Lucky, arriving home, finds a jealous woman, named Annette, waiting for him. Steve Poletzki, the killer, aims at Lucky through a window and kills Annette by mistake. Next morning, Leni is swamped with congratulatory messages on the premiere. Her success is assured, but more important to her than that is Cavanaugh's love for her. Herman Gerstenfield, noted director, calls. He tries to persuade Leni to sign a new contract. Gerstenfield tells Leni that he is her friend. Leni reads about Cavanaugh's arrest. Mulrooney visits Leni. He consents to bring Cavanaugh to see her.

NOW GO ON

Mulrooney reached under his coat toward the hip pocket.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Two dandy letters today, fellows:

They are both so chock full of good ideas for every captain and lieutenant that we decided to print them both in full so that all Junior Patrol members can read them.

Here's the first one from Capt. Matilda Suto, of 198 Beaver street, Leetsdale. She writes:

"You have asked us what we do to enjoy ourselves. In our club the first thing we do is to say our pledge. Second, we have inspection in cleanliness; third, we read the minutes; fourth, we tell what good deeds we have done; fifth, we have nature and bird study; sixth, we have entertainment, and seventh, we have games.

"On the ninth of August we had a party. Our intention for future meetings is to learn how to crochet, darn, knit, and learn how to mend our own clothes. Then also, we will make crepe paper flowers, and drawings and other things which I cannot think of just now. And we go along with our work we will let you know how we are doing. When we get our things done, then we will hold an exhibition. And invite every one to come and see our work.

"Some of the good deeds that my patrol are doing—they care of the children while the mothers go shopping or gardening. Some do errands. Some of them help people picking the things from the gardens.

"I, the captain, help the community nurse to distribute the milk to the poor, and many other things which we are really proud to do. This is all for this time."

We are all very proud of your patrol Matilda. And especially we were glad to hear about the good deeds that your patrol and you, yourself, are doing. Junior Patrol members are supposed to help others every chance they get—it's one of reasons why we have a club—and it makes us feel good whenever we hear definite ways in which members have helped. You girls have found several very fine ways to do good. Mothers, especially if they have several children, don't get much chance to enjoy themselves—they give up lots of good times for their children. And it's one of the nicest things you can possibly do when you watch their children

Now here's another swell letter from Marian L. Swart, of 246 Park avenue, Washington, Pa. Just read for yourselves!

"We are having a show and my members have been busy rehearsing it — August 18. Our show includes five small plays, a larger play that I made up, and songs, dances, and speeches. We have been practicing for three weeks. Charges are five cents for adults and two cents for children. I have 17 members in my club now, but only 12 are in the show. That's because a few of them are away on their vacations. I do hope our show goes off okay. Wish us luck.

"Wednesday, August 23, we are going to have two 'jack' contests. One for the smaller girls and one for the larger girls.

"It won't be long until school will be starting. We won't be able to have as many meetings as we have been. I received a letter from another captain the other day. Her name is Christine Elisky from North Braddock, Pa. I answered her letter. I hope I get letters from other captains soon. I received my armband and was very glad to get it. I will close wishing you all good luck."

Isn't that a peach of a letter? We'll say, and we certainly do wish Marian luck with her show, and all her members, too. But we know that it will be really good. When a lot of fellows are willing to practice so long and hard their show is sure to be a really great success. Please let us know who wins your jack contests, Marian.

Anita Swartz, of Box 132, Dravosburg, writes that she would like to have an armband, but she doesn't send her roll of 10 members of 10 signed up pledges or copies of pledges. Don't forget, that is what you need to be a Captain, and you must be elected by the members of your club.

WASHINGTON. — Congressman Frisby last night issued a message of thanks to the American public for standing squarely behind him in his hour of domestic strife

"I can only say," declared Frisby, "that it is gratifying to know that every man, woman and child in this broad land from the rock bound shore of Maine to the windswept steppes of far-off Russia are firm in their contention that I am sound as a hickory nut in my fight for freedom. Mrs. Frisby will soon learn that she has nothing to gain by her cowardly attempt to stab me in the back with her demand for alimony. Unless she have a care, I will not hesitate to unleash my temper, and, like the hound at bay, strike back with all the fury of the king of beasts protecting its young from the cowardly hawk which preys upon the unsuspecting birdling."

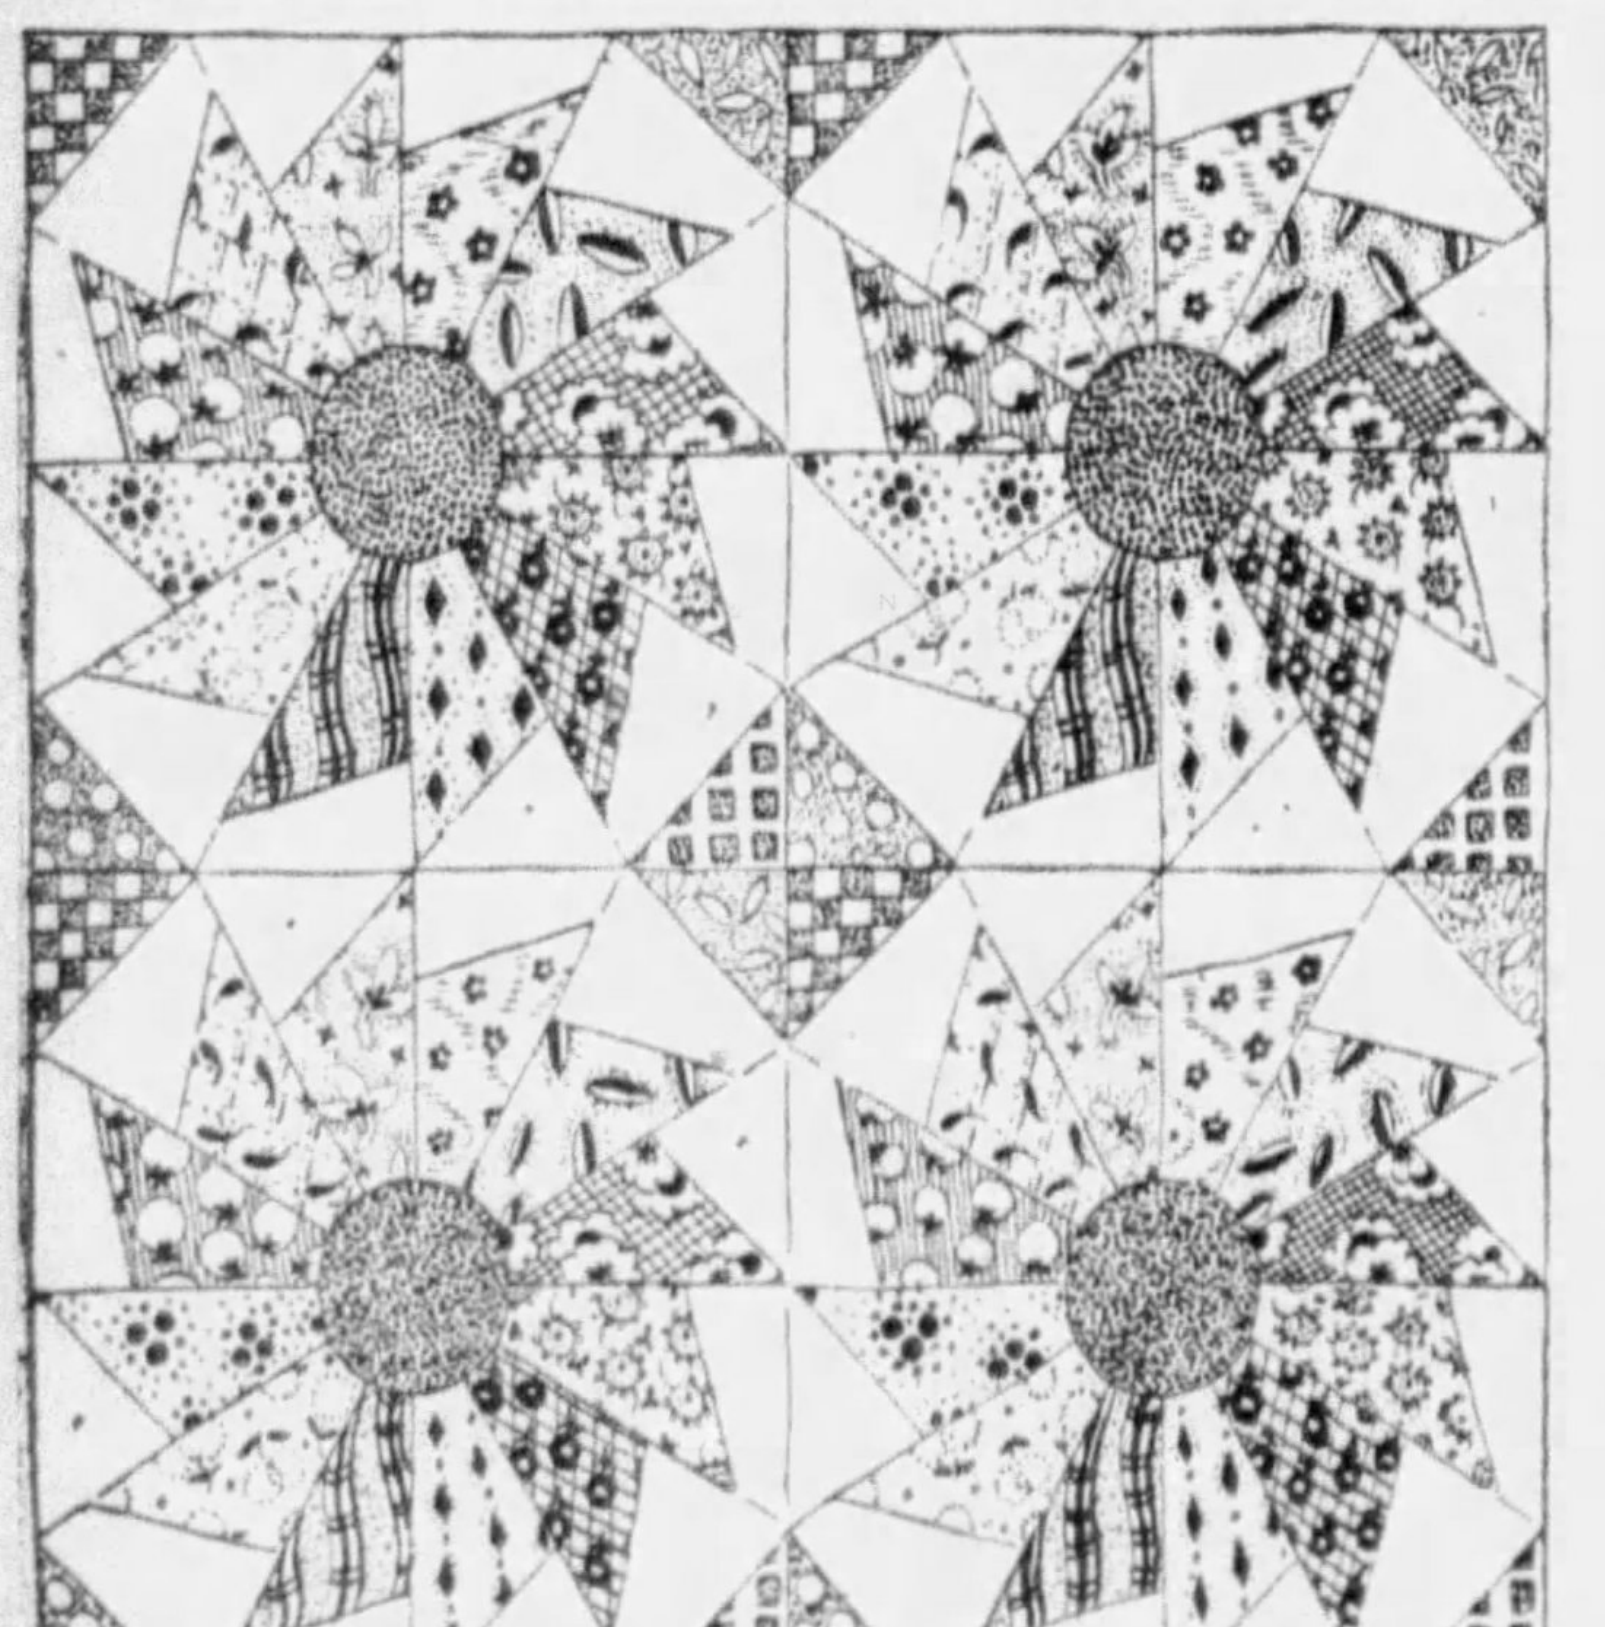
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



WHEEL OF FORTUNE PATTERN 517

By LAURA WHEELER

Fortune has always been considered fickle. As many ingredients go towards successfully winning her as there are varied patches in this Wheel for Fortune. Like the chase after Fortune, this pattern offers diversity in each block and with it the fascination of a new arrangement of the scraps of material. Some old-time quiltmakers preferred to use the same scraps in each block as shown in the illustration.

Pattern No. 517 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

We've Covered Some Ground

What are the signs by which we can tell when a depression is over?

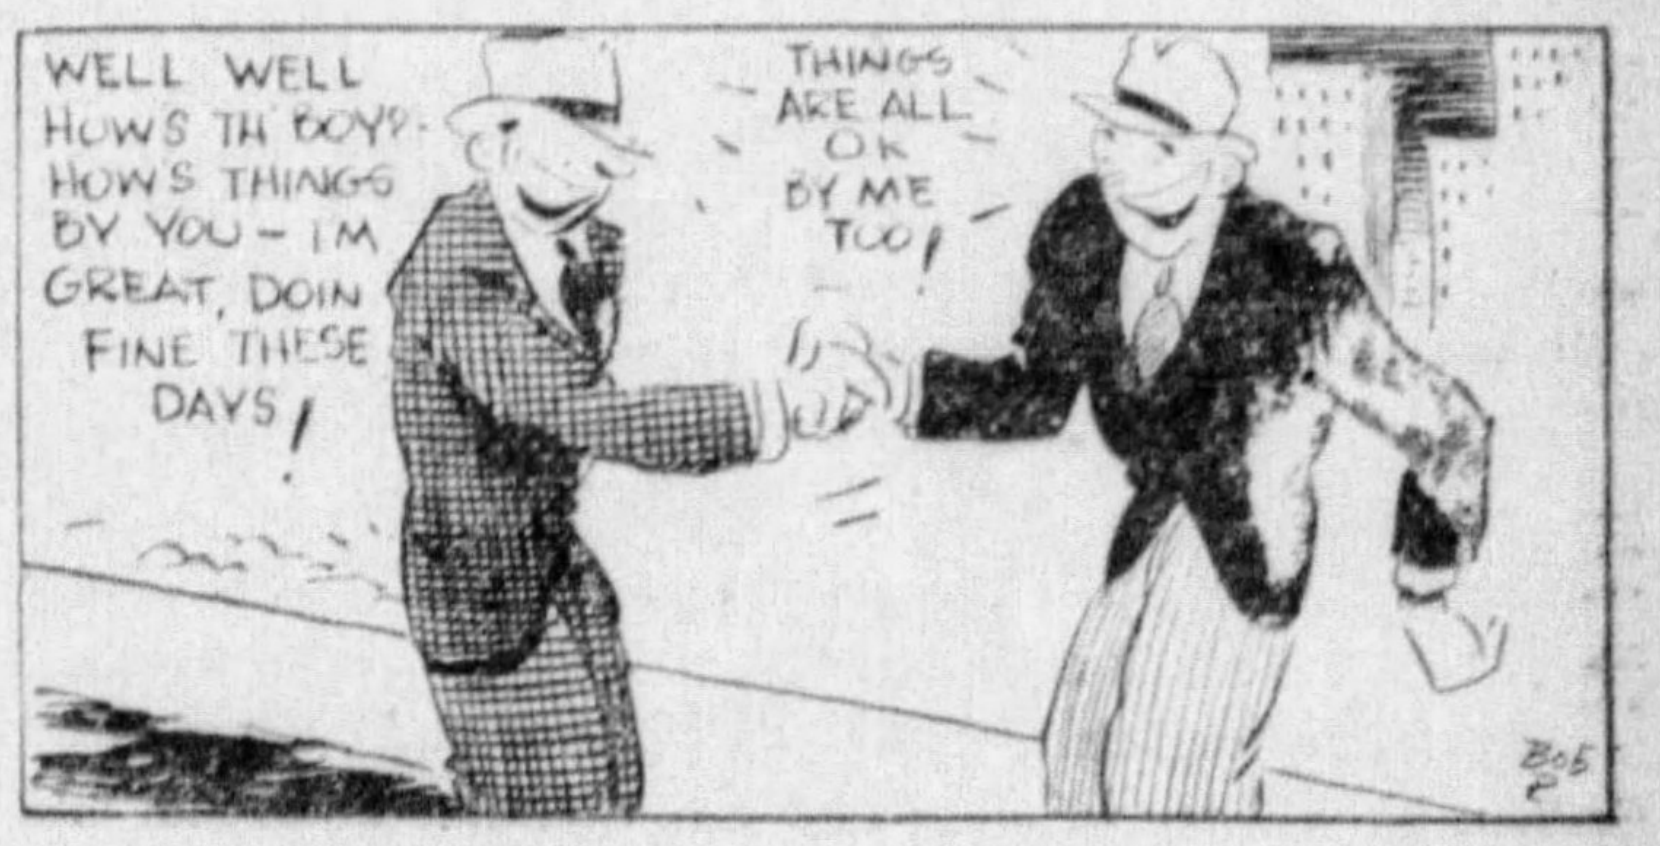
Question is asked by J. C. B., who raised a postcard instead of his hand.

Nevertheless, teacher will answer. Crowd around the Bug and don't kick over his soap box.

You can tell it by people. They're smiling again. We might add the bees, the birds and the flowers, but they haven't got a thing to do with it. They were present. But not voting.

It's in the air. On the street cars. In the movies. It's as intangible as a spider web in a dark cellar. But when you walk into it, you know it's there.

Never was anything wrong with this country that a mustard poultice couldn't cure. We could have saved the rest of the world without getting our feet wet. Europe was about washed up when Columbus got here in 1492. For almost three hundred years the wealth of North and South America flowed into the old world. That ain't hay.



WELL WELL HOW'S TH BOY? HOW'S THINGS BY YOU - I'M GREAT, DOIN FINE THESE DAYS!
THINGS ARE ALL OK BY ME TOO!
BOB

From 1776 to 1914 it was about even stephen. Little Johnny Bell would push the cat into the well and little Johnny Stout would pull her out. Then in 1914 the European money started westward for munitions and food. In 1929 we finished a 15-year spree on imported gravy.

It was the blow-off. The lid on the manhole cover hasn't landed yet. We had just about spent every dime everybody had. Two cars in every junkyard and all the rest of that hokumberry.

We knew what was wrong. Time will heal anything. But nobody had enough sense to oil the clock and wind it up.

Long about March we started going. Our master minds had been rattling in thimbles since 1929. Starting with the new administration we have been pulling on our own bootstraps. That's not supposed to be good gymnastics.

But we must have gotten somewhere. The scenery has certainly changed.

Constructive Proposals

Candidate McNair Presents Some Concrete Suggestions For the Betterment of the City.

The Sun-Telegraph has been waiting for the presentation by the candidates for Mayor of some impressive reasons why the citizens should vote for them.

There has not been much in the public statements of some of them so far to explain why they are offering themselves to the consideration of the public. They want the job, to be sure; but why should they be given the job?

Surely there must be some more important reason for voting for a man for Mayor than the mere fact that he is allied with a particular faction or party.

We welcome accordingly the proposals for municipal betterment put forth by William N. McNair, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Mayor. Here are some concrete issues that are worth consideration.

McNair promises that if elected Mayor and supported by Council he will try to bring new and desirable industrial and commercial enterprises to Pittsburgh. He finds that business organizations and residents have been leaving the city, to our financial detriment, and that unless we stop this migration the city's income from real estate taxes will dwindle dangerously. He regards it as one of the primary duties of the Mayor to combat this tendency by making the city more attractive.

This is a rather new conception of the Mayor's duty. We have been leaving it to the Chamber of Commerce and similar bodies to attend to the matter of bringing in new industries. Do the voters think the Mayor should take over this function? McNair is to be commended for raising the question.

In another of his proposals there is no question of his being on solid ground. He voices the earnest wish of all workers for civic improvement in advocating the participation of Pittsburgh in the campaign for the eradication of slums, a campaign that offers great promise of success at this time because of the United States government's offer to furnish funds, under certain conditions, for the replacement of insanitary tenements and hovels with modern apartments for people in modest circumstances.

McNair's arraignment of the Pennsylvania Legislature for its failure to pass legislation that would have enabled Pittsburgh to join in the warfare on slums was none too strong.

With more discussions of questions like these the campaign will serve an educational purpose, and the citizens will be able to vote with understanding. Otherwise it is a pure gamble whether or not we shall gain anything through the election.

No Blocking of Traffic!

The Government Should Revise Its Plans for the Postoffice Ramp As the Experts Suggest.

The United States government is preparing to build a ramp for vehicles from the loading platform of the new postoffice to Seventh avenue near its intersection with the Bigelow boulevard.

One thousand vehicles will use the ramp daily, and authorities on traffic matters in Pittsburgh assert that under the proposed arrangement they will seriously interfere with the flow of traffic in Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue.

Twenty thousand automobiles pass along the boulevard daily between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. Incessant watchfulness is required to assure a free flowing of this traffic. With a thousand additional vehicles passing into and out of the ramp at an important point of intersection an intolerable condition of congestion is threatened.

Mayor Herron, the City Council, the City Planning Commission and others who have studied the problem recommend that instead of building the ramp as proposed the government adopt a by-pass plan which calls for a ramp that would bridge Seventh avenue.

It is estimated that it would cost $2,132,000. Expensive as the job would be, it is the government's duty to spend the money rather than create a condition of traffic congestion which not only would seriously embarrass the people of Pittsburgh but would interfere with the efficient operation of the postoffice.

The government will find another reason for embarking on the project in the fact that it would facilitate the plan expressly set forth in the National Industrial Recovery Act to improve city highways so as to permit autoists to detour around the congested areas.

Pittsburghers who have influence with the administration at Washington might render the city the service of urging this change in the ramp plans.

Federal School Aid

The Government Should Respond Promptly to the Appeal for Help for Education.

That the public school system will have to be included at once in the federal public works program, if "irreparable damage" is to be averted, is the conviction expressed by the National Conference on the Financing of Education in its sessions at Columbia University.

A formal report, prepared by a distinguished group and representing the conclusions of an exhaustive nation-wide survey, said:

"The present emergency in education calls for immediate action. In the United States today there are tens of thousands of boys and girls whose opportunity for education has been denied or greatly decreased on account of the depression.

"The situation calls for measures which will guarantee a reasonable provision of education for children and young people throughout the United States.

"The states and localities are in large measure helpless. Private resources are also crippled.

"The federal government MUST COME to the aid of the public schools."

The conference reports asks that $300,000,000 be apportioned out of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund to be applied to the construction throughout the country of NECESSARY school plants.

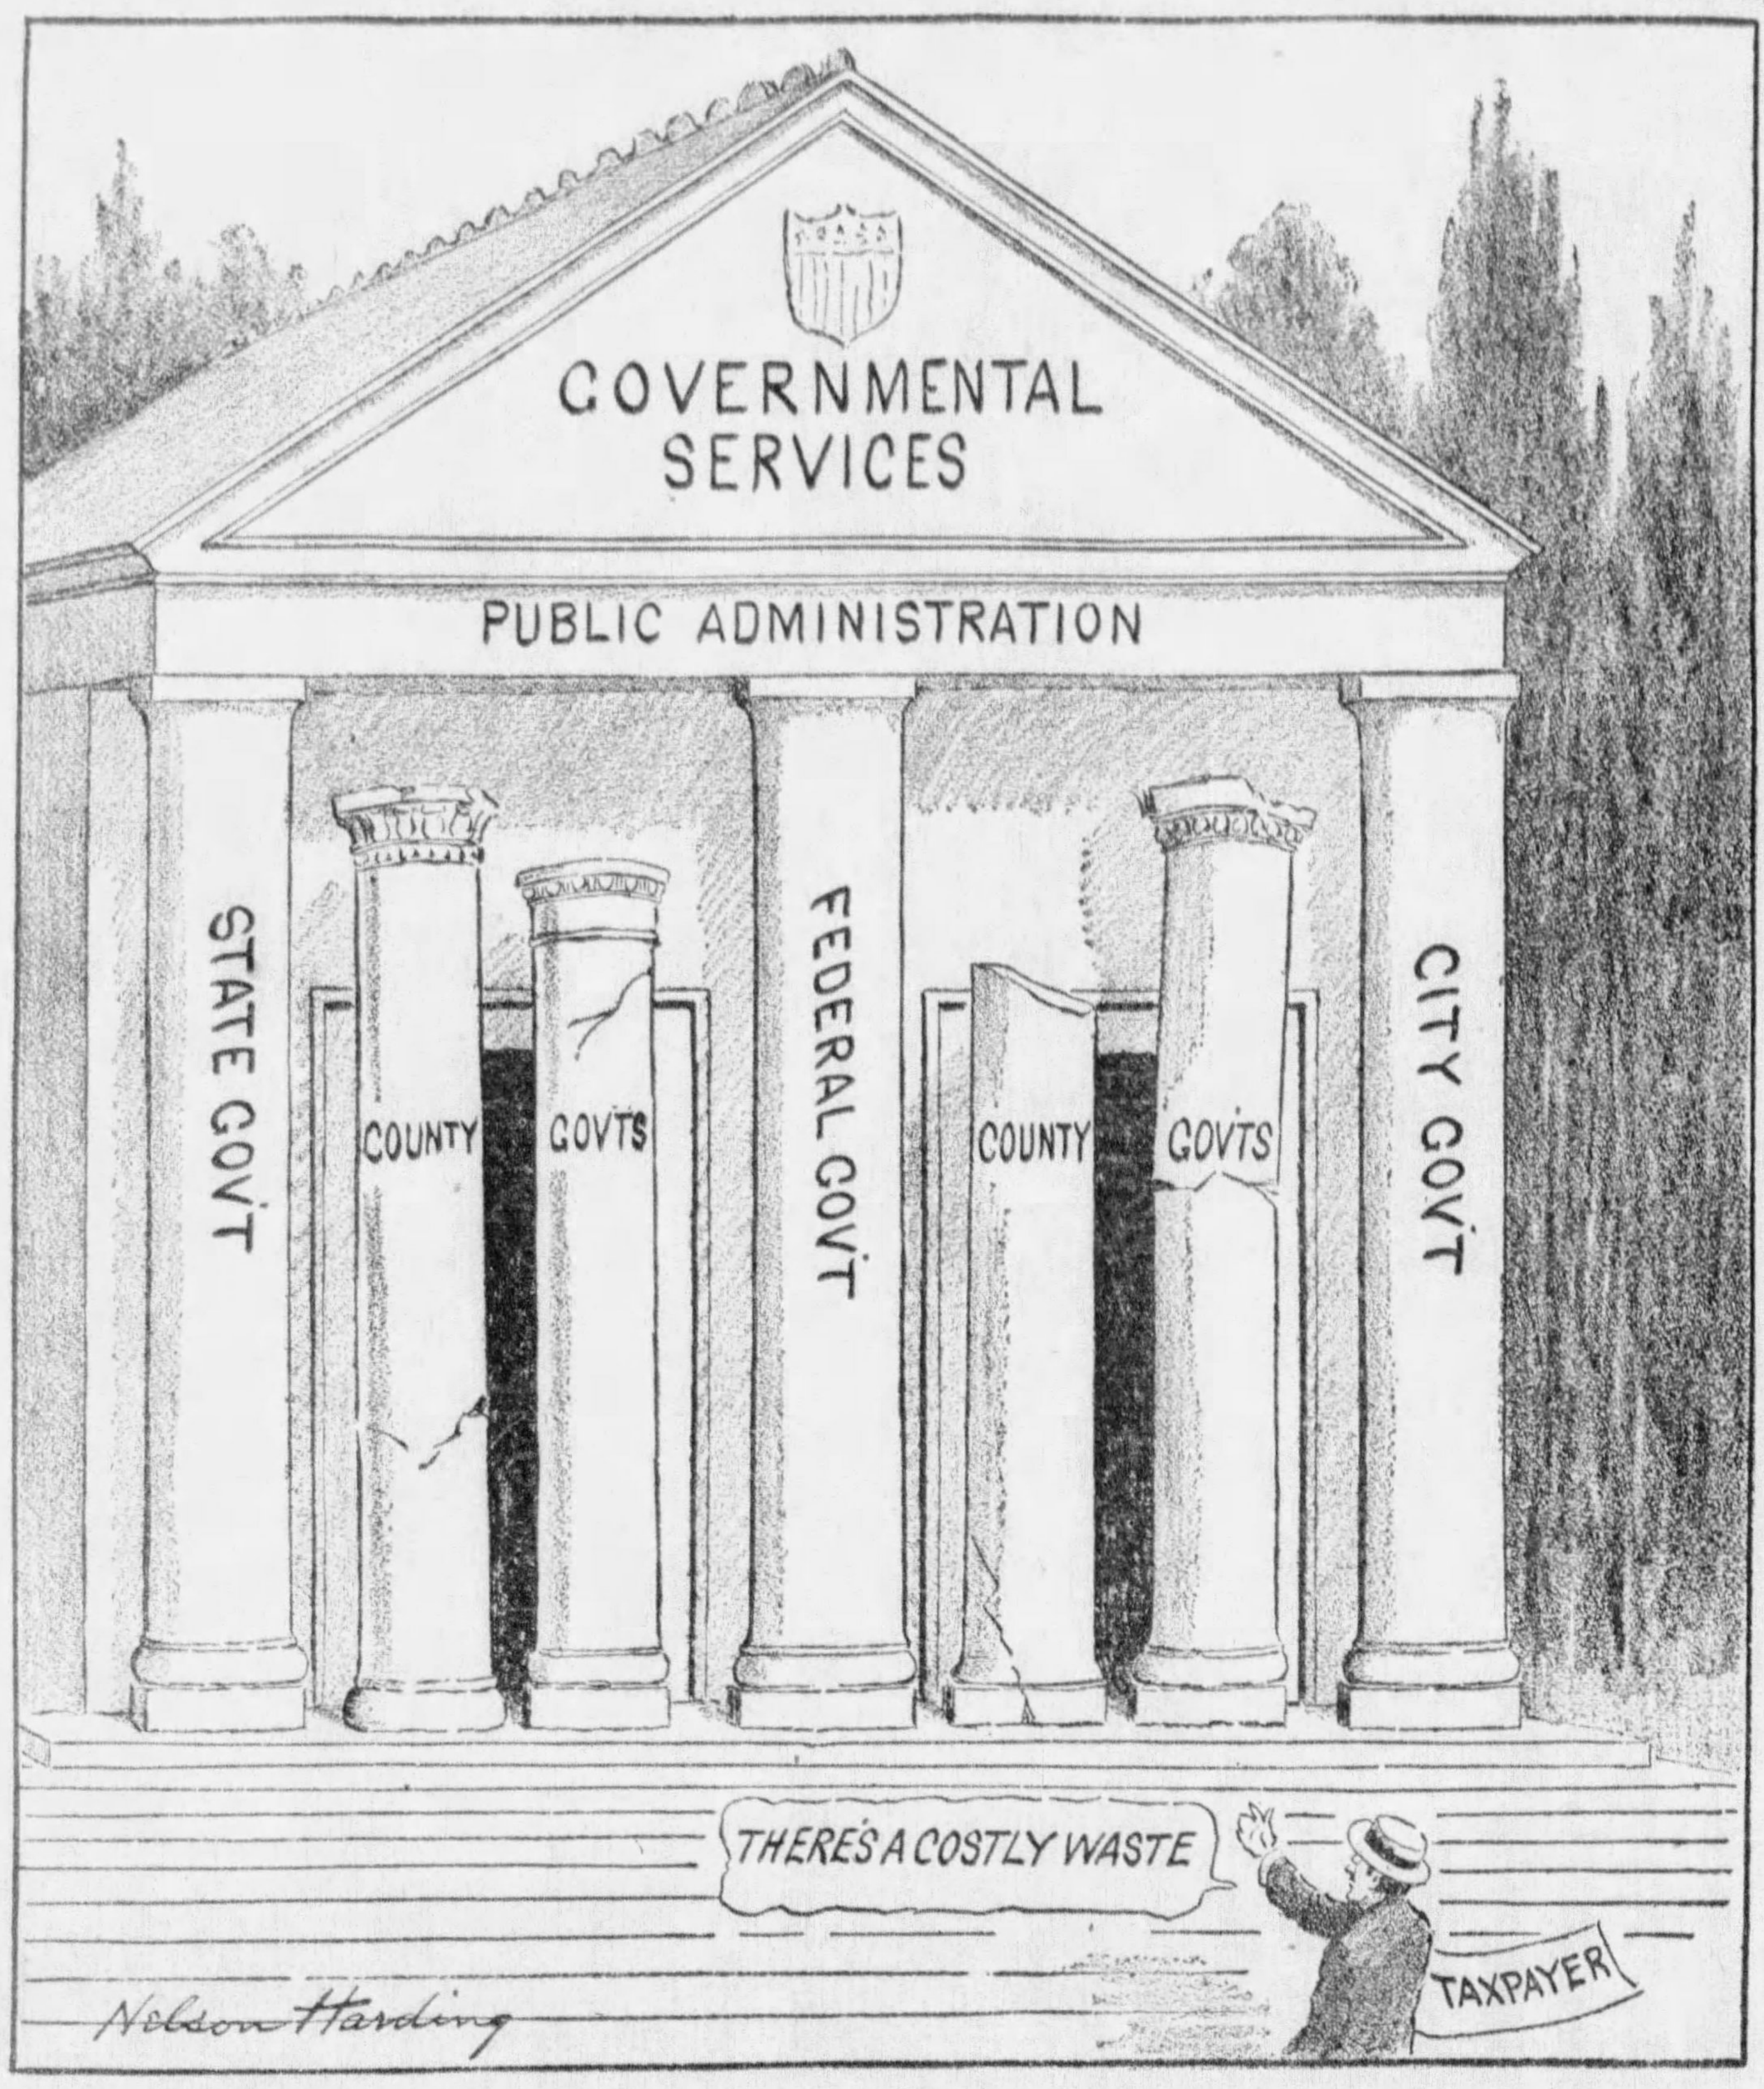
Surveys have shown that school terms have been curtailed in most of the states, schoolhouses are falling into disrepair, and new building has almost ceased—at a time when abolition of child labor and other causes are greatly increasing the actual school population.

Unless these conditions are checked without delay, the demoralizing effects will be felt by the nation for years to come.

The federal government ought to give immediate response to the despairing educators' appeal.

Useless Pillars

By Nelson Harding



Quite superfluous and costly
Are unnecessary pillars,
Making porticos too crowded,
Cluttering our public buildings.

They do not support the structure
Which requires but three pillars.
All the others are not needed
And could well be done away with.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Love Racketeers

When the modern man says, "Live your own life!", he means merely "Brighten up MY life—until I get tired of you." Or something to that effect.

* * *

The old-fashioned villain was more frank about it. He gritted his teeth and vowed to "GET the gel!"

* * *

And THAT, dear children, simply illustrates the difference between the "single" and the "double standard," so often and so widely discussed these days.

Y WILL BE MINE LITTLE GEL

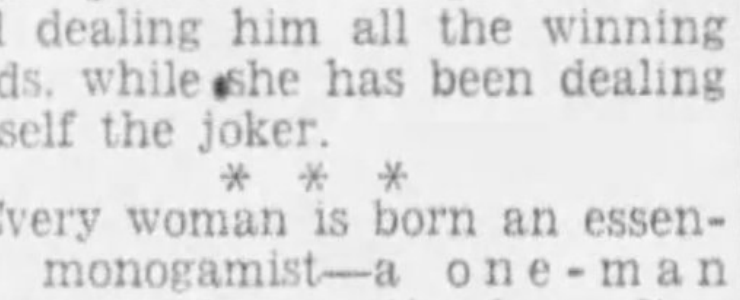
Woman thought she was attaining a great "right" when she helped herself to the right to experiment with love. Now she is beginning to wonder if she wasn't doing herself a great wrong. For more than a decade she has been handing man all the good breaks and dealing him all the winning cards, while she has been dealing herself the joker.

* * *

Every woman is born an essential monogamist—a one-man woman; and no matter how often she may experiment with love or marriage, she is always seeking for the ONE MAN and the one genuine, ideal love. She is never satisfied or content, until or unless she finds these.

* * *

The modern man is awfully strong for what he calls "the single standard" until he happens to fall seriously in love. Then, all of a sudden, he ceases to be "modern" and becomes as old-fashioned as a tallow-dip and as primitive as Adam. He wants HIS woman to be a one-man woman!



BUT I'M IN LOVE WITH YOU— YOU CAN'T GO OUT WITH OTHER MEN

There must have been something, after all, in those quaint old Victorian ideals and codes, just as there was in those quaint old Victorian remedies. That onion-syrup your grandmother poured down your throat and that mutton-tallow she rubbed on your chest CURED you of what ailed you.

* * *

And that old-fashioned feminine code of one-man love certainly brought the average girl more peace and happiness, got her to the altar more quickly and safely and kept her husband more steadfast than the Mexican divorce idea or the companionate marriage "racket."

* * *

It's splendid to "know life" and to be clear-eyed and sophisticated. But you don't have to commit murder or to go to jail or to join a band of racketeers and shoplifters, to know what crime is. And you don't have to experiment with love to find out what love is.

* * *

Love is something at which no woman can PLAY without getting burned fingers and a badly scorched soul!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Prize fights are doubtless the nearest brutality to bull fights in this country, yet I find myself suddenly liking them. Perhaps because at the Carnera-Sharkey swat I rubbed elbows with old associates of whom I am fond and so seldom see.

In front Grantland Rice with a green eyeshade, pecking at a typewriter. On one side Rube Goldberg and on the other Francis Albertanti, clenching a big fat cigar. We were co-slaves on the same paper years ago. All graying now, we sat tense watching two half-naked men, hitting, gasping, reeling.

I believe it's the crowd that fascinates with their swift murmurs, sudden silences and sharp uproars. The man next seat wore a big badge, held a watch and seemed important. A cop routed him by a collar yank and thumb-jerked toward the bleachers. The important gentleman was a crasher.

I started to turn my head when I saw the king-kongish Carnera's uppercut land. But something brutal and primitive riveted my gaze on Sharkey as he crumpled like a marionette at the end of a cut string. Face on the resin, his legs twitched, and he was still. Disgustingly thrilling!

* * *

I hear Clare Boothe Brokaw, aesthetic attendant of prize fights, rarely sees a blow struck, closing her eyes at the beginning of each round and opening them at the close. She enjoys the roars and electric excitement.

* * *

Down a verdant path in Central Park I came upon a tearful rose-bud seeking her lost little brother. I assured her we would find him and set off hand in hand. Upon inquiring his description, she explained between sobs: "He's 7, going on 8, is in 2-A, and is vaccinated." Despite the vague description, we found him watching a baseball game while having an affair with a double deck ice cream cone.

* * *

A gay crowd of writing folk suddenly cast off for Iceland the other week—Edna Ferber and her sister Fannie, the Ralph Pulitzers, the Arthur Samuelses, Allison Smith and one-l-only Russel Crouse, and the Marc Connelleys. Many cross-the-ocean jaunts this summer had the same spontaneity. Some one cries: "Let's!" And away they go. In this instance some one telephoned Russel Crouse from Hollywood suggesting the trip. He phoned the others and they met at the pier.

* * *

Russel Crouse and Allison Smith are of the married litrati maintaining separate menages in the manner of Fanny Hurst and Jacques Danielson. Only in the Crouse-Smith alliance their apartments are in the same building but on different floors. They arrange engagements together over the telephone.

* * *

The current "life of the party" in what Hollywood calls the better cinema circles is Donald Ogden Stewart, writer, scenarist and quondam actor. His particular brand of brouhaha is said to be as unpredictably mirthful as Charlie Chaplin's. And when they team together everybody simply dies—ho, ho.

* * *

The Prince of Wales is definitely considering an incognito trip to America which will have a double royal angle. While here the ex-King Alfonso may drop over, casual like. They have hit many high spots tandem in Paris, Madrid and on the Riviera. To come together would furnish unfounded political significance. Anyway, the trip is being buzzed about the Savoy and Claridge's. The Prince in mellower moments looks on his last visit to the States as one of his happiest. He went places, saw and did things the public did not know about. Such as Harlem with the lid off, private roadhouse parties that outdid 32 rue Blondell, etc., etc. He has not forgotten.

* * *

Michael Arlen has made the most graceful of all exits from the literary picture. He had one shining fistful of literary tricks, all cut to the "Green Hat" pattern. He dazzled the public with them and, realizing he had no power of diffusion, quit. No amount of entreaties will interest him in writing a novel, short story or play.

* * *

I like a burlesque producer's way of handling charity bequests. On small note-paper he writes: "I'm honored by your request for a check just received and beg to subscribe—here the reader has to turn over the leaf—myself your well wisher."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Don't kid yourself about this New Deal.

It isn't an emergency measure. It isn't a generous gesture which is going to fix up a little temporary slump . . . make everybody comfortable . . . usher back the Good Old Times.

The New Deal isn't a gesture, at all. It's the beginning of a NEW ERA . . . A NEW LINE-UP IN HUMAN RELATIONS.

And you might as well face the fact right now—

IT ISN'T GOING TO MAKE ANYONE COMFORTABLE . . .

AND THE "GOOD OLD TIMES" ARE NEVER, NEVER COMING BACK!

The Good Old Times aren't ever coming back because they can't come back. The human race has outgrown them. There are too many people now. Too many machines. Life has become too fast, too complicated. It isn't possible, any more, for you to "live your life" or for me to "live my life" regardless of the rest of the human race. We may have every selfish, egotistical desire to develop our own careers, regardless of the other fellow's. But no matter how determined our selfishness or how ruthless our egotism—WE CAN'T GET BY WITH IT!

THE DAY HAS COME WHEN WE MUST BE OUR BROTHER'S KEEPER WHETHER WE LIKE IT OR NOT.

FOR IF WE DON'T KEEP HIM HE WON'T KEEP US . . . AND THERE'LL BE THE DEVIL TO PAY ALL AROUND.

This isn't Brotherly Love. It's biological brass tacks.

Why have we come out of the Good Old Times? Because those Good Old Times became too small to hold our growing need. Things began to pinch . . . things began to fester and fight there in the darkness of our small, private programs—LIFE WANTED OUT . . . AND OUT LIFE CAME!

And now where do we go from here? We go into plenty of danger and discomfort—as the race has always gone when it took a step ahead.

AND IT'S GOING TO BE TOUGH ON EVERYONE!

For even if, by some magic, every man could have a job tomorrow and every debt could be canceled, that wouldn't put us back where grandpa was. For the New Deal implies more than getting new jobs . . . it implies getting new thoughts, new attitudes, new programs for every department of our lives . . . or those new jobs won't last long enough for us to sign the payroll.

Meaning exactly what? Meaning that slowly, but surely, the Rest of the Gang, are going to have a say about everything you do, everything you have. What you earn . . . how you earn it . . . what you eat and wear . . . where you buy it . . . your family life, your marriage, your fitness for either . . . how you train your child . . . how you keep your home . . . what you save . . . what you spend on yourself and on your needier neighbor . . . slowly but surely, these erstwhile "personal problems" will become matters for national concern.

"Private rights" . . . are going . . . going . . . ALMOST GONE! Presently we will recognize but one right—HUMAN RIGHT. AND THE PERSON WHO ISN'T WILLING TO PLAY BALL ON THAT SCHEDULE WILL BE JUST OUT OF LUCK!

So—what? Do get busy! Stop waiting for the old times to get back. Begin studying these new times . . . these new ideas . . . these new needs. Thank God you're living in the swellest era that the world has ever seen, but don't kid yourself that it's going to be any snap. Watch Washington dish it out—

AND THEN BE A SPORT AND TAKE IT!

The Secret of the Mona Lisa Smile—A Mathematical Explanation—Versatility of Leonardo da Vinci

By EDWIN C. HILL

SCIENCE has numbered the stars in their courses and set up traffic lights along the Milky Way. Science has dissected the rose to its last velvety filament. Science has weighed the sunlight and drained it of its colors and chemicals. But all of the passion for exactness which fires these seekers after the hidden secrets of Nature cannot alter or minimize the majesty of the eternal celestial parade, nor add or detract from the glory of the sun or tell us why a rose smells so sweet.

And now comes one who is an artist, not a scientist, to explain by mathematics and geometry a mystery which has haunted the imagination of mankind for 400 years—the secret of the smile of La Gioconda, the baffling and bewitching smile of Mona Lisa.

Many have stood, as I have stood, in that gallery of the old masters in the greatest of all art museums, the Louvre in Paris, and marvelled over the mystery of that smiling woman's face—intrigued by the enigmatic curve of the lovely lips, and the bewitching, elusive smile in the lovely eyes. And the question which rises in the mind of everyone who stands before that little painting, that tiny treasure of humanity, no bigger than a napkin, is: "what thought lies behind Mona Lisa's smile?" What is the beautiful lady of Florence thinking about? What is the secret of that strange, elusive, inexplicable smile?

* * *

The World's Most Famous Smile

DR. MAURICE GOLDBLATT, celebrated art critic of Chicago, steps forth in the news to tell us that the most famous of all smiles—the smile which has become a synonym for woman's witchery upon man—was the result of a geometrical trick worked by the greatest mind the world has ever known, with few exceptions. For the artist, Leonardo da Vinci, achieved that Mona Lisa smile by tilting the lips of the portrait so that the ends curving in a complete circle, would just touch the outer corners of the eyes if the circle were completed. The arc of another circle forms the outline of the graceful head and this second circle is exactly twice the diameter of the first.

Dr. Goldblatt tells us that the effect of the two circles is to cause Mona Lisa's eyes to focus upon her lips, thus creating the illusion of mystery, of hidden thought, of something in Mona Lisa's mind that is hers alone through all eternity. It may be true enough, though it alters by not one thrill of delight, the lovely enigma of the painted face.

The great Leonardo was a master mathematician and engineer, as well as a master painter, one of the great geniuses produced in 10,000 years by the mind of man struggling toward divinity. He was the illegitimate son of a merchant and a peasant, and lived 67 full and remarkable years from 1452 until 1519. His other great masterpiece is the painting of "The Last Supper" which is tragically fading upon the plaster wall of a little church in the city of Milan.

Of these two paintings, Mona Lisa and The Last Supper, the world will never tire as long as a fragment of either remains. But behind them is the painter's own marvelous career, the career of a tremendous thinker whose versatility was astounding and whose imagination was boundless.

* * *

His Discoveries In Science

HE GLIMPSED the secret of the circulation of the blood. He deduced the law of gravitation before there dropped upon the head of the astronomer, Newton, the apple which revolutionized science. He discovered the effect of the moon upon the tides. He was the inventor of the wheelbarrow and of the spring hinge. He not only foresaw the airplane but tried to build one. He designed an automobile to be propelled by springs and gears—and all this 400 years ago.

He was a sculptor fit to grasp the hand of Michael Angelo. He was an architect who dreamed of the great cities we know today. He was a marvelous military engineer and served under Caesar Borgia in the Italian wars. In his declining years he turned his superhuman talents to study and painting. His Mona Lisa was a living woman, the third wife of a Florentine gentleman, Francesco del Giocondo, in the days of the Medicis. Whatever trick of geometry he may have employed, the great Leonardo perceived, behind the eyes of that beautiful Florentine, the secret of femininity, of woman's lure for man, of woman's amused tolerance for man.

It took him four years to paint the portrait, and the legend is that he employed minstrels to play during the sittings. Mona Lisa is owned by France today and not by Italy because, in his old age, Leonardo became an exile from the land of his birth and went to Paris to serve King Francis I, of France.

Twenty years ago the painting was cut from its frame and stolen from the Louvre by a workman named Vincenzo Perugia, who gave as his reason for the theft which startled the world that he wanted the portrait to go back to Italy, where it belonged. Two years later it was returned to the Louvre on condition that Perugia be spared from punishment.

WIFE CONTENTED

By Winifred Black

She's pretty—dear me how pretty she is, and she's young, and she has a light heart and she has a good looking young husband and rather a darling of a little boy. She's swimming through deep water right now, and swimming well, let me tell you, with her eyes bright and her strong young arms making exactly the right kind of a stroke at exactly the right minute.

Her husband had quite a bit of money for a while and they lived in great comfort and some luxury, the three of them.

Big apartment, good rugs, fine, well made furniture, a good cook in the kitchen, a maid at the door, a good car, plenty of pretty clothes and oodles of gay friends. Just oodles and oodles of them.

Then Tiffin lost every dollar he had, all at once, just like that!

Out of a fine apartment they went—just like that, too. Away went the big car. The two maids disappeared, like dew before the sunlight, and all that was left were Tiffin, Tiffinee, and Tiffinette and quite a few good clothes. They found a cheap little flat and moved into it and glory or glories, Tiffin got a job.

Not much of a job, but still—a job, with $20 a week or so coming in on pay day, and they go to the neighborhood movies and take a stroll around the block in the evening and they seem to be not so badly off after all.

There's an awfully interesting couple in the same flat building. He plays the violin and she sings—met in Munich, don't you know, speaks German and French. And he can make the most delectable Welch rarebits you ever tasted. There's a distinguished old gentleman in an upper flat, too. He plays the piano and paints pictures and they go up to his studio for a salad or what not, now and then.

Tiffinee says she never knew there were such interesting people in the world before.

And all at once one of the fine friends came to see Tiffinee.

"You're much too pretty and too clever to wash dishes and fry bacon in a stuffy flat. Tiffin may get on his feet again and he may not, now I've come to you with a proposition.

"I'll finance you to a trip abroad, get your clothes and your ticket and everything, and on the steamer or on some of the trains or in one of the hotels, you'll meet someone with money—sure to, then you divorce Tiffin and begin to live again.

"What if the someone is married. He'll probably be tired of his wife by the time he's made a pot of money—and there you are."

"Oh," said Tiffinee, "I'm afraid I'm quite hopeless. Tiffin is rather like morphine and you see I've got the habit."

When the fine friend had gone Tiffinee cried a little and then she began to laugh.

And between you and me, just what would you call this particular fine friend, if you had a chance to call her anything?
